M'DONALD, FREE OF OPPOSITION, MAPS PROGRAM

Stampede Wipes Out His Radical Foes.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(Thursday.)—Prime Minister MacDonald went to Buckingham palace this morning for a conference with King George.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Ramsay MacDonald has won the British election by a landslide never before known in British politics. The Labor party has simply disappeared. The National party is in a position to do anything it pleases, and there will be practically no opposition in parliament. What opposition there is will be without leadership.

GEORGE LONSBURY [A. P. Photo.]

Every member of the late Labor cabinet except old George Lansbury, who never was regarded as a serious politician, has gone down in crushing defeat. The men who quit the Labor party and led in the formation of the national government received the most emphatic indorsement from the people ever known in Britain.

MacDonald Himself Wins.

Prime Minister MacDonald himself scored a tremendous personal triumph. Fighting alone and without the organization in the strongest Socialist district in Britain, he won at Seaham Harbor, turning a Socialist majority of 28,000 two years ago into a personal majority of 6,000.

His son, Malcolm, who followed him out of the Labor party and fought in his old constituency, Bassetlaw, turned a Socialist majority of 7,000 two years ago into a personal majority of 13,000.

All the force and talent of the Socialist party was concentrated in these two districts in an effort to teach the MacDonalds, father and son, the lesson of fate in store for deserters.

Majority of 496.

With only seven more results to be declared, the makeup of the new house of commons at midnight tonight was as follows:

The national government has a majority of 496, made up of 470 Conservatives, 68 National Liberals, 14 National Laborites, and five independents, a total of 552. The opposition is composed of 52 Socialists and four Lloyd George Liberals, a total of 56. The Lloyd George party includes four members of the veteran's own family—himself, his daughter, Megan, and his son, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George.

MacDonald Plunges Into Work.

Prime Minister MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, left Seaham Harbor this morning before the result of the poll there was announced. They flew to London, where Mr. MacDonald plunged at once into work in his office. A cabinet meeting has been summoned for tomorrow, when plans for the work of reconstruction so sorely needed in Britain will be discussed.

It is believed that MacDonald and his associates have a complete plan almost ready for parliament, which may open Nov. 3 for organization, but which will not get down to business until June 10, when it is formally opened by King George.

May See King Today.

It was reported tonight that MacDonald will see the king tomorrow and consult him about a reorganization of the cabinet.

Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, has retired from parliament and is going to the house of lords, and his place must be filled. Neville Chamberlain has been mentioned as the new chancellor.

A place must be found also for Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal leader, and it is considered likely that Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the free trade Liberals, although he is supporting the government, will decline responsibility for the economist policy and will resign to the position of a friendly critic.

The anti men of Clydeside, who are pacifists and internationalists, are nearly all out. Ramsay J. MacDonald, J. Maxton and J. McGovern have their seats. William Graham, who was stated by the Socialists to succeed Philip Snowden as chancellor of the exchequer, will have an opportunity for the next five years to look after his private finances.

JUDGE STRIKES A BLOW AT BAIL HOPE OF CAPONE

Assails Gang; Gives D'Andrea 6 Months.

"This band [the Capone gang] exercises a coercive influence over those with whom it comes in contact, which is nothing less than insurrection against the laws of the United States. The activities of this gang were a menace to the court and its officers, and to the due administration of justice."

This statement was delivered from the federal bench yesterday by Judge James H. Wilkerson in a denunciatory broadside against Al Capone and his allies as he sentenced the convicted gangster's bodyguard, Philip D'Andrea to six months in the county jail for contempt of court. D'Andrea's sentence resulted from his carrying a loaded revolver into court during Capone's trial for income tax evasion.

Viewed as Blow at Bail Hope

Federal prosecutors regarded Judge Wilkerson's statement as a blow at whatever slender hope Al Capone has of being freed from jail on bail pending the consideration of his case by the United States Circuit court of appeals.

Since Capone's sentence to 11 years in prison was imposed by Judge Wilkerson, his attorneys, Michael Ahern and Albert Fink, have intimated they might decide to go before Justice Willis Van Devanter of the Supreme court in Washington with a request for bail. In that event it was indicated that Judge Wilkerson's opinion would be forwarded to Attorney General William D. Mitchell at Washington for use in opposing the bail plea.

Opinion among federal prosecutors last night was that the Wilkerson statement would be a serious setback to any Supreme court move by Capone because it would reveal Judge Wilkerson's substantial reasons for his refusal to grant bail pending appeal. As a result of the refusal of bail both by Judge Wilkerson and later by the Appellate court, Capone is held in the county jail without credit on his sentence for the time he stays there.

D'Andrea Gets a Stay.

Judge Wilkerson's sentencing of D'Andrea was followed by a successful plea for the gun bearer that he be given a two weeks' stay. The request was made by Attorney Ahern who promised to return D'Andrea to the custody of the United States marshal at the end of that time. D'Andrea's mother is seriously ill, Ahern said, and would not go to a hospital unless her son personally urged her to do so.

From the courtroom D'Andrea went to the jail for his personal effects and was given his watch and keys and the $25 taken from him on Oct. 19 when he was arrested in Judge Wilkerson's courtroom with the revolver in his belt. He had been a prisoner since then.

The gun, a Municipal court deputy bailiff's star, west park police "courtesy" cards, and a penciled memorandum requesting the transfer of a policeman to the detective bureau were not returned to him. Police Commissioner Allman has said he wishes to talk to D'Andrea about the memorandum.

Threatens Photographer.

D'Andrea quit the jail with a show of temper. As he stepped from the door a photographer sought his picture.

"Why don't you guys lay off me?" D'Andrea snarled.

"This is my job," retorted the cameraman.

"Well, maybe they'll find you lying in the street some day," muttered D'Andrea as he hurried down the walk to the Criminal Courts building, where he joined Attorney Ahern.

The departure of D'Andrea left Capone to his own devices in the hospital ward cell which gang master and man have shared since Capone was locked up on Saturday following the reading of his sentence. Deprived of the companionship of his kind, Capone gave up solitaire for literature, sending to the jail library for some books.

The D'Andrea Sentence.

Judge Wilkerson sentenced D'Andrea after he had cleared his court call of other matters. On Tuesday he had heard the evidence, listening to D'Andrea's plea that, because he was once a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court [he insists that he still is] he

TOKIO ACCEPTS PLAN FOR ARMS HOLIDAY WITH RESERVATIONS

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A Reuters agency dispatch from Tokio today said Japan has accepted the league of nations' plan for a year's holiday on armaments, on condition that it does not affect plans already authorized and that neighboring states, especially those not members of the league, also agree.

Netherlands Accepts Plan.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The government of the Netherlands today decided to accept the league of nations proposal for a one year armaments holiday.

The disarmament committee of the league of nations on Sept. 28 adopted a resolution calling on the governments to declare a one year truce in the building of armaments from Nov. 1. It was addressed to those nations which plan to participate in the disarmament conference in Geneva next February. The plan was sponsored by the Italian delegates.

WOMAN FELLED AS SHE DRAWS GUN ON ROBBERS

For the first time in her life, Mrs. Emma McCann held a revolver in her hand last night. She pointed it at two armed men who were menacing her husband, Edward, and a patron in their drug store at 2000 Addison street.

Mrs. McCann had seen the robbers enter, and had secreted herself behind the prescription cage, holding the gun. She failed to see a third bandit, however. Before she could press the trigger of her gun, the third man crept behind her, and with one blow knocked her unconscious to the floor.

The first two bandits then robbed the druggist of $200 and his customer of $15, and took them to the basement. The robber who had struck Mrs. McCann tried to revive her until his confederates appeared from the basement and the three fled.

LOSES $16,000 AT MONTE CARLO AND THEN KILLS SELF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Oct. 28.—The body of Clayton Davenport, 34, a London business man who was well known in American circles here, was discovered early today on a bench near the gambling casino with a bullet hole in the right temple. Police investigation revealed that Davenport probably killed himself in the gardens of the casino. Somebody, they said, carried the body to the bench and left $4 in one of the pockets. Davenport is reported to have lost $16,000 at the casino gaming tables.

Outline Ten Plans to Give Jobless Aid

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Ten recommendations, representing a national plan of campaign against unemployment and economic depression, were submitted today to Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization on unemployment relief by Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, chairman of the committee on employment plans and suggestions.

H. A. WHEELER. [Kaufman Photo.]

The recommendations were adopted by the Wheeler committee in Chicago yesterday after two months of research.

The recommendations were as follows:

1. United national action to encourage persons now employed to buy goods, in the replacement of which labor is employed. The Wheeler committee declared that the resumption of normal buying is "precedent to any hopeful program constructively to increase employment."

Cautions About Credits.

2. Reestablishment of public confidence in the financial and credit structure of the country. In this connection the committee recommended further steps to "unfreeze" frozen credits but advised against broadening the eligibility clause of the federal reserve act, declaring that such a move "may have a tendency to undermine public confidence in the absolute security of federal reserve currency.

3. A liberal and encouraging attitude on the part of the bankers of the country toward the credit requirements of their average customer. The committee suggested that in considering extension of credit lines, bankers "might give weight to broad conditions influencing credit reports and to the related interests of the country and the general public."

4. Spreading of available work in industrial, commercial, and professional enterprises. This, according to the committee, "is the most fruitful field for immediate unemployment relief."

Oppose "Double Employment."

5. Officers of the federal government should make an appraisal of the facts in their departments with a view to the elimination of two incomes in one family. The committee pointed out that in many cases women employed in government services have husbands whose earnings are sufficient for normal requirements, and that there are a number of teachers holding down regular day assignments and teaching in night schools at the same time.

6. Making immediately available new additional employment by public work already authorized and appropriated for but delayed or blocked by removal of legal obstacles and supervisory red tape.

7. Providing part time employment where possible to "white collar" workers. The committee declared that "in its toll of human suffering, the impact of the depression has fallen most severely on this class."

Community Responsibility.

8. Consideration of the personal and community responsibilities of each worker in spreading employment. Married and single men with dependents, according to the committee should be given preference.

9. Community and district surveys to determine the extent of work available.

10. As a special emergency measure for this winter, a survey of the possibility for transfer of surplus labor from cities to farms on a work-for-keep or other basis, with a view to supplying needed help in agrarian sections and to relieving pressure upon urban relief agencies.

FIVE GUNMEN DRAW CURTAIN; HOLD UP BOUL. MICH SHOP

Five bandits, who hid their operations by pulling down a front window curtain, held up the Mitzi frock shop at 342 North Michigan avenue last night, and after menacing a dozen women patrons and a number of employés escaped with $1,000.

The robbers burst into the shop with guns drawn. The leader calmed the frightened women and then pulled down the shade to prevent boulevard strollers and motorists from witnessing the holdup. One man, armed with a shotgun, stood at the doorway.

His companions herded the customers into one corner and the employés into another. As the robbers started away David Berke, 3722 Douglas boulevard, the manager, entered. He was overpowered.

Boy, 8, Dies of Injuries Received in Football Game

Kenneth Dreischner, 8 years old, 5547 Henderson street, died in St. Anne's hospital yesterday of injuries suffered while playing football. His skull had been fractured. Kenneth and a group of other playmates, pupils at the Peter Reinberg school, organized a neighborhood game Oct. 22. Running with the ball, Kenneth was tackled and in falling his head struck the sidewalk.

Save Mother, Two Children in Fiery Trap

An amateur chemist was instantly killed, another man was critically injured, and a wife and her two children were trapped by flames last night when a fuel mixture with which the chemist was experimenting exploded and demolished a combination garage and dwelling in the rear of 4454 Greenwood avenue.

The man killed was Emil Schoenberger, 40 years old, chauffeur for Walter C. Peacock, secretary-treasurer of C. D. Peacock, Inc., the State street jewelers. His friend, Robert Posi, 35 years old, janitor of the Peacock residence at 5120 Hyde Park boulevard, suffered first degree burns and a fractured leg.

Tosses Children to Safety.

Schoenberger's wife, Elsie, 40 years old, and her two children, Marie, 7 years old, and William, 3, were surrounded by flames, which swept their apartment above the garage. They were saved from death when the mother tossed the children into the arms of a police sergeant below, then leaped and was caught without injuring herself.

Mr. Peacock, whose residence is several blocks from the scene of the blast, has rented the garage for the last four years from William H. Tuthill, president of the Tuthill Spring company, whose home stands on the same lot. Unknown to Mr. Peacock, the chauffeur had been experimenting for months with a highly combustible compound intended to increase the power of automobile fuel.

Last week the chauffeur obtained a patent on the compound.

Ready for Another Test.

Schoenberger's friend, Posi, stopped in about 9:30 p. m., as was his habit. Mrs. Schoenberger, having put the children to bed, was reading a magazine in the living room upstairs.

The chauffeur was underneath the engine of the car and Posi was making some adjustment with the tubes when the blast came. Its force shattered dozens of windows in the neighborhood and blew out the doors of the garage.

Posi, his face and hands scorched by fire and his trousers aflame, clambered out a window, fracturing one leg as he tumbled to the ground. Schoenberger, pinned to the floor by the engine, was almost incinerated by the fire.

Family Is Rescued.

Meanwhile Mrs. Schoenberger leaned from the upstairs living room window, screaming. Police Sergeant James McLaughlin and his squad, having heard the blast as they cruised north in Greenwood avenue at 46th street, were on the scene.

"Keep cool, lady," the sergeant cautioned. "Step clear of the fire and jump. I'll catch you."

"My children!" the woman screamed. "There're here with me. I won't leave them."

"Throw them down," the sergeant commanded.

The mother obeyed. She dropped her daughter first, the child alighting in the sergeant's arms without injury. Then the boy dropped. He, too, was unhurt. The mother's jump, a distance of nearly twenty feet, was broken by the sergeant and Dr. Foley, who caught her partly in their locked arms.

Posi was taken to the Chicago hospital. The nature of the fuel compound could not be learned last night.

ALDERMEN VOTE $4,650,000 FOR SCHOOL WAGES

Employes Will Get Checks Tomorrow.

Chicago school employés will get a month's pay tomorrow, the first cash they have had since May 1. The checks will be mailed this afternoon. This announcement followed the city council finance committee's action last evening in approving the purchase of $4,650,000 worth of board of education tax warrants with city funds.

The city council must first ratify the action of its committee, and Mayor Cermak has summoned it to a special session at 10 o'clock this morning. The mayor last night drafted a message to the council urging the advances of funds to the school board. Aldermen asserted that there was no doubt of the approval being granted by the council, possibly by a unanimous vote, as the measure was passed in committee.

Apportionment of Funds.

The ordinance approved by the finance committee authorizes the purchase of $8,750,000 worth of 1931 tax warrants with cash from the city's aggregate of funds. The purchases will be apportioned as follows: $4,650,000 to the school board; $3,450,000, enough to meet November pay rolls, to the city corporate fund; $330,000 to the firemen's pension fund; $220,000 to the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, and $100,000 to the public library.

The purchases of sanitarium and library fund warrants will enable those institutions to bring up to date their pay rolls, which are now a month in arrears.

School officials last night prepared to turn the cash over to the 18,000 employés of the system with the least possible delay, once the city council makes the funds available. At 1:30 p. m. today the board of education will resume a meeting recessed yesterday.

Checks Are Ready.

The board will immediately authorize the sale of tax warrants to the city, and then approve the September pay roll for the school system. The checks for that pay roll have already been drawn.

Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board, said last night that if no hitch comes in the council or board proceedings he will deliver the warrants to City Controller Szymczak, have the money transferred to board of education funds, and have the pay checks in the mail, directed to school principals and department heads, before this evening. The checks, under that schedule, will be in employés' hands by noon tomorrow.

Mayor Works on Plan.

City Treasurer Kearns on Tuesday pointed out the possibility of using city funds to aid the school employés. Mayor Cermak said yesterday that he had been working on a similar plan for the last ten days.

The money now in the city's aggregate of funds was all collected for other purposes than pay rolls, and it must eventually be repaid so that the public improvements and other projects for which it was intended may be carried out. The necessity of meeting other city obligations, and the prospects of replenishing the fund, occupied a large place in the finance committee discussion.

Give Figures on Funds.

The finance committee staff submitted figures showing that after the purchase on Tuesday of $3,300,000 worth of corporate fund tax warrants to meet the city's October pay rolls there remained $36,000,000 in cash in the aggregate of funds. The following obligations, which must be met from the fund by the first of the year, were listed:

Bond sinking fund payments	$ 1,900,000
Special assessment funds, which cannot be touched legally	13,000,000
Payments from water fund	4,000,000
Payments due on improvement work financed by bond issue	4,000,000
Street repairs, from vehicle tax fund	1,500,000
Interest due Jan. 1 on city bonds	2,900,000
Total	$27,300,000

After making allowance for these obligations, there remained $8,400,000 in the aggregate of funds which might be diverted to tax warrant purchases. The ordinance, as submitted to the committee, called for the purchase of $10,000,000 worth of warrants, but after considering the finance staff report, the committee agreed to allow one month's pay for all city and school employés, by which process the figure of $8,750,000 was reached.

Warning by Controller.

That purchase alone would more than drain the aggregate of funds of every penny, under the schedule submitted, by the first of the year. Controller Szymczak added a warning that if the city was unable to refund $9,000,000 worth of city bonds which fall due Jan. 1 it will be necessary to retire them from the aggregate of funds.

The pay roll action will make necessary the cessation until the first of the year of virtually all work on public improvement projects because of the temporary depletion of the bond funds financing them.

"But let the contractors wait a short time for their money," said Treasurer Kearns. "It is more important to pay the teachers and let them pay the small tradesmen who have been extending them credit for a month."

See Other Revenues.

In the face of the threatened cash deficit, members of the committee were quick to point out additional sources of revenue. The finance staff estimated that the city's collections of miscellaneous revenue for the remainder of the year would be $1,600,000.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] pointed out that collection of delinquent taxes for 1928 and 1929 are still being made. Victor S. Petterson, assistant controller, estimated that the city might expect between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 from that source in redemption of 1928 and 1929 tax warrants which it holds.

Ald. Arvey also suggested that public utility companies might be persuaded to advance the payments of franchise compensation, due the city Jan. 1.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] suggested that those corporations and other large taxpayers might be persuaded to follow the example of the Surface lines, which recently got permission from the federal court to purchase $2,250,000 worth of tax warrants from their reserve taxes.

Act to Sell Warrants.

The board of education yesterday took the final legal action necessary to place in operation the plan to sell $6,965,000 worth of 1930 school tax warrants, now held by the city, to obtain further pay roll funds for school employés.

The board passed a resolution raising the interest rate on the warrants from 4 to 6 per cent, to increase their salability.

MOVIE OPERATOR SEIZED FOR QUIZ ABOUT BOMBINGS

On orders of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, William Channell, 38 years old, 5404 South Turner avenue, a movie operator, was arrested at his home last evening and taken to the detective bureau.

Channell, an ex-convict, was seized for questioning in connection with the recent series of theater bombings, Schoemaker admitted. This is believed to be the first direct arrest in in the bombings.

The chief refused to elaborate on the matter, nor would Lieut. Charles Egan and Sergt. Peter Walsh, the arresting officers, comment. It was reported, however, that Channell was taken into custody following anonymous information that he could explain a good deal of the bombings. Five minutes after Channell was taken to the bureau, Attorney James McDermott of the law firm of Nash & Ahern, counsel for the operators' union, telephoned Chief Schoemaker and threatened to obtain a writ of habeas corpus unless Channell were released within a reasonable time.

Channell, police said, was released from Joliet prison in November, 1927. After his release he joined the operators' union, and later at various times belonged to the Joe Saltis beer gang, police said.

ARREST ROBBER WITH RECORD IN THREE COUNTRIES

David Lavine, 57 years old, an international thief with a police record in London, Paris, and Antwerp, was arrested last night while strolling near his rooming house at 1527 South Sawyer avenue and locked up on a federal warrant seeking his deportation to his birthplace, Kiev, Russia.

Lavine was last in trouble on July 22 at the Arlington Park race track, where he attempted to cash a $157 mutuel ticket stolen the previous afternoon. Lavine pleaded he had found the ticket and was discharged.

Since that time Inspector F. J. Lanigan of the federal immigration bureau learned that Lavine had served four years for burglary in London, three years for robbery in Antwerp, and a shorter term in Detroit for robbery. The arrest was made by Lieut. James O'Brien of the Fillmore station.

Irene Rich and Husband Confirm Estrangement

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Irene Rich, of the films, and her husband, David Blankenhorn, real estate man, today confirmed reports of their estrangement. Miss Rich said she had consulted attorneys and divorce action must be filed this week.

GOVERNOR GETS READY TO CALL EXTRA SESSION

Commission to Hear Plan for Relief Tomorrow.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Members of the general assembly received word from Springfield yesterday that Gov. Louis L. Emmerson is already drafting his call that will summon them into a special session which will have as its chief object the financial relief of the local governments of Cook county.

JOSEPH K. BRITTAIN. [Wallinger Photo.]

This fact was construed to mean that the governor expects prompt approval of the legislative program that is to be submitted to a plenary session of his revenue commission tomorrow morning and that as soon as he receives word of this favorable action he will issue the call, possibly the same day.

Argue Against Too Much Speed.

Under these circumstances, the earlier belief that the governor wants the session to get under way either next week or the following week was revived. It is understood, however, that the executive committee of the revenue commission, headed by Joseph K. Brittain, will argue against opening the session next week because it will not have its complete program drafted in the form of bills by that time.

These bills are not to be presented to the fifty members of the commission tomorrow. Instead Chairman Brittain will present a concise summary of the program, brief enough, he believes, for widespread publication.

"We feel confident," he said, "that when the complete program is understood it will meet with general approval. For that reason we are anxious that it be presented in its entirety instead of piecemeal."

Governor Authorizes Meeting.

Gov. Emmerson, it was learned, does not expect to attend the meeting in the Stevens hotel tomorrow. While he is the only one with authority to summon the entire commission together he empowered Chairman Brittain to use his name for this occasion. Because of the size of the room to be used for the gathering, accommodations have been provided only for the commission and the representatives of the press.

The drafting of the bills has been split up among several members of the executive committee and its experts. No statement has been made as to the number of measures that will be required, but it is understood there will be at least 20 bills to be considered by the legislature and it is estimated that the life of the extra session will be five weeks or more.

All copies of the Brittain committee's report were said yesterday to be under lock and key for safe keeping. There has been some protest against the secrecy up to this point, but the chairman and his associates continue to contend that premature publicity would have brought on damaging controversy.

$90,000,000 Tax Boost Doubted.

In spite of this secrecy, however, two bits of information considered cheering became public. One of them was the assertion that advance estimates that the relief program would entail increases in new forms of taxation amounting to $90,000,000 a year were extremely high. These new forms of levies under discussion have been a state income tax, an amusement tax and a tobacco tax.

The second piece of information was an assurance that the program does not include an increase in the gasoline tax.

With the likelihood of this form of increased levy on motor fuel out of the way, it is now understood that State Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet is contemplating introducing at the special session a bill to increase the gasoline tax one cent per gallon for charitable purposes. It is estimated this would bring in approximately $10,000,000 a year.

FIVE DEATHS IN AUTO ACCIDENTS MAKE TOLL 1,037

Two automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday raised the toll since Jan. 1 to 1,037. The victims:

John Richert, 60 years old, 4939 Kamerline avenue. Died at St. Anne's hospital from a skull fracture sustained Tuesday night when he was struck by an automobile in front of 442 North Cicero avenue. The driver, Harry Slacek, 2319 Wolfram street, was held.

Henry Young, 55 years old, 2536 Prairie avenue. Died at the Auburn Park hospital from internal injuries suffered Tuesday night when he was run down at 18th and State streets. The driver was Cebil Bailey, 1161 Larabee street.

Anthony Waslewiskis, 45 years old, 6108 South State street. Died at Washington Park hospital an hour after he was struck by a passenger bus when crossing the street near his home. The bus was driven by Clarence Johnson of Gary, Ind., who was not held by the police.

Jacob Sowa, 40 years old. Died at Holy Cross hospital from injuries received when he was struck at Western avenue and 51st street by an automobile driven by Arthur J. La Pointe, 5753 South Albany avenue. Sowa died before his address could be obtained.

Unidentified man, about 45 years old. Died at Burnside hospital after he was struck by a hit and run motorist at 71st street and South Park avenue. A witness gave the police the license number of the car and they are searching for the owner.

Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court yesterday found John Serun, 18 years old, 1822 19th avenue, Maywood, not guilty of manslaughter, with which he had been charged after an automobile accident in which two persons were killed on Nov. 30, 1930. At an earlier trial the jury disagreed and a second indictment was obtained. The victims of the crash were Miss Dorothy Schumann, 28 years old, daughter of Charles Schumann, 322 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, a wealthy contractor, and James Lococo.

JUDGE FREES BARTENDER.

Raymond Gonia, 28 years old, bartender in a soft drink parlor at 3719 Fullerton avenue, was freed yesterday by Municipal Judge Robert E. McMillan on a charge of disorderly conduct placed against him after two patrons had engaged in a fight in the place.

CERMAK AND MYERS CLASH AGAIN OVER STATE OF SCHOOLS

The exchange between Mayor Cermak and President Lewis E. Myers of the school board yesterday went on with increasing bitterness. A resolution to invite the members of the mayor's advisory committee to participate in the $100,000 survey of Chicago schools by a professor in Columbia university failed to get the approval of the school board.

"I need no certificate of good character from Mr. Cermak," said Mr. Myers. "Nor am I flattered by any references to my honesty from that direction, but it inspires me to say that I once knew a man who grew very rich just minding his own business."

To this Mayor Cermak replied later in the day: "Maybe if the board members would pay a little more attention to board business, the teachers would be paid. Perhaps some board members have been minding their own business and growing rich instead of tending to the board's business and getting the teachers paid. If the schools had cooperated six months ago, perhaps by now a special session of the legislature would have been called and the money would be in hand to pay the teachers."

Parole Granted $100,000 Embezzler of Mooseheart

Harold L. Cook of Aurora, former controller of the orphanage at Mooseheart, who was convicted in March, 1929, of embezzling $100,000 from the institution, has been granted a parole from Joliet penitentiary.

JUDGE EXTRACTS BANK CASH FROM DEBTORS' PARADE

Forces Borrowers to Pay Part of Loans.

In the courtroom of Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday a procession of witnesses, evasive, loudly protesting or softly blubbering, marched to and from the witness stand. Their testimony in response to the examination conducted by the judge formed a part of a remarkable courtroom scene.

Judge Feinberg was endeavoring to get back from the witnesses money they had borrowed without security from the closed West Central State bank, Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue. The hearing revealed with clarity the extraordinary manner in which sums of money were ladled out by the bank officials to almost any applicant.

The court knew how to talk to the witnesses. The examination of J. A. Weinstein, clothier, 1917 South Ridgeway avenue, who borrowed $1,000 from the bank without security, was typical.

One Witness Examined.

"How much can you pay back of the $1,000?" asked the judge.

"Well, you know, a dollar's a dollar these days," said Weinstein, shrugging his shoulders. "It's up to you, judge."

"Can you bring in $500 a week from today?"

"No! No! That's impossible! These bad times——!"

"Well, how about $333, a third of the amount?" said the judge patiently.

Weinstein reflected.

Gets Promises of Money.

Thus it went. From witness after witness the judge, with infinite care, extracted a promise of a few hundred dollars here and a few hundred dollars there. The courtroom was jammed with depositors who lost their savings when the bank failed and they grew jubilant as the court wrung money from those who inevitably opened their testimony with vehement assertions that they were penniless.

Sometimes the judge lost his temper. One Joseph Barinholz sought to win sympathy with a tearful plea that he had been long in business, that he had a reputation to maintain, that business was bad——.

The judge cut him short.

"Don't play the baby act with me," he reprimanded Barinholz. "That sympathy stuff will not work. You can bargain with me very nicely if I see the color of your money."

Judge Insists on Cash.

The witness' jaw fell. He murmured weakly that he would try to bring in some money.

"Cash!" asserted the judge, firmly. "All I'm interested in is getting some money for these depositors," said the judge. "They're worse off than you. You folks are never satisfied until you get in trouble. Then you start crying. There are depositors crying much louder and with more reason."

Charles Fryer, 1612 South Millard avenue, took the stand. A stout, slow speaking man, somewhat bewildered by the proceedings, he testified that he is now a common laborer. But in the golden years preceding 1929, he had been the president of the Fryer Iron company. He had obtained $9,000 from the bank by merely asking for it. A part of this had been paid back but he still owed $2,638, secured only by his personal note, when the bank closed.

"This is your note, I suppose?" queried Attorney Jacob Fox, representing the receiver. The question was asked merely to keep the legal record straight.

Fryer took the note with surprise. "I never signed this note," he said. "This isn't my signature."

The judge made the witness write his name and compared the signature with that on the note. They were dissimilar. It was revealed that the bank had never taken the trouble to obtain Fryer's note to secure the loan. Some one had filled out a note and scribbled Fryer's signature and made the note a part of the bank's listed assets.

Didn't Pay for Loan.

Sidney Navid, 6047 St. Lawrence avenue, was another witness. He owed the bank $3,000. Asked where his office had been when he obtained the money by giving his personal note, he said that he "hung out" at 546 Roosevelt road. His business was that of a house to house salesman.

"You had no stock in trade," remarked the judge, wonderingly. "You had no office. Your business was that of a peddler. Yet you got $3,000 on your signature. What did you pay to the bank officials as a bonus to obtain that loan?"

"Not a cent," said Navid, indignantly. "They solicited my business."

"You were a choice account," commented the judge.

Fails to Shorten Term.

Abe Krecum, 2253 North Kedzie avenue, sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge Feinberg last Monday, paid up $295 to the receiver, but failed thereby to win a shortened jail sentence. Krecum admitted collecting the $295 as rent from an apartment building which had gone into receivership. The sentence was administered for perjury.

Officials of the bank were Andrew H. Dressel, widely known in sport circles and a friend of Terry Druggan, public enemy; F. A. W. Johnson, vice president, and H. H. Schoene, cashier. Schoene has been summoned to appear in court this morning and explain how the Fryer note was listed among the assets.

Druggan was one of those who dipped frequently into the coffers of the bank. He paid over $2,500 cash Tuesday and has promised to pay the remainder of the $17,000 which he borrowed.

TRIAL REVIVES SCANDAL

Miss Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," and her daughter, Elizabeth Ann Britton, 12 years old, at trial at Toledo, O., of her suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion, O., hotel keeper. She charges Klunk damaged her to the extent of $50,000 in his book entitled, "The Answer to 'The President's Daughter.'"

INVENTS GUARD AGAINST FATAL WINDOW FALLS

An unpatented device for making windows safe against falls or jumps, designed by Asa S. Bacon, superintendent of the Presbyterian hospital, was offered by Mr. Bacon yesterday as a guard against deaths from window falls. He addressed the Chicago Hospital association in the Washington Boulevard hospital.

Deaths resulting from falls or jumps from windows in 1928 numbered 530, according to a report of the United States census bureau, Mr. Bacon said.

The device was installed in the Presbyterian hospital seven years ago. Attached to the bottom of a window is a steel screen which comes into place as the window is raised for ventilation.

HOODLUM HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Louis Clementi, 909 Sholto street, and Philip Mangano, 1521 West Adams street, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000 by Judge Fairbank yesterday on a charge of conspiracy in connection with damaging four trucks belonging to a cleaner and dyer.

RAP REPUTATION OF NAN BRITTON AT DAMAGE SUIT

Former Schoolmates Turn Against Her.

Toledo, O., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Former schoolmates turned against Nan Britton today in the second session of her $50,000 libel suit over a book challenging the claim she made in another book that the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her daughter, Elizabeth Ann, now 12 years old.

With the defense still on the offensive through a legal quirk that reversed the order of things, four women from Marion, O., were called to testify of Miss Britton's reputation in the days when Harding was a newspaper editor and Nan was an adolescent schoolgirl.

One of the young women was Mrs. Mildred Christian Roberts, sister of George Busby Christian Jr., secretary to Harding for many years. Mrs. Roberts, together with Miss Catherine Hane, Mrs. Lucille Stoll, and Mrs. Helen Grigsby, all of Marion, testified that in their opinion Miss Britton's reputation was bad before the publication of "The Answer to the President's Daughter." It was this book, replying to Miss Britton's volume, "The President's Daughter," that provoked the suit against A. C. Klunk, Marion hotel man, who has admitted selling the second book, but who denies publishing it.

Tell of Nude Bathing Party.

Miss Britton smiled as her former girl friends gave their testimony and she laughed when her attorneys forced them to admit that they were merely telling what they had heard.

Miss Hane erased the smile from Miss Britton's face by mentioning a nude bathing party in which she said she had heard Nan attended. The attempts to have this testimony stricken from the record failed, as Federal Judge John M. Killits ruled that, since the burden of proof had been placed on the defense, the question was proper for the time being.

Attorneys for Klunk also tried to introduce into the records a mention of the divorce suit of Richard Whiteman of New York, in which Whiteman was sued by his wife. The defense argued that it could show that Whiteman was the real author of "The President's Daughter," and that Miss Britton had been named corespondent in the suit. Judge Killits called for documentary evidence before allowing the point.

Child Barred from Court.

Just before court convened for the day the court ruled that Miss Britton's daughter could not attend further sessions of the trial on the ground the atmosphere was not proper.

Miss Britton told reporters that she brought her child to the first day's session because she felt sure Elizabeth Ann understood the case.

"My daughter knows who she is," Miss Britton declared. "She knows what has happened and knows the truth. I feel she is able to discount the untruths she is certain to hear."

Another Harding Book a Hoax.

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—A book entitled "The Strange Case of President Harding," which aroused sensational interest following the Nan Britton book, is flatly repudiated and denounced as a hoax by its author, Mrs. May Dixon Thacker, in an article in this week's Liberty Magazine.

"I wrote this book," Mrs. Thacker says, "for Gaston B. Means. It is his story. I firmly believed that every word was true. Today I am forced to concede that I was duped.

"I had occasion to call on one of the highest officials in Washington. From him I learned a startling fact—that it was absolutely and positively a physical impossibility for Gaston Means ever to have entered the White House to see Mrs. Harding, as he had claimed. The w... authority of this gentleman can not be questioned."

"On top of this," she says, "I was told by some one who I believe spoke with knowledge and authority that Mrs. Harding knew nothing whatever at any time about Nan Britton or her child."

NEW SCALE OF FINES SET BY JUDGE FOR FAULTY AUTO LIGHTS

A new scale of fines for motorists who drive with faulty lights was announced yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden, presiding in the Traffic court. The new schedule includes the following offenses and fines:

Only one headlight burning, $5 and costs.
No tail light, $10 and costs.
No lights, $50 and costs.

Judge Padden said he believed that two-thirds of the night accidents were caused by faulty lights.

LONE TREE INN IN NILES HELD UP BY FIVE GUNMEN

Five bandits armed with shotguns and pistols invaded the Lone Tree tavern on Milwaukee avenue in Niles early this morning. First they encountered a yardman and took 25 cents from him. Then they broke into the tavern, where they held up Robert Freebus, the owner, a couple who were guests, and several employés. From the till the gunmen took $125. Then they stole the fur coat and jewelry of the woman guest and emptied her escort's pockets of $50.

Sergt. L. A. Rowder of the Morton Grove county highway police said he believed the bandits are the same men who have been preying on roadhouses in the northwest suburban districts recently.

JAMES MIKES IS ACTING CHIEF OF BERWYN POLICE

Capt. James Mikes, former chief of police in Berwyn, has been appointed acting chief of that community, it was learned last night. His formal appointment probably will be approved by the Berwyn board next Monday.

Chief Mikes succeeds Acting Chief Alfred Marshall, who reverts to his former rank of senior lieutenant. Marshall earlier had replaced Chief Thomas Bartunek, who was demoted to the rank of sergeant and suspended indefinitely on Oct. 8 because of his conviction of beating a prisoner, Michael M. Brooks, a resident of Berwyn. Bartunek is now under indictment for that offense.

Mr. Joe Saltis Held Up; Loses $15, Watch and Car

Joe Saltis was driving south in Perry avenue early this morning when three gunmen cut their powerful machine ahead of him at 99th street, in the heart of the McErlane beer territory, and forced him to the curb. The next instant three revolvers were shoved into his face and followed by the command: "Stick 'em up." Saltis obeyed. The gunmen took $15, his $65 watch, and one of them drove away in his car. O, by the way, the robbery victim this morning is not the Joe Saltis of gangster notoriety. He is a farmer living on the outskirts of Whiting.

MISS PATTERSON ENGAGED TO WED JOSEPH BROOKS

Plans Revealed Following Airplane Crash.

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Coincident with news from South Bend, Ind., of the airplane crash of Joseph W. Brooks, former all-American football star, it became known here today that he and Alicia Patterson, whose plane he cracked up, are engaged to be married. Their romance began at Roosevelt field, Long Island.

The wedding probably will take place some time this winter, after Miss Patterson, now in Europe with Mrs. Alton A. Brody, daughter of Irvin S. Cobb, returns.

Miss Patterson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson of New York and Chicago. Mr. Patterson is president of the News Syndicate company, Inc., publishers of the News. Brooks and his fiancée both hold transport pilot licenses. She recently toured Australia by air.

Noted Woman Flyer.

On her return here she broke the women's airplane speed record between Cleveland and New York, Philadelphia and New York and established a two way record between Albany and New York for women flyers.

Mr. Brooks broke into the football limelight with Williams college in 1908. He was named an all-American tackle for his gridiron prowess in the ensuing three years at Colgate.

He is a son of Belvidere Brooks, who in 1910 was vice president and general manager of the Western Union Telegraph company. Both his grandfathers fought in the civil war under the confederate flag.

Captain in World War.

Mr. Brooks himself won distinction on the battlefield. He was a captain in the 150th machine gun company of the 42d division in the world war in France.

He is an all around athlete of considerable repute and adept at tennis, hockey, and the shot put.

Miss Patterson, second daughter of the publisher, is a great-granddaughter of Joseph Medill, founder of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A year ago she divorced James Simpson Jr. in Chicago. Brooks, who had taken the plane to the Laird factory for a new engine and minor adjustments, had reached an altitude of seventy-five feet on a test flight when the engine failed. He made a forced landing and struck a tree, but fortunately was not seriously hurt.

PRINCIPAL PUTS UP REAL FIGHT TO FEED PUPILS

Your Gifts Are Needed to Help Children.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4123 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

"Get the food first—then start worrying about the money to pay for it."

That was the motto adopted this fall by Mary T. Maroney, diminutive Irishwoman with a tremendous determination that no child she could help was going to go hungry. Just "in front o' the yards," in the area once called Lakewood but long since swallowed up in metropolitan Chicago, she is principal of the Graham elementary and junior high school. With nearly a thousand children, of whom only about one-fourth can afford to eat at noon, her system prevented wholesale suffering.

School Has 120 Anemic Pupils.

Four rooms in the Graham school are open window rooms. One hundred and twenty of the pupils assigned there from that or surrounding districts are anemic, under the care of a physician and nurse. Eighty of these are provided free lunch at noon, as well as a breakfast of cooked cereal, milk, and bread and butter, and a repast at 2 o'clock consisting of milk and bread. They sleep one hour each day, on cots in a darkened room, wrapped in blankets.

No funds were available for feeding these and the other hundreds of destitute children who came to school breakfastless and without pennies to spend at noon. But Miss Maroney was not defeated. She went to the merchants and to packing houses repeatedly, until they promised either to donate meat, or to give her credit on the needed groceries. So that most of the children have been fed regularly.

Many Fathers Out of Work.

At least three-fourths of the workers in that district are out of employment, she estimated yesterday. Others are working only two or three days a week. There is no Parent-Teacher organization to lend a helping hand, mainly because so many of the mothers have always worked themselves. Families are large and the average income small. Lately the emergency has become acute.

"Fathers of some of my children have come to me here and with tears streaming down their cheeks, begged me to get food for their youngsters," the principal said yesterday. "I have tried to get some of them to take a couple of dollars, but they refused, which goes to show how good their intentions were. They said they'd manage somehow if only I could get meals for the boys and girls."

Gifts Help These Children.

Lunchrooms such as that operated at Graham school, providing warm, nourishing food for children who otherwise would go without lunch are being supported by the Hungry School Children's Fund recently opened by this newspaper. Gifts received yesterday included:

$100—American Fore Good Fellowship club.

Grand total	$18,332.18

Sixty dollars of the amount represented above was contributed yesterday by employés of the W. D. Allen Manufacturing company. The gift was the surplus from contributions for floral mementoes of their late president, William S. Allen, who died on Oct. 10. By vote of employés the residue was donated to feed the needy children.

John Howard Kornblith elected to send $5 to the fund instead of having his usual birthday party. Twenty dollars acknowledged yesterday from Margaret Weiner was raised in the same way. And Dorothy Winter, 10 years old, collected $2.60 on the sale of cookies her mother and grandmother baked.

Gifts may be mailed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, with the coupon appearing herewith.

5 GUNMEN ROB BANK OF $8,000 ON SOUTH SIDE

Five bandits yesterday entered the Sherman State bank, 4801 South Ashland avenue, threatened four men and five women with revolvers, and escaped with $8,000. B. Zalinski, chairman of the board of directors, said the loss is covered by insurance and will have no effect on the bank's standing.

As the bandits entered they ordered Miss Angelina Mikolaitis, the switchboard operator, from her board before she could flash an alarm. One of the bandits scooped the loot from the teller's cage while the others rounded up the bank's employés and customers and forced them into the vault. They left the vault door ajar so that the victims freed themselves when the robbers fled.

W. G. Pakorny, vice president and cashier, seized a gun and ran to the street. He fired at the bandits' car, but the shot went wide when he was thrown to the ground in brushing against a passing car. The bandits fired in return, but their fire was also wide.

Army Engineer Weeks Transferred from Chicago

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Col. William C. Weeks, district army engineer at Chicago, today was ordered transferred to Governor Island, N. Y., Jan. 1, for duty at the headquarters of the commanding general, second corps area. His successor at Chicago has not yet been designated.

INDICTMENTS IN SANITARY CASE CALLED VAGUE

Resuming his battle to quash the graft indictments against Timothy J. Crowe and eight co-defendants of the Crowe régime in the sanitary district, Attorney Albert Fink argued yesterday that the indictments were vague and invalid in that they failed to charge the commission of a crime.

The arguments are being heard by Chief Justice Harry Fisher and two other Criminal court judges, John Prystalski and James J. Kelly, the latter two sitting in an advisory capacity. Judge Fisher had refused Prosecutor John Northup's plea for assignment of the case to some other judge.

Attorney Fink centered his attack on the counts from 2 to 6 in the indictment. In reference to counts 5 and 6, which concern the $1,000,000 bridle path and the $750,000 lighting system along the north shore channel road, Mr. Fink declared the only charge was that Crowe and the other trustees exceeded their authority. "Exceeding one's authority is no crime in Illinois," Mr. Fink argued.

The lawyer then took up counts 3 and 4, which concern alleged pay roll padding to recompense election workers. These counts, he asserted, were lacking in every essential of criminal pleading.

SOVIETS DECREE PRICE CUTS IN PRIVATE STORES

Offsets 50% Increase of Last Summer.

MOSCOW, Oct. 28.—(AP)—On the eve of another hard winter the soviet citizenry today was granted a 30 per cent average reduction in the prices of commodities sold in commercial shops. Commodities affected include food, clothing, tobacco, soap, and footwear.

The move will offset to a great extent the 50 per cent average increase in prices last summer, which was taken as a deflation measure.

Promising better living conditions, the government decreed the price decrease to be effective Nov. 1. The fourteenth anniversary of the October revolution will be Nov. 7.

Government leaders emphasized that it is now possible to inaugurate improved living standards by concentrating more on light industry, which produces goods for home consumption, without relaxing in the program for heavy industrial developments.

Those who will benefit chiefly by the new prices are the portions of the population which have been deprived of the right to patronize the state cooperative stores.

EXPRESS DOUBT HOOVER CAN END PARIS GOLD RAIDS

Reserve Board Men Are Skeptical.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Post-mortem examination of the Hoover-Laval conference is beginning to yield interesting results. That, for example, Mr. Hoover really got what the administration claims he got is being questioned in high quarters.

Members of the federal reserve board, to be specific, have been giving way, in their meetings, it is learned, to varied exhibitions of amusement ranging from the tolerant chuckle to the hilarious guffaw, over the boast of the administration that Mr. Hoover induced M. Laval to put an end to the French raid on the dollar. Apparently, according to those who draw diagrams of economic jokes, it is to laugh that M. Laval, in exchange for the concessions he won from Mr. Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson, was able to palm off on those statesmen a concession he lacks the power to deliver.

The administration has been pointing with pride to the agreement Mr. Hoover and M. Laval reached with regard to gold.

Accused of Promoting Run.

The European raid on the dollar was the prelude of the Laval visit and inasmuch as half of the 700 millions in gold withdrawn in five weeks went to France the French were accused of instigating and promoting the run on America's strongbox. Stories were afloat that banking interests in Paris were busy for several days on the telephone disseminating rumors throughout Europe that the dollar was trembling in the balance and likely to go off the gold standard in the wake of the British pound sterling. At the same time these French financiers were selling the dollar short, in which speculation, incidentally, they appear likely to have burned their fingers and lost a pretty penny.

The French government during those days of the raid on the dollar fell under suspicion. It was alleged that Paris entertained visions of the dollar going the way of the pound and the franc becoming the world unit of exchange with the result of making France the world's banker.

Appeal to French Premier.

Whether or not they shared this suspicion Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson thought M. Laval possessed the power to stop the raid and they appealed to him somewhat feelingly to do so. Their notion was that the Bank of France is greatly influenced, if not dominated, by the French government and that if M. Laval should give the word the Bank of France could halt the gold withdrawals.

M. Laval, it appears, was somewhat responsible for this impression. At the time of the six power conference in London last July French bankers were raiding the pound. M. Laval was implored to do something about that and said he would as soon as he returned to Paris.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson were greatly worried about a 245 million dollar French deposit in the federal reserve bank of New York which they feared the French would withdraw, thus adding to the outgoing stream of gold. They spoke to M. Laval about that. M. Laval said he would see what could be done.

Laval Makes Promise.

Presto! M. Laval waved his wand, according to the administration, and the 245 millions were used to purchase bankers' acceptances instead of being withdrawn in gold. Then M. Laval promised there would be no further gold withdrawals except after consultation between the Bank of France and the federal reserve bank of New York.

The only trouble with this story of achievement on the part of the administration is that it isn't true, according to members of the federal reserve board. They say there was no 245 million French deposit, nor one of half that amount, but what there was had been used to purchase bankers' acceptances before the Hoover-Laval conference started.

Bank of France Independent.

Also it is asserted that M. Laval could not check the gold withdrawals by mere fiat. The Bank of France, it is explained, is far less subservient to the French government than the federal reserve banks to the American. French bankers were withdrawing gold, it is asserted, partly because their balances in London after the fall of the pound were frozen and they wanted to get gold back home for exhibition to nervous depositors and partly because of the demand of French hoarders for American double eagles.

The run on America's gold has petered out, according to reserve board officials, not because of anything M. Laval has done or could do but chiefly because Europe found, perhaps to its surprise, that America could pay and never feel it.

WED TO COUNT

COUNTESS ISABEL SAMSOE.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Count Sophus Danneskiold Samsoe, whose marriage with Isabel Craven Tellegen, former wife of Lou Tellegen, American actor, was announced yesterday, is the son of the late Captain Count Danneskiold Samsoe of Puurlund castle, Sealand. He went to the United States some years ago and acquired a number of farms in California.

U. S. AGENTS SEIZE LIQUOR IN TWO LOOP PHARMACIES

Dry agents raided two loop drug stores of the Wright & Lawrence chain yesterday, arresting two men in each place and confiscating whisky and alcohol. The visits followed the alleged purchase of whisky without prescriptions.

In the first raid agents entered the pharmacy in room 1300 of the Marshall Field Annex, 24 North Wabash avenue, and seized 142 pints of whisky, nineteen pints of brandy, and several gallons of alcohol. Victor E. Lawrence, part owner, and Chester Veitch, a pharmacist, were arrested.

The second raid, on room 2011 of the Garland building, 58 East Washington street, netted seven cases of whisky and a gallon of alcohol. August Broman, the manager, and F. C. Daniels, pharmacist, were arrested.

JAPAN'S TROOPS AMBUSHED BY CHINESE FORCE

Officer, Two Others Die in Surprise Attack.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 28.—Two companies of Japanese troops, operating eight miles southeast of Chenchiatun, were ambushed early this morning by a force of 200 Chinese troops. Capt. Kuwahara of the Japanese forces was mortally wounded, two privates were killed and three were wounded. The Chinese casualties are not known. The Japanese have rushed reinforcements to Chenchiatun.

An official report said the Japanese force had left Chenchiatun at 1:30 a. m. and proceeded southeast for the purpose of attacking a force of 1,000 Chinese refugee troops who were reported near the village of Yikoushu. The ambush occurred shortly after.

The official military report indicates that the bandit-refugee situation is growing more serious and that Chinese refugee troops are joining the bandits. Farmers and villagers are also joining these bandit forces, which call themselves the "people's army."

PLAN PARTY DICTATORSHIP

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29.—[Thursday.]—In the face of Japan's aggression in Manchuria, delegates of the rival Nanking and Canton factions met in a joint session at Shanghai yesterday and launched a movement for a party government similar to the Mark Hanna dictatorship of McKinley days. A resolution was adopted to the effect that all powers of the government will be placed in the hands of the executives of the Kuomintang, the political party. The Nanking government will be used merely as a puppet for impressing the seal of authority.

The conference decided that the elimination of President Chiang Kai-shek is essential. It was decided that his triple post as commander in chief of the army, navy, and air forces will be administered by a military council. The delegates agreed to call a conference, the date of which has yet to be set, at which some veteran politician in no way connected with the military will be elected as president of the republic.

Chiang Kai-shek Is Notified.

The committees' resolution was telegraphed to President Chiang and a wire was also sent to Peiping summoning Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian war lord and vice commander in chief, to Nanking.

It is generally regarded by foreign observers that the attempt to "Hannaize" China will give Japan an excellent opportunity to make Manchuria an independent state with puppet governors under Japanese control.

Increased activity near the Mongolian border seems to indicate that that region will also come under Japan's sway. Japan alleges that increased activity of bandits justifies the complete occupation of the Sauping-kai-Taonan railway.

Japanese airplanes continue to reconnoiter over the entire Manchurian area.

Russia Denies Mobilization.

MOSCOW, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Dispatches reporting that soviet troops were being mobilized along the Manchurian border were again officially denied today and authoritative quarters said that they had not been informed of Japan's request that alleged demonstrations be discontinued.

Foreign Minister Shidehara of Japan yesterday dispatched a note to Moscow in which he took cognizance of persistent reports from Chinese sources that from 20,000 to 30,000 Russian troops had been concentrated recently near Pogranichnaya, on the eastern Manchurian border, and at Manchuli, on the western border. Baron Shidehara expressed concern, and asked Russia to cease further military operations, "which might be misinterpreted."

Gunmen Rob Doctor of Money and Medical Kit

Dr. I. M. Levin, 3354 Roosevelt road, was driving south in Peoria street on a professional call last night when two gunmen boarded his car, compelled him to stop, and took $4 from him, his $100 medical kit, and a package containing $25 worth of clothing, which he had purchased for his children.

2 ROADS OFFER NEW LOW-RATE TO COMMUTERS

Have Option of Added Miles on Tickets.

Two railroads, the Chicago and North Western and the North Shore line, announced the introduction of a new type of weekly commutation ticket yesterday, affording a new low rate to patrons and extending them the option of purchasing additional rides on the same division at a rate of 2 cents a mile instead of the standard rate of 3.6 cents. The new tickets go on sale next Monday.

"Our new ticket will appeal to patrons because of its low rate per ride and because of the additional ride option," said C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager of the North Western. "It is priced lower than the 25 and 10 ride tickets and only slightly less than the 60 ride monthly individual tickets.

Official Cites Advantages.

"There are many occasions when use of the low fare option will be convenient for regular commuters, for instance: when taking a friend or member of the family downtown to the theater, taking a Sunday trip to the loop, or riding to some point on the division further out than his station. As an example of the option mileage to be allowed, take an Evanston commuter. His twelve rides represent 132 miles. He will therefore be allowed to buy 66 additional miles at 2 cents for use in suburban territory on his division during the week for which his ticket is issued."

As for the North Shore line, Richard S. Amis, general passenger agent, said the new ticket represents a 20 per cent cut from the prevailing 60 ride monthly rate. The North Shore's monthly rate, hitherto thirty per cent higher than the North Western's, now becomes only ten per cent higher.

"In addition to the other advantages, the commuter benefits through paying by the week for his commutation, instead of by the month," Mr. Amis pointed out. "In other words, a commuter's single investment in transportation is only one-fourth the amount required under the old monthly plan."

Fares Are Announced.

The North Shore line submitted the following list of prices on the twelve ride tickets as typical of the saving offered:

SHORE LINE ROUTE—Linden avenue, Wilmette, $2.06; Kenilworth, $2.23; Indian Hill, $2.26; Winnetka, $2.26; Hubbard Woods, $2.28; Glencoe, $2.36; Highland Park, $2.53; Lake Forest, $2.80; North Chicago, $3.31; and Waukegan, $3.38.

SKOKIE VALLEY ROUTE—Niles Center, $2.06; Harmswoods, $2.06; Glenayre, $2.30; Northfield, $2.36; Northbrook, $2.36; Woodridge, $2.43; Briergate, $2.53; Highmoor, $2.63; Sheridan Elms, $2.63; Deerpath, $2.80; Knollwood, $3.10; Rondout, $3.10; Libertyville, $3.13; Mundelein, $3.45.

LEGLESS YOUTH IS ARRESTED AS PAY ROLL BANDIT

Rocco Russo, 23 years old, 818 Taylor street, a legless cripple, was arrested last night as a pay roll bandit and held for Milwaukee authorities. Both of Russo's legs are severed just below the knees, but he is able to walk with artificial limbs.

The crime for which he was held is the holdup on Oct. 9 of the National Biscuit company in Milwaukee in which $3,500 was taken. Five gunmen figured in the theft, four actively and one as the driver of the getaway car. Russo was the driver, detectives asserted.

WOMAN INVOLVED IN SLAYING OF 60 YEARS AGO DEAD

Josie Mansfield Dies at Home in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 28 — (AP) — Mrs. Josephine Mansfield Reade, who died here yesterday, will be buried in Montparnasse cemetery on the southern heights of Paris tomorrow. The funeral service will take place at the Neuilly clinic, where she died.

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—One of the most sensational murders in the history of the city of New York was recalled today by a dispatch from Paris announcing the death of Mrs. Helen Josephine Mansfield Reade. She was none other than the Josie Mansfield over whose affections Edward S. Stokes shot and killed James Fisk Jr. on a staircase leading from the lobby of the then Grand Central, now Broadway Central, hotel on Jan. 6, 1872.

Stokes was tried for murder and condemned to death. Through influences he had formed in association with William M. Tweed, when Tweed was a power, he obtained a new trial and escaped with a term of four years in prison.

He was a wealthy man when he killed Fisk and had some money left when he was released from prison in 1877. President Grover Cleveland restored his citizenship in 1887. He bought, conducted, and in 1899 sold the old Hoffman house, spent many years in litigation with his cousin, W. E. D. Stokes, and died in November, 1901.

Woman Goes to Paris.

Josie Mansfield, for whom Jim Fisk built a house at 359 West Twenty-third street, a few doors from his own home and half a block from his offices in the Grand Opera house, at the corner of Eighth avenue, which he owned, realized on all her assets and went to Paris within a year after the murder. She volunteered to testify for the defense of Stokes, who, young and handsome, had stolen her from Fisk, but he would not permit it.

The Paris dispatch gives the age of Josie Mansfield Reade as 71. She was probably several years older than that, but she was a very young woman, divorced from an actor named James Lawlor, whom she had married in San Francisco, where she was born, when she attracted the attention of Fisk in 1870.

For thirty years after her arrival in Paris, beautiful, rich and experienced, Josie Mansfield was a prominent figure in the gay life of the capital and the watering places of Europe. In Carlsbad in 1891 she met Robert Livingstone Reade, a wealthy New York lawyer, to whom she eventually was married. The marriage was dissolved on Aug. 1, 1895.

Brought Tragedy to Partners.

It was a bawdy, frenzied New York that Josie Mansfield entered in 1870. Fisk, who had been associated with Jay Gould in the wrecking of the Erie railroad, was in the zenith of his power. He had been hand in glove with the Tweed ring—in fact, it was said at the time of the murder that it was Gould and Fisk who set Tweed, Peter B. Sweeny, "Slippery Dick" Connolly, and others, who eventually followed him into disgrace, on their first road to easy crooked money.

Stokes, born of a good family in Philadelphia, came to New York in 1860 and went into speculation through the produce exchange. In time he met Fisk and took him into partnership.

Fisk was married but his wife lived up in New England and Fisk became infatuated with Josie, maintaining her as a wife. Later he became jealous and began to dispute with his partner. They went to law and tried to put each other in jail. Josie Mansfield sided with Stokes. Fisk had written her a lot of letters. She offered to sell them back to him for $40,000, and he paid the money, but he did not get the letters, and he blamed Stokes.

Stokes went to the Grand Central hotel on the day of the murder with a loaded pistol in his pocket. He searched for some time for Fisk and finally met him on the stairway called the "ladies' stairs."

Fisk had a pistol, too, but he wore a long military coat [he was a militia commander and loved to strut in ornate uniforms] and before he could reach his weapon Stokes shot him. Fisk died a few hours later.

Bomb Men's Furnishings Store on Roosevelt Road

A small bomb was exploded early this morning at the front entrance of the men's furnishings store of Jack Fagnan, 3451 West Roosevelt road. The door was blown in and the windows of the store and those in an adjoining store owned by J. Cooper at 3453 Roosevelt road, were shattered. The damage was estimated at $300 by Acting Lieut. George Rasch of the Fillmore street police. Fagman knew of no reason for the bombing, he said.

FARMS TO KEEP HELP IN WINTER, SURVEY SHOWS

Few Laborers to Seek Charity in Cities.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Few farm laborers will be thrown onto the mercies of city charity institutions this winter, if a state-wide survey of Wisconsin just completed by the federal and state crop reporting service at Madison is any indication.

The survey, made through reports from veteran crop reporters scattered in local rural areas over Wisconsin, indicates that most farmers of the state now employ help throughout the year, rather than depend upon "pickups" for a few summer months.

A decline of 30 per cent in wage levels for farm help has brought this item of expense in the Wisconsin farmer's yearly cost back to prewar levels this year. The index of average wages paid this year is only about 3 per cent above the 1910 to 1914 average, according to W. H. Ebling, who directed the survey.

"At the beginning of this month, our crop reporters showed an average of 1.82 persons furnishing family labor on each farm and there was on an average of one hired man for each two farms," Ebling reports. "This makes an average of 2.32 for the total labor on each farm.

"Looking back over our record, I find that in 1927 the total employment was 2.51. Hence the decline from that date to now is about 7.5 per cent on an average for the farms reporting to us. This is not a great decline in number of persons working on farms, and the decline is found in both family and hired labor."

Rural agencies queried in Wisconsin report that farmers are making provisions to retain their hired men this winter even if they omit payment in cash except for "tobacco money," although a few instances were cited where transient laborers for husking corn or curing tobacco are to be released.

Argentina Asks 2 Years in Prison for Ex-President

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Two years' imprisonment and disqualification for public office for ten years was asked by Attorney General Gondra today for former President Hipolito Yrigoyen in charges filed against Yrigoyen and his cabinet ministers for alleged violation of duties and misuse of public funds. They were ousted by the Uriburu revolt.

SENATE COMMITTEE HEARS GERARD SWOPE ON INDUSTRIAL PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric corporation, appearing today before a special senate committee, defended his plan for industrial coördination through trade associations as against the creation of the economic council recommended by Senator Robert M. La Follette [radical Rep., Wis.], the committee chairman.

GERARD SWOPE.

The hearing turned into a debate between Mr. Swope and Senator La Follette.

Mr. Swope, who disclosed his plan a month ago before the National Electrical Manufacturers' association, said that he would favor an economic council, if it developed as a result of trade association work.

But as for the immediate setting up of such organization under a bill proposed by Senator La Follette, he said:

"It seems to me that this would be working from the top down; that even if you could get the ablest men, and the scope of the work was not too broad, you would be providing for a superstructure resting upon the present chaotic conditions. It therefore would have no stable foundation."

Senator La Follette disputed this contention and finally drew from Mr. Swope a virtual admission that the Swope plan, involving the organization of governing trade associations under the supervision of a federal board, might eventually lead to governmental price fixing.

BRITAIN SPURNS FACTOR'S OFFER OF $2,000,000

Attorney Makes Plea for Extradition.

Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, acting on the authority of the British government, yesterday flatly refused the compromise offer of $2,000,000 made by John (Jake the Barber) Factor. The refusal was made by Overmyer during his closing argument in Factor's extradition hearing before United States Commissioner Walker.

Factor's business methods, his use of aliases, the shifting of offices and sale of African mining stock were all attacked by Attorney Overmyer to support the charges that the former Halsted street barber defrauded British investors of $7,000,000.

United States Senator Otis F. Glenn, attorney for Factor, announced on Tuesday that his client was "willing to post $2,000,000 to assure payment of any successful civil suit brought against him."

Suit for Receiver Pending.

Attorney Overmyer wanted to know whether the $2,000,000 meant the money tied up in a civil suit before Federal Judge John P. Barnes or an additional sum. The civil suit pending was brought for the appointment of a receiver for the trust fund of $3,000,000 established in Chicago by Factor for his wife, Rella, and his son.

"The British government could not and would not think of entertaining such an offer," said Attorney Overmyer. "This man," he asserted, pointing to Factor, "must not be permitted to escape full punishment under the law for having so sadly influenced the lives of many people in England in a time of general depression."

Attorney Overmyer pointed his finger at Factor again. Factor slipped down in his seat and smiled. "Here he sits through all these months," the attorney continued, "without answering any of the accusations brought against him. He hasn't any defense."

Takes Up Factor Departure.

Overmyer said that the British government allowed Factor to slip out of the country before it was known that he had perpetrated "this colossal fraud." Neither the directors of the Broad Street Press, a periodical Factor is alleged to have operated to advise investors to buy his stocks, nor its sponsors will be absolved of blame, Overmyer said.

Overmyer talked for two and a half hours. Then by agreement of counsel the completion of his argument was set over for 2 p. m. today.

Commissioner Walker will take the case under advisement at the conclusion of the arguments, probably tomorrow. He said he believed it would be ten days before he could rule on the matter.

200,000 WILL GET POSTOFFICE JOBS FOR XMAS RUSH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—More than two hundred thousand of the unemployed will find jobs in the United States postoffice department when the Christmas rush season begins, about Dec. 13, it was announced today. The pay for these jobs, as temporary carriers, clerks, and laborers, will be 65 cents an hour for a ten hour day.

Postmasters throughout the country have been instructed, the department said, to employ as far as possible men and women with families to support and who are now out of work. Instructions have also been issued to postmasters to cooperate with federal and local relief agencies in the selection of the temporary employes. Close scrutiny is to be given applications in order to verify the applicant's statements as to his need of employment.

The Chicago postoffice has been allotted $190,400 for hiring extra clerks and $92,212 for extra carriers, the department stated. This is the largest allotment to any individual city, the New York postoffice being given $173,700 for clerks and $94,000 for carriers.

THANKS!

I want to thank the City of Chicago. I want to thank the patient thousands who lined up in front of the Crazy Quilt box office and "laid their money on the line."

I WANT TO THANK

the Newspaper Critics. Overzealous friends in New York gave me letters of introduction to them. I never presented them. I came in "cold," and their reviews of a show produced by a stranger were very gracious, very kind.

I WANT TO THANK

the Mayor of Chicago. Open arms put over opening nights, and the presence of Mr. Cermak and his staff at our premiere provided that most elusive theatrical asset—glamour and excitement "out front." His kind words during the intermission testified to his sense of humor, and that in a public official is rarer than meat in a plate of Bolshevik soup.

I WANT TO THANK

the Messrs. Gerson and Garrity, who pilot the Shubert ship on these western waters. Their consistent courtesy and courageous co-operation are quite bewildering to a young man accustomed only to the sledge-hammer tactics of New York sharpshooters.

Some years ago a very rich idiot said, "The public be damned." By reversing the English and changing the phrase to "The public be Pleased," I find myself with a Depression-Proof Hit. Give the people what they want, scale it so they can afford it, and you can pump gold corpuscles into the most anemic box office.

May I say very emphatically that this attraction will never be exhibited at Cut Rates. By slashing the price to Three Dollars for the Best Seats, and with hundreds of seats available for as little as Fifty Cents, I did all the cutting I intend to do BEFORE I OPENED.

In extending the run of Crazy Quilt for ANOTHER FOUR WEEKS I have jammed up my bookings all over the country. I close here Thanksgiving week—no matter how big the business. Signed contracts to play other cities make this imperative. The seating capacity of the Apollo Theater will hold 12,000 people on the basis of eight performances a week—which means that in the next four weeks less than 50,000 out of a population of 4,000,000 will be able ot see this Three Star Jumbo.

I WANT TO THANK

Horace Greeley, who said, "Go West, Young Man!" He was a smart old gentleman.

Sincerely,

Billy Rose

FAMOUS PILOTS ENTER CHARITY AVIATION SHOW

Twelve famous pilots have accepted THE TRIBUNE'S invitation to participate in the charity air show to be held for the relief of Chicago's unemployed on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 8, over Grant park.

MRS. PHOEBE OMLIE. [A. P. Photo.]

Lieut. Alford J. Williams, former navy ace and racing pilot, says he will show Chicago something new in high speed flying. John Livingston of Aurora, Ill., who has won more national air race events than any other pilot, promised to be present in his small yellow monocoupe.

Mrs. Phoebe Fairgrave Omlie of Memphis, winner of the transcontinental sweepstakes air derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland this year over a field of men and women pilots, will fly her yellow and red monocoupe. James Wedell, famous racing pilot and associate of Maj. James H. Doolittle, will be present.

Thompson Trophy Winner.

Lowell Bayles, winner of this year's Thompson trophy race, the land plane speed classic of the United States, in his Gee Bee racer, will fly to Chicago for the charity air show. Miss Maude Irving Talt, society girl of Springfield, Mass., will fly her Gee Bee racer to Chicago, accompanying Bayles.

Bernt Balchen, pilot on many of Rear Admiral Byrd's expeditions, will be present. Casey Jones, famous member of the Early Birds and leader of many reliability tours, who is manager of Curtiss-Wright Flying service, will be present.

Russell Boardman and John Polando, who flew from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, and Hugh Herndon jr. and Clyde Pangborn, trans-Pacific fliers, plan to visit the charity air show.

Col. Rickenbacker Invited.

Col. E. V. Rickenbacker, American ace of aces, has been invited to attend the races and to bring the Fokker F-32, largest land plane built in the United States, which carries 32 passengers. The plane is now in Chicago for a brief visit. It is owned by the General Motors corporation. Several concerns owning autogiros have been invited to send them for demonstrations, and builders of new types of aircraft are invited to exhibit their planes before Chicagoans at the charity event.

Preliminary plans for the air show were outlined at a meeting held in the Tribune Tower by a committee that will have charge of all arrangements. Capt. Max Corpening presided. Maj. Reed Landis, chairman of the Illinois aeronautics commission, was enthusiastic about the event. Russell Forgan, representing the mayor's emergency relief committee, was placed in charge of arrangements for the collections for charity at the air show. Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of Sky Harbor airport, was placed in charge of providing airport accommodations for the visiting pilots.

Seek Air Lines' Help.

E. P. Manning, vice president of the Ford corporation, was asked to solicit the cooperation of the air lines operating out of Chicago. M. C. Meigs representing Chicago's many sportsmen pilots at the meeting. The airports were represented by Maj. Schroeder, Earl S. Day, manager of Curtiss-Reynolds airport; Owen Jones of Palwaukee airport, and John A. Casey, manager of Chicago airport.

A. C. Apel of the aviation department of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, declared his company would furnish gasoline and oil for the army air corps and navy planes, as well as for the planes of famous pilots participating in the charity air show.

Park Board Represented.

The south park board was represented by H. S. Richards, general superintendent, and V. K. Brown, superintendent of playgrounds, who took charge of the traffic control system to be devised for handling the crowds that are expected to attend the air show. Chicago's aviation activities not otherwise covered were represented by Bob Gast and Capt. H. M. Berry.

Transportation of the visiting flyers has been arranged through the Franklin Automobile Company, Inc., whose president, Marshall Allen, promised to supply a fleet of Franklin automobiles for the use of the pilots. These cars will not only be available for official trips of the visiting pilots, but for their private use about the city as well.

The largest land plane manufactured in the United States, the Fokker F-32, which carries 32 passengers and is powered by four 575 horsepower Hornet motors, arrived at Chicago airport yesterday. The big plane in the new Century Air Lines hangar, will make several flights over the city today, and tomorrow before returning to Detroit. It is owned by General Motors corporation and was flown by William N. DeWald, chief pilot for General Motors. Two of the planes are now in service between Los Angeles and San Francisco, in the service of Transcontinental and Western Air.

Century Air lines, operating out of Chicago, and its affiliate, Century-Pacific lines, operating on the west coast, both divisions of the Cord corporation, during July and August carried 29.8 per cent of all air passengers in the United States. All air lines carried 169,945 passengers, while Century and Century-Pacific carried 32,819 revenue passengers.

DELAY RETURN OF 3 U. S. "CRUSOES" FROM COCOS ISLE

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The American gunboat Sacramento, which rescued three Americans who had been marooned on Cocos island in the South Pacific for more than six months, stood by today off the island while its crew collected the equipment of the castaways.

Rear Admiral N. E. Irwin, commandant here, radioed the commander of the gunboat to use his discretion regarding the return, and it may be the end of the week before the men reach Balboa.

Additional information said the refugees, Paul Stachwick, Gordon Brawner and Elmer J. Palliser, were spotted on the south coast of the island yesterday by Chief Quartermaster Michelfelder while the Sacramento was a mile and a half from shore.

U. S. SPENDING TWICE AS FAST AS IT COLLECTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—At the conclusion of not quite the first four months of the government's 1932 fiscal year, the expenditures have been more than double the national income, it was revealed at the treasury department today.

During the July 1-Oct. 26 period, total receipts aside from those obtained through borrowing amounted to $680,433,000, while expenditures totaled $1,360,651,000.

Governmental expenditures for the year are already 251 million greater than for a corresponding period last year. If the same rate of expenditure were maintained throughout the remaining months, the year's total would amount to only 40 million less than five billion dollars.

Unless the coming congress finds new sources of revenue and with the deficit mounting at its present rate the deficit at the close of the fiscal year will be in excess of two billion dollars. With nothing yet set aside for the public debt sinking fund the deficit so far this fiscal year, with figures complete up to Oct. 26, amounts to $655,961,851.

On the basis of present figures, expenditures during the 1932 fiscal year will exceed those of 1931 by approximately 741 million dollars and those of 1930 by 966 millions.

Losses in revenue will be about 686 million dollars from 1931 and one billion 546 million dollars from 1930, if present averages are continued throughout the year.

CHICAGO'S OLDEST QUALITY FOOD STORE

Invites You to Its Fall Food Exposition

FOR well over a half century we have had the privilege of supplying discriminating Chicagoans with quality foods at moderate prices. While we have never sacrificed quality to price alone, we have recognized the trend towards economy in food expenditures and have adjusted our prices accordingly.

The three cardinal requirements of Quality, Service and Economy form, so to speak, the keystone of our organization. Quality—the best. Service—ample and ungrudgingly given. Economy—price as low as possible commensurate with value.

With this little introduction we invite you to visit our store on the occasion of our Fall Food Exposition.

You will find a wonderful display of foods gathered from the four corners of the earth, delightful to the eye and pleasing to the taste. For the daily meals or for the festive and special occasion you will find something suitable. Fruits, Groceries, Poultry, Delicacies of all sorts, Pastry, Candy, Preserves from our own immaculate kitchens are all here for your convenience. Come in and look over this tempting display and be assured of a cordial and courteous welcome, whether you purchase or not.

Yours truly,

President

DUCE SHAKES UP PARTY; WORKERS GET MORE POWER

Chiefs Accused of Using Fascism for Own Ends.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 28.—Fascism entered upon its tenth year today with rumblings of internal reform. The outward celebration of the event was along generally subdued lines. Premier Mussolini inaugurated the new building of the aviation ministry in Rome, while in Trieste Princess Maria Jose broke a bottle of champagne over the nose of the new fast liner, Conte de Savoia, which will become a seven day link between Naples and New York. There were bands and flags in the town squares all over Italy.

PRINCESS MARIE JOSE.
[Acme Photo.]

But the anniversary was also observed by a distinct turn of Fascist politics towards the left, as they say in European parliamentary terms. Mussolini announced this change in his second speech at Naples, and it was the signal for much pent up feeling to break loose. The press tonight opened an attack on capitalism as it now stands. They railed against plutocracy.

Charge Fascists Are Selfish.

Many Fascists have been using the party for what they could get out of it, refusing to cooperate with sacrifices in crucial times, is the allegation.

Lavora Fascista, organ of the workers' syndicalist organizations, to which is usually confided the task of foreshadowing coming events, tonight predicted there will soon be changes involving the ousting of certain groups and certain men among the economic leaders.

"We do not want to abolish capitalism, but we want to make those guilty in the present crisis pay the penalty for it and substitute people who know what the function of capital is in the Fascist society," the paper declared.

Will Lower Barriers.

Plans are afoot to lower Fascist party barriers. It is admitted that through too strict selective methods Fascism has become isolated from the rest of the Italian population. But the main manifestation of the turn toward the left, or "ever more towards the people," as Mussolini phrased it, will take place in a reform of the Fascist syndical organization which will reintroduce the elective principle and more liberty.

The Fascist syndicates have heretofore been strictly controlled by the government through the right accorded Giuseppe Bottai, minister of corporations, to ratify the choice of all syndical leaders. The result of this system was that in practice all syndical or labor leaders were appointed. Fascists or men who could be relied on for political sympathy filled the posts. This served some purposes, but brought about general apathy among the rank and file of the workers. More than 2,000,000 belong to the syndicates, but less than 1,000,000 belong to the Fascist party.

Limit Ratification Power.

Reforms apparently were ordered at a meeting of the national council of corporations a week ago, although an official announcement has not yet been made. Hereafter workers will be allowed to elect all leaders of local organizations, while these leaders, in turn, will choose leaders of the superior, provincian, and national groups.

Minister Bottai's powers of ratification will be limited to the very highest directors.

WICKERSHAM BACKS NORMAN THOMAS FOR BURROUGH PRESIDENT

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Support of Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate in the tricornered fight for borough president of Manhattan, was urged today by George W. Wickersham, former United States attorney general and chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

In a letter to the press urging Republican and independent voters to back the Socialist candidate, Mr. Wickersham described Mr. Thomas as "the outstanding candidate," whose election, he said, would be "a great forward step" toward improving in city government.

"Party lines should never control municipal affairs," Mr. Wickersham said. "Smart, successful and cold blooded gouging of the public should no longer be deemed a qualification for public office."

An opportunity for reform through nonpartisan efforts has been created by the "seething corruption" exposed by the Seabury committee, Mr. Wickersham said.

MANGANO FREED; POLICE WARN HIM TO LEAVE CITY

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan learned yesterday what Chief of Detectives Schoemaker thought of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, who had been under arrest since Monday. Judge Hartigan was about to discharge the defendant when Schoemaker entered the courtroom.

"This man is public enemy No. 4," Schoemaker said. "He is a hoodlum and is one of the men who are tearing down Chicago's reputation. Newspapers in Africa, China, South America, and Europe point at Chicago as the crime center of the world. We're going to stop that. We're going to arrest Dago Lawrence every time we see him. And we're going to throw him in jail."

But, as there was no specific evidence against Mangano, he was freed and he left the South State court and police building with Schoemaker's warning following him: "Get out of Chicago or suffer the consequences."

JUDGE STRIKES BLOW AT BAIL HOPE OF CAPONE

was qualified to carry a pistol anywhere and meant no contempt of court by sitting behind Capone in court with the gun strapped about him.

When Clerk Joseph O'Sullivan announced the case of "United States versus Philip D'Andrea," Judge Wilkerson began reading from a prepared statement, first fixing an eye upon D'Andrea, who sat behind Attorneys Ahern and Joseph Roach.

Court Reads Statement.

"The defendant here is charged with contempt of court," the judge said, speaking with deliberation.

"The specific act upon which the proceeding is based was that of coming before the court in company with the defendant in the case of the United States versus Capone with a revolver and ammunition in his pocket.

"Now it clearly appears from the facts and circumstances before the court in this proceeding and at the trial of United States versus Capone, that this respondent's activities were linked with those of an organized body of men whose outlaw camp is at the Lexington hotel.

"Insurrection Against U. S."

"Of this body, Defendant Capone was chief. The respondent claims that he did not know what this band was doing, but his understanding is that they are engaged in gambling and bootlegging. It is perfectly clear from a long array of conclusive circumstances that this band exercises a coercive influence over those with whom it comes in contact, which is nothing less than insurrection against the laws of the United States.

"The court would have been blind indeed if it had not observed the intimidation practiced upon witnesses almost under the eyes of the court. It must be borne in mind that this respondent was sitting with his concealed firearm behind the defendant [Capone] while defendant was glaring at witnesses who were on the point of remembering something about the business in which the defendant was engaged and which the witnesses could not possibly have forgotten; yet witnesses faltered and failed at the critical point.

"Array of Shocking Perjury."

"To this camp at the Lexington were summoned the witnesses who testified to the defendant Capone's losses on horse races. To that camp were summoned counsel for conferences. And from that camp, under what coercive influences we can only conjecture from what transpired in court, came that array of shocking perjury with which the court was confronted during the closing days of the trial.

"We had here the spectacle of witness after witness testifying in a way which was psychologically impossible, pretending to remember things which in the very nature of the human mind the witness could not have remembered if the had forgotten the things which he pretended to have forgotten. It was perjury on its face.

"The activities of this band were a menace to the court and its officers and to the due administration of justice.

"However, the part of the respondent was not the major one. The pistol was less serious than the perjury.

"The respondent is sentenced to six months in the county jail of Cook county."

Ahern Makes Protest.

D'Andrea blinked once or twice as the reading ended, but otherwise gave no sign of feeling. Attorney Ahern was on his feet instantly.

"Your honor," he exclaimed, "no one summoned defense counsel to the Lexington hotel. Fink and Ahern were not summoned anywhere and could not be summoned except under court process."

"I will accept your statement," said Judge Wilkerson, nodding.

Mr. Ahern added that he had not wanted to examine the witnesses in his office. [Most of them were race track bookmakers and gamblers.]

"That may be so," replied the court, smiling broadly.

Mr. Ahern then asked for the two weeks' stay of sentence, and this was granted after Assistant United States Attorney Jacob I. Grossman had indicated to the court that he had no objection.

U. S. Prosecutors Pleased.

Expressions of satisfaction at the sentence came immediately from the prosecutors of Capone and D'Andrea. United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson was obviously delighted with the court's judgment and paticularly with the summation of the Capone trial, but he would make no comment.

GUILTY VERDICT FOR ROBBER IN CURRAN HOLDUP

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—A jury today convicted Eugene Moore on a charge of robbery with a gun, growing out of the holdup of State Representative James Curran of Chicago. The crime was committed near here Sept. 22, and cost Curran, former Bridewell superintendent, $30 and his automobile.

Immediately after Moore had been convicted, his confederate, John [Buster] Miles, pleaded guilty to plain robbery. The penalty for plain robbery is one year to twenty years in prison. For robbery with a gun, Moore faces a one year to life penalty. These incidents were followed by the impaneling of a jury to try Albert Leider, alias Bernstein, the alleged third member of the highway robbery trio. He pleaded not guilty.

Another action in the case was the release by Judge A. W. Deseim of four Chicagoans who had been cited for contempt for failure to respond to summonses as defense witnesses. They had been held in jail over night. They were Mr. and Mrs. James Hester, Henry Gendy, and Mrs. William Ryan.

JUDGE REBUKES OFFICIALS WHO TAX ILLEGALLY

Holds Many Levies Void in Railroads' Case.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Public officials who err in tax matters were given a public rebuke yesterday by County Judge Jarecki. He said that some of them levied taxes which they knew were illegal, resulting in uninformed property owners paying them and the large corporations contesting them successfully.

Attorney Robert N. Holt was before the court protesting against taxes on behalf of certain railroads.

Mr. Holt told the court that for the 1928 taxes the village of Bartlett levied 10 cents more per $100 valuation for village purposes than the statutes authorize. Judge Jarecki agreed with him, and the 10 cents was eliminated.

Holt Whittles the Rates.

The court declared that an item of $59,000 for contingencies in the Berwyn levy was invalid, and Mr. Holt saved 12 cents on the tax rate for his railroad clients in that community. For the same reason Mr. Holt obtained a reduction of 20 cents in Dolton, of 1 cent in Broadview, 12 cents in South Chicago Heights, and 3 cents in the Niles Center park district.

In Harvey Mr. Holt made a saving of 11 cents per $100 valuation because he showed that the taxes levied for certain bonds and interest were for bonds which had not been authorized by a vote of the people. In Wilmette he saved 5 cents because an appropriation was held too indefinite.

More Savings Effected.

Mr. Holt saved his clients 42 cents on the tax rate in school district No. 88 in Proviso township. He showed that the school trustees were not authorized to levy a rate of more than $2 and they had actually levied $2.42.

In school district No. 156 in Thornton, $3.05 was levied on $100. Mr. Holt obtained a reduction of $1.05 for his clients there. In still another school district Mr. Holt saved 99 cents and in another 70 cents.

The commissioners of the Northwest, Old Portage, Sauganash, Jefferson, Irving, and Edison Park districts had levied taxes to pay a deficit in tax collections, which has been repeatedly declared illegal. In each of these districts Mr. Holt had the tax rate reduced 7 cents for his clients.

Holds Blue Island Levy Void.

Judge Jarecki ruled, on the evidence of Mr. Holt, that the entire city levy of Blue Island is void for the 1929 taxes. This relieves Mr. Holt's clients from all of the year's taxes in that community for city purposes.

The 1st park district of Evanston levied $18,000 and Mr. Holt proved that $17,500 of that total is illegal and invalid.

"One way to avoid this trouble," said Judge Jarecki later, "is to have the tax rates passed upon by the court before the taxes are spread. That would give every taxpayer the benefit of any reduction through illegal levies.

Members of the board of review, composed of Charles V. Barrett, Edward R. Litsinger, and Edward J. Hughes, through their attorneys, Roy Massena and Hayden Bell, stated yesterday that they are working so hard they have not had time to attend the hearings on the objections of 57 large loop property owners to their 1928 taxes. These owners pay about $6,300,000 a year in taxes, of which about 83 per cent has been turned in for 1928.

The objectors have sought to prove that the board of review denied them a hearing, to which they are entitled by statute. They assert the reviewers violated tax rules 14 and 15 in arriving at the assessments on the properties.

Board Asks More Time.

When the objectors finished their evidence yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, the attorneys for the reviewers told the court that the reviewers need added time to decide what their defense shall be. The complaints have been pending on the 1928 taxes for more than a year and on the 1929 taxes for four months. Judge Jarecki continued the case until Nov. 4.

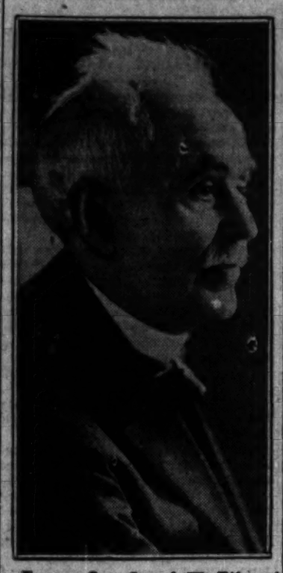
"Do you say that the board of review is working?" Attorney Massena was asked after the hearing.

"They are working every day up to midnight," he replied.

A trip to the board of review offices disclosed that the members were not there, and that they have no tax complaints up for hearing for this morning.

Later in the day the De Paul Educational Aid society paid $10,000 of its 1929 tax bill of $28,441 on property at 64 East Lake street. The society is one of the tax objectors who have filed suits in the county court.

91 YEARS OLD



Former Gov. Joseph W. Fifer of Illinois.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Joseph W. Fifer celebrated his 91st birthday here today quietly among friends. Fifer voiced optimism at the condition of national and international affairs. "Prosperity," he said, "will come bouncing back like a rubber ball."

ALDERMEN BEGIN WORK TO BRING IN UNPAID TAXES

Learn Delinquency for 3 Years Is 141 Million.

In the last three tax years—1927, 1928 and 1929—Cook county has accumulated on its books $126,036,164 of uncollected taxes and $15,246,052 of forfeitures—a total of $141,282,217, or about 19.9 per cent of the taxes levied for that period.

The local governments have been spending on the assumption that these taxes would be paid, and consequently have acquired large deficits.

In an effort to collect these taxes, the city council has appointed a special committee headed by Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th], which is scheduled to have its first session tomorrow. The committee yesterday received information on uncollected taxes from the county treasurer.

Realty Tax Payments Drop.

The treasurer's report shows that while owners of personal and railroad property have continued to pay as usual, owners of real estate have failed to pay in increasing numbers during the three year period. The uncollected real estate taxes, which were $2,000,000 in 1927, increased to $16,000,000 in 1928 and to $64,000,000 in 1929.

Due to the reappraisal of all real estate in Cook county the 1928 taxes were lower than in 1927, but the 1929 tax bill was nearly 20 per cent higher than in 1928, and the 1930 bill promises to be 10 per cent above that of 1929. The tax rates for 1931 will be higher than those for 1930.

Unpaid taxes.	1929.	1928.	1927.
Realty	$64,625,000	$16,799,000	$ 2,250,000
Personal	15,514,000	12,554,000	13,658,000
Railroad	332,000	146,000	336,000
Totals	$80,471,000	$29,199,000	$16,374,000

The treasurer reported that he is prohibited from collecting $49,523,641 of the unpaid 1929 real estate taxes because the property owners have obtained the protection of the courts. The remainder of the unpaid taxes is now being sold, but the tax buyers are purchasing very little.

City and School Tax Situation.

The aldermanic committee is primarily interested in getting cash on which to operate the city, and the public schools, and has asked information on that phase of the subject.

The treasurer reports that the 1929 tax extensions for the city and schools totaled $148,888,500, of which $53,569,495 is uncollected.

For 1928 the school and city taxes levied totaled $125,880,303, of which $21,129,663 remains uncollected.

For 1927 the taxes levied for city and schools totaled $138,566,412, of which $11,534,893 remains uncollected.

For the three years the city and schools are involved in the tax delinquencies to the extent of $86,234,051.

SISTER OF POLICE CAPTAIN, BAILIFF WEDS ENGINEER

Miss Mae Horan, 26 years old, a social worker for the Cook county bureau of public welfare, sister of Albert J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, and of Capt. John P. Horan of the police department, was married yesterday morning to Edward J. Kelly, engineer, 29 years old, in Our Lady of Sorrows church, Jackson boulevard and Albany avenue.

Capt. Horan gave away the bride. The Rev. S. C. Mulhern performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Shittling and the Rev. Thomas Caulkins of Detroit. A reception at the Edgewater Beach hotel followed, which was attended by Mayor Cermak, Senator James Hamilton Lewis and other officials.

WIFE DIVORCES AL QUODBACH, OWNER OF CAFE

Mrs. Marjorie Quodbach, 4910 Drexel boulevard, was granted a divorce from Alfred J. Quodbach, owner of the Granada cafe, by Judge Harry B. Miller in the Superior court yesterday. She charged cruelty.

She was given a cash settlement of $11,000 in lieu of alimony, and Quodbach promised not to remarry for a year to assure his meeting the payments on the settlement. He paid $2,000 and will pay the rest in installments of $300 a month.

Mrs. Quodbach was given permission to resume her maiden name, Marjorie O'Rourke.

YOU should have heard JOHN ON THE SUBJECT

I guess a man's point of view is different from a woman's, after all. I suppose it is their daily contact with business that often makes men impatient, and want quick action.

• You should have heard John after he had his first glass of Wanzer's Milk. "Why haven't we been having milk like this all the time?"—was his first comment.

• Imagine that! Instead of thanking me, he actually scolded! Men are like that—and it's a good thing we women understand them.

Try WANZER'S MILK

• We suggest that if your family has not already discovered the rich flavor of Wanzer's Milk, that you try it for one month. Phone Boulevard 7900—and say when you want service to begin. We believe you will quickly learn the reason why Wanzer customers are so loyal.

• Sidney Wanzer & Sons, established 1857, is Chicago's oldest milk company. It is still owned and operated by the Wanzers.

• Wanzer's milk and dairy products are available to every Chicago home, as well as in the north suburbs of Evanston, Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, and Glencoe; in Oak Park and surrounding suburbs west, and in all suburbs south.

THE TEMPERATURE YOU WANT . . . AS LONG AS YOU WANT IT

The chart shows the amazing accuracy of the G-E Heat Regulator in controlling temperature . . . accuracy made possible by its exclusive, patented features. For instance: the regulator gives graduated control of furnace-drafts (or fuel-valves), instead of having them either completely open or completely closed. This prevents overshooting, or dropping way below, the temperature you select. It anticipates rises in room-temperature, and slows down the heat as required, thus keeping your home from becoming uncomfortably warm.

The G-E Heat Regulator gets the temperature you want—and maintains it with not more than ½ of 1 degree variation!

IT SOUNDS EASY. It is easy.

All you have to do is set the thermostat. The new General Electric Heat Regulator does the rest. It gets the temperature you select—and maintains it with not more than ½ of 1 degree variation—regardless of outside weather-conditions.

Accuracy such as this is made possible only by means of new and exclusive heat-control features developed in the G-E Laboratories. These features make your home more healthful, and more comfortable. They save on fuel-bills.

You can easily afford the G-E Heat Regulator: $85 for the single-range model; $125 for the double-range model (illustrated) with an electric timer for automatic day-and-night temperature-changes. Prices include installation. Time-payments if you wish.

Let us show it to you today. You can have the G-E Heat Regulator installed right now—without interrupting your regular heating.

MacDONALD, FREE OF OPPOSITION, MAPS PROGRAM

Landslide Wipes Out All His Radical Foes.

Doc" R. Forgan were defeated. Lady Cynthia, Sir Oswald's wife, did not run. "Young Bill" Allen thought discretion the better part of valor and did not attempt to fight at the polls. The latest recruit, Ted Lewis, boxer, forfeited his deposit because he failed to poll one-eighth of the votes in Whitechapel.

Britain Is Stunned.

It is not exaggerating to say that the leaders of all parties were stunned by the result. In their wildest dreams neither MacDonald nor Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, expected such a complete stampede.

The Labor party lost at least 235 seats. The election broke many records, prominent among which is the fact that the government's majority of 496 is the largest in history. The previous record dates back to 1832, when the Liberals had a majority of 370. The Labor party lost at least 235 seats.

70 Per Cent of Vote Cast.

Returns indicated that more than 70 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls. With seven constituencies still unreported, the total vote was 21,152,713. The number of voters on the rolls was 29,955,131.

An analysis of the votes cast at midnight showed 14,178,725 for the National party and 6,973,988 for the opposing groups. Fifty-three candidates forfeited their deposits, having failed to poll one-eighth of the total in their districts.

There is tonight an undercurrent of alarm at the size of the National party's majority, especially since it is so overwhelmingly Tory. Out of a total of 608 members so far announced 470 are Conservatives and the balance National Labor, National Liberal and Labor.

If the Conservatives wished, they could seize the reins of the government and throw out MacDonald and their Labor and Liberal allies. It is not expected that they will dare do so, and it is certain that Baldwin, Neville Chamberlain, and other moderate Conservative leaders will fight against any such action, but the very absence of opposition is regarded as a dangerous feature. No experienced Laborites are left in parliament and the danger is that the National program will be passed without discussion or criticism.

Labor Action Uncertain.

It is not known yet whether efforts will be made to find safe seats for Henderson, John R. Clynes, and other defeated Labor leaders.

The biggest majority of the whole election went to Sir Cooper Rawson, Conservative for Brighton, with more than a 62,000 majority. The smallest was that of A. J. Flint, National Laborite, who received a majority of 2.

MacDonald Hails His Victory; Defeated Laborites Are Bitter

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Prime Minister MacDonald on his return to London tonight issued a message to the nation, thanking "millions of persons of all parties who subordinated party feelings and issues to the pressing national needs.

"A majority as unique as it is gratifying must convince the whole world that when this country calls for assistance, willing hands and devoted minds will always respond heartily," he message said. "We appealed for a demonstration of national unity and the response has been far beyond the dreams of the most enthusiastic of us."

The prime minister gave his assurance that "our triumph in no way means that either the interests or the viewpoint of the working classes will be overlooked in the performance of the task before us."

Baldwin Hails Victory.

Stanley Baldwin, conservative leader, said the result means that the "common sense of the British people is proof against the propaganda of demagogues." He emphasized that it was a national victory and not one of any single party.

"The effect on foreign opinion cannot be overestimated," he said. "The overwhelming support given the national government will resound throughout the world and reestablish confidence in the stability and greatness of the country."

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer said: "The result is a magnificent justification of democracy."

Referring to the Labor party's disaster the chancellor declared he regretted it, because the "Labor leaders brought the catastrophe upon themselves and the party by their folly, lack of courage and leadership, and their misunderstanding of the popular spirit. They hoped to exploit the unemployed for party advantage. Electors in the industrial areas where unemployment is the highest have given a most emphatic condemnation to Labor leaders.

"This is not the end of the Labor party. It will rise again, but only with new leaders who have vision and courage. But it must be based on a citizens' and not a class outlook. This defeat of the Labor party will be for the ultimate good if the lesson is learned."

Henderson Is Bitter.

BURNLEY, Lancashire, Eng., Oct. 28.—(AP)—"Uncle Arthur" Henderson, whose Labor party was swamped in the general election, in a statement today, declared:

"A shattering blow has been dealt at labor in parliament. This is not the first time the electors have been duped on a grand scale, but what is astonishing is to find that the old electioneering deception has been utilized by men who in the past have been victims with us of wild and vile calumnies.

"It would be idle to deny that labor has suffered a severe setback, but the labor movement is not broken, its spirit is not crushed.

"Neither is it discredited. Our total vote is clear proof of the strength of labor in the constituencies. No one will be able to claim that the new parliament is a fair representation of the opinion of the country.

"The new house of commons will be a mockery of democratic parliamentary representation and from the standpoint of general national interest this is a danger and a disaster.

"Labor as the only effective bulwark against reaction and revolution has not been destroyed."

NEW PARLIAMENT WILL READ LIKE A SOCIAL REGISTER

Wealth and Number of Titles a Record.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—No parliament in recent times has contained as many titles and as much wealth among its members as the overwhelming Conservative parliament elected yesterday.

Not since the days when labor was still a small, struggling force has there been a house of commons like it. To find an exact parallel one must go back to the parliaments of early Victorian times, when title or wealth were virtually prerequisites to membership.

In 1929 it was teachers, accountants, shopkeepers, and trade union officials who trooped to Westminster behind Ramsay MacDonald. This time their places will be filled with captains of industry, sons of nobility, lawyers, and other representatives of what Britain still calls the "upper classes."

The number of military titles alone would be enough to stagger a pacifist. In the new parliament there will be one major general, five brigadier generals, 22 lieutenant colonels, and altogether more than 125 members with military or naval rank above that of captain or commander. None of these, of course, is still in active service.

Among the war heroes in parliament is Brig. Gen. E. L. Spears, formerly aide-de-camp to Sir John French, later head of the British military mission to Paris during the war, and recently author of a book of reminiscences entitled "Liaison—1914." Gen. Spears is the husband of the former Mary Borden of Chicago.

Twenty of the new members of parliament are heirs to peerages and thus have "lord" prefixed to their names. There will also be three peeresses — Viscountess Astor, Countess Iveagh and the duchess of Atholl.

Lord Ednam, probably the prince of Wales' closest friend, was also elected and will resume a parliamentary career which was interrupted in 1924. After losing a son and then his wife in tragic succession last year Lord Ednam accompanied the prince on his South American tour.

Americans listening to debates from the strangers' gallery will recognize Alfred C. Bossom, noted architect, who, after several attempts, was elected for Maidstone, Kent. Bossom is British, but made his fortune in New York as the designer of skyscrapers and public buildings.

WOMEN HOLD OWN IN BRITISH VOTE; LAND 14 SEATS

13 Are Tories and All but 4 Are Newcomers.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Fourteen women, led by Lady Nancy Astor, contribution of the first families of Virginia to British politics, will grace the green leatherbacked chairs of the house of commons when the new house is convoked next month. There were fifteen women in the last house.

Thirteen of the fourteen have staunch Conservative convictions. One, Miss Megan Lloyd George, whose election platform was Ruth's "Whither Thou Goest I Will Go"—she applied it to her father—is a Liberal.

Not one of the thirty-six women candidates of the Labor party was elected. There were ten women Laborites in the last parliament.

Pretty Jenny Lee Defeated.

Only four of the fourteen victors have sat in the house of commons before—Lady Astor, Lady Iveagh, the duchess of Atholl, and Miss Lloyd George.

Among those who will be missing when parliament convenes will be 26 year old Jenny Lee, Scottish miner's daughter, whose pretty features, black eyes, black bobbed hair and clever retorts have been among the amenities of long commons sessions for the last two years. The miners of Larnack, Scotland, voted emphatically that she should go back home.

Missing along with Jenny Lee will be Miss Margaret Bondfield—"Our Maggie"—minister of labor in the late Labor government, who sometimes appeared for commons sessions in a dinky picture hat, black dress and low heeled shoes and carrying a large black umbrella.

Mary Pickford Wins Seat.

Another who won't be there is Miss Ellen Wilkinson. She goes to work Monday as a trades union official.

Among the newcomers are Mary Pickford, daughter of the late Lord Sterndale; Miss Irene Ward, who beat Miss Bondfield; Miss Thelma Cazalet, Miss F. M. Graves, Mrs. Ida Copeland, Miss Florence Horsbrugh, Mrs. N. C. Runge, Mrs. H. B. Tate, Mrs. Helen Shaw, and Mrs. W. J. Ward.

MILLIONS LOST IN GAMBLES ON ELECTION RESULT

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The landslide for the National government had a sensational effect on unofficial speculation in majorities on the stock exchange, which assumed large proportions in recent weeks.

In consequence millions of dollars have been won and lost in this speculation. Lord Rothermere is understood to be in position to collect more than $388,000 settlement day, Nov. 10, is awaited with great anxiety by many losers of heavy amounts.

Most of the dealings took place on a basis of a 200 majority, although in some cases it went as low as 150. The betters wagered a set amount on each number over or under the specified majority. There was heavy buying and selling of majorities this week.

"Mother understands, but..."

"I KNOW it's not pleasant to shave, son, but surely you won't continue to risk the respect of your wife just to avoid a little discomfort. I really think Mary has been quite tolerant. Your father was always careful about shaving and I would have felt very badly if he hadn't been particular. I don't think you can realize how much this means to a woman, although before you and Mary were married I never saw you without a clean shave. Now you're getting careless, and Mary is terribly upset about it. She hasn't mentioned it to me, but I know you're treading on dangerous ground. Mary can't help but think you care less for her now than you did when you married her, and I know that isn't the case. Please, son, you'll make us both happy if you're more careful about shaving."

Mother is right, a clean shave is extremely important to most women. A growth of stubble is repulsive and can actually cost the respect of wife or sweetheart. In the past shaving may have been a task to avoid. Now Gillette offers a fine new razor blade, a remarkably keen blade that shears the beard without discomfort. It was designed especially for men with tender skin and is, we believe, the finest razor blade ever produced. Try it on our positive guarantee of satisfaction. Buy a package and slip one in your razor tomorrow morning. You agree it is a far superior blade, that every shave is quick and clean, or return the package to your dealer and get a refund.

FILIPINOS FROWN AND KEEP MUM ON HOOVER STAND

Independence Leaders Steer Clear of Comment.

MANILA, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Filipino leaders and the populace generally hid their feelings to themselves when newspapers gave wide display today to President Hoover's statement that Philippine independence under present conditions would be disastrous to the islands.

Referring to the President's declaration that "independence tomorrow without assured economic stability would result in the collapse of Philippine government revenues and the paralysis of all economic life in the islands," Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, said "the President has not made a concrete proposition." He therefore saw no reason for the Nationalista party, of which he is leader, to take a stand on Hoover's statement.

Glad of Hoover's Interest.

Senator Sergio Osmena expressed pleasure that President Hoover was interesting himself in Philippine independence, as it was "only through concerted action of the leaders of the two peoples that the problem will be solved."

In absence of further comment by Filipino leaders, there seems only one way to reach an appraisal of their reaction. This is to consider the accepted custom of their country. Then pleased, Filipinos are enthusiastic in praise; when mildly disappointed or unimpressed, they say nothing; when displeased, they villify the object of their displeasure.

Since Hoover has been neither praised nor villified, the presumption is that Filipinos are either slightly disappointed or unimpressed.

Test Public Sentiment.

The American owned Manila Bulletin, interpreting President Hoover's statement as definitely committing him against immediate independence, says "it thereby eases the situation materially."

The newspaper considers the Hoover statement and one by Quezon concerning independence, which were issued in Washington and Manila respectively almost simultaneously, as "balloons to ascertain public sentiment. It regards them favorably because "never before has there been a great manifestation of desire to go at the question calmly and face facts and consequences squarely."

YOUTH, 16, CHARGED IN TRUE BILLS WITH MURDER AND RAPE

VERNON ROYALS.

Vernon Royals, 16 years old, was reported named in true bills charging murder and rape voted by the grand jury yesterday. The youth has confessed that he shot and killed Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 35 years old, near the Forest Glen station of the Milwaukee railroad on Feb. 18, 1930, and that he raped Mrs. Jane Myers, 53 years old, a week ago.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Thomas Johnson took eight witnesses before the grand jury. Among those who testified were Stanley Lavander, husband of the slain woman, and Mrs. Myers, who has identified Royals as her attacker. Mrs. Myers, who lives at 5445 Ardmore avenue, has been under a physician's care since the attack.

After the rape of Mrs. Myers detectives dressed in shabby clothes waited around the Forest Glen station. The attack had taken place just 200 feet from the spot where Mrs. Lavander's body was found. Royals appeared and as he answered the description of the assailant he was arrested. He confessed.

WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE FROM FRANK BAACKES

Mrs. Florence Williamson Baackes, 2719 Iroquois road, Wilmette, yesterday started a suit for divorce in the Circuit court charging her husband, Frank Baackes II., son of the late president of the American Steel and Wire company, with habitual intoxication.

Soon after their marriage on New Year's day, 1921, Mrs. Baackes charges in her bill, which was drawn by Attorney David W. Kahane, her husband began drinking. For the next four years, she declares, he was intoxicated almost daily.

Due to her remonstrances, she asserted, he stopped his use of liquor for three years, but in 1929 he again began to drink. They parted but when he promised to stop drinking she returned to him in May, 1930, according to the bill. He failed to keep the promise, Mrs. Baackes charges, and she left him on Oct. 16. Mrs. Baackes asks the custody of the two children, Frank III., 3 years old, and John, 6 years old.

Baackes resides with his mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Baackes, at 1640 East 50th street. His father died on Oct. 18, 1930.

Reynolds Heir, 15 Months Old, Inherits $1,785,415

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—John Mitchell Reynolds 3d, who is 15 months old, has just fallen heir to $1,785,415. News of the bequest came from Hamilton, O., where the will of his great grandmother, Mrs. S. Jennie Sorg, was filed for probate. Eventually, through his mother, the former Florence Jane Drouillard, he will be possessor of $14,000,000.

FASCIST TROOPS INVADE MALTA AND START RIOTS

Britain Sends Sharp Note of Protest to Rome.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Reports received in London today said 400 Italian Fascist militiamen invaded Malta last Sunday, marched to the main square with their colors flying and bands playing and engaged in spirited street fighting, first with natives who hesitated to salute when the Italian national anthem was played and then with police who were summoned to put down the riot.

The militiamen appeared on the occasion of a great demonstration for union with Italy, which coincided with Premier Mussolini's arrival in Naples for the Fascist celebration of the anniversary of the march on Rome.

In addition to the Italian national anthem the Fascist hymn was played. Those in the crowd who refused to salute were attacked by the militiamen and pro-Italians. The police arrived and escorted the invaders back to their boat. Immediately after the police raided the Fascist club.

It is reported in London that arms, batons, and papers implicating highly placed Italians in Rome were taken. The Malta government closed the Fascist club following the raid. The government has also forbidden the opening of the new Italian school for higher culture.

It is understood that the British embassy in Rome has delivered a stiff verbal note to the quirinal, pointing out that no organization is allowed to plant its uniform or flag on British territory without the king's permission.

The British matched the huge concentration of Italian war vessels at Malta during the Fascist demonstrations with six dreadnaughts, ten cruisers, four destroyer flotillas and submarines.

It is understood that work at the dockyards at Malta has been halted because the workers objected to cuts in wages. Efforts of officials to reach an agreement with the workers have failed, and ships which ordinarily report at Valetta for reconditioning are now forced to steam to Devonport or Plymouth.

DEFENSE EXPERT CALLS BELL SANE; FIGHT IN COURT

Slayer Swings Fists at Prosecutors.

Two of the witnesses called by the defense for Frank Bell, who escaped death in the electric chair on Oct. 19 for the murder of Chris Patras, north side restaurant owner, by a last minute appeal, testified yesterday during the sanity hearing before Judge Fred Rush that the defendant is sane. A third witness, himself under observation at the behavior clinic of the Criminal court, said he didn't know whether Bell was "insane or not."

This testimony followed Bell's attack an Assistant State's Attorneys Ross Lee Laird and Walker Butler at the close of the morning session. The prisoner broke away from his bailiffs, felled Laird to the floor and struck Butler on the jaw before he was subdued. Both prosecutors announced that they wanted to find out why the sheriff's office allowed a man condemned to death to enter a courtroom without handcuffs.

Lawyer Calls Him "Idiot."

After completion of the jury in the afternoon Defense Attorney Ralph Sharp said in his opening statement that he would prove Bell was a "lunatic" and "an idiot."

The first defense witness was then called to the stand. He was Edward Dolores, who is being examined by the behavior clinic and who is a county jail prisoner awaiting trial on a charge of incest. He admitted that he was a good friend of Bell's, but couldn't say whether Bell was insane or not.

Dr. Francis J. Gerty, the state's alienist in the case, then was asked to take the witness stand for the defense. He testified that after he had examined the defendant he had found him sane. Dr. Charles Murphy, the defense alienist, also asserted that Bell was sane.

Say Defense Proves Case.

When court adjourned the prosecutors said they didn't believe it would be necessary to call any witnesses for the state, for "the defense has proved our case."

Bell escaped death on an insanity petition. His one time pal, Richard Sullivan, who was bitter at Bell for exposing a jail break plot, went to the chair thinking Bell had preceded him.

FIGHT TO DELAY EXTRADITION OF WINNIE R. JUDD

She Fails to Recognize Murder "Aid."

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Extradition papers providing for the removal of Winnie Ruth Judd to Phoenix, Ariz., for trial on charges of murdering Agnes Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson were served on the sheriff here today, but there is at least one temporary legal barrier to her removal and a chance that there will be another.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus, filed when she surrendered last Friday night, will delay her removal at least until tomorrow. Hearing on the writ, set originally for next Tuesday, has been set ahead for tomorrow.

Another course of possible action by Mrs. Judd's attorneys is to attack the legality of the extradition papers on the basis that they contain technical flaws and demand an extradition hearing.

The state won one round in the extradition fight when Dr. Ben Blank, county physician, examined Mrs. Judd and reported that she is physically able to make the trip to Phoenix any time now.

While Attorney Louis Russill was representing Mrs. Judd in court when the habeas corpus hearing was set ahead, her brother, Burton McKinnell, sent her a letter advising her to make a second change in counsel. The first occurred several days ago when Richard Cantillon and Milan Megedovich withdrew because they were unable to agree with Russill on matters of defense policy.

Fred Williams, the itinerant chemist who walked into the Long Beach police station last night and declared that it was he and not Mrs. Judd who had slain Mrs. Le Roi, was taken before Mrs. Judd.

Neither Williams nor Mrs. Judd showed any signs of recognition. Mrs. Judd then was told who he was and officers started to lead Williams away. Mrs. Judd at first refused to make any comment, and then she cried: "Bring him back!"

The accused murderess took Williams' hand and pressing it said: "Don't talk. Don't talk to anybody until you get an attorney." Then she wished him luck, and as he was led away said: "Wouldn't it be wonderful if he took the blame?"

Williams had told police that he was present in the apartment where the murders took place and that he had shot and killed Mrs. Le Roi. Officers say he has given several versions of the affair. They are frankly skeptical concerning his story but are holding him as a material witness.

YOU WILL FIND such a tea service only among people to the "manner born"—accustomed to the finer things of life—the most expensive.

And that precisely is the type of person who uses Pebeco Tooth Paste. For Pebeco is no more like an ordinary tooth paste than a rare and beautiful tea service is like cheap crockery. Its appeal is to those who demand the best in everything.

No other tooth paste contains the vital ingredient which comprises 40% of every tube of Pebeco. Why? Because it is too expensive! Furthermore, it would take away that candy-like sweetness of taste—the only claim many tooth pastes have to popularity.

Pebeco does not try to tempt you with its flavor. It does not try to win you with its taste. But once you taste its distinctive tang...once you enjoy its cool refreshing after-taste...once you realize how clean and white your teeth have become...then you will understand why Pebeco is the choice of THINKING people everywhere. Try it—today . . . and feel the difference!

★ Pebeco is the MOST EXPENSIVE tooth paste in the world to make. Yet it costs you no more than an ordinary dentifrice.

Royal Family Goes to Show as Election Closes

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The royal family rejoiced with the rest of England tonight in relief from the tension of the political campaign. They went to a show.

King George, Queen Mary, the prince of Wales, the duke and duchess of Kent, and Prince George made up the family party. They saw Noel Coward's "Cavalcade." The whole family sat in the same box—the theater's biggest, decked with the royal crest—and it was the first time so many of the family attended the same performance.

The queen, in a rose colored dress and wearing her diamonds, sat first. Next was the king, with a gardenia in his buttonhole. Beside him was his daughter-in-law, also in a rose colored gown, then the duke, and lastly Prince George. The prince of Wales was half hidden behind his mother. Queen Mary watched the performance through a lorgnette.

Brookfield State Bank Closed by State Auditor

The Brookfield State bank of Brookfield was closed yesterday by State Auditor Oscar Nelson at the request of the bank's board of directors. A depleted cash and secondary reserve was given as the reason for the closing. The bank had capital of $100,000, surplus of $10,000 and deposits of $[illegible].

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

BRITAIN RETREATS FROM MOSCOW.

British elections followed the forecasts. The Conservatives swept the field and left only vestiges of organized opposition. One of the vestiges was the Labor party. This result, for the time being, means that the national government, formed in desperation and headed by Ramsay MacDonald, has the consent of the nation to continue through the emergency, but Mr. MacDonald, if at its head, is not there as a Laborite, but as an associate acceptable for the time being to Stanley Baldwin.

The Labor government was the final exhausting experiment of British politics with social theories which the country was unable to sustain. Its ascendancy represented not majority rule but the failure of the Conservative and Liberal parties. It also represented ideas which its opponents half opposed and half adopted, which they would not accept and dared not fight. The doctrine of cakes and circuses is a drug. It destroys the character of the electorate and the courage if not the sense of men of public affairs. Extreme national danger seems to have revived the British people, but how much of a retreat will follow this election is yet to be seen.

It is remembered in this generation how before the war Lloyd George and his adherents became infatuated with certain social experiments being made in Germany. At the time they were advocated as enlightened, pointing the way to the state of the future in a new relation to its citizens or subjects. Private property and private enterprise were to remain, but the state was assuming new obligations for the economic welfare of the individual, a responsibility for his well being, happiness and security in the ordinary routine of life.

Lloyd George began energetically to graft upon the British system many of the shoots from the German compromises with state socialism. The program can be made to appear as of divine sanction and the promoter as of extraordinary good will to humanity. It and he seem effectively altruistic and opposition selfish and of ill will. A new era beckons. The belief in perfectibility expands and the people yield to the doctrine that there is in government humanely and generously conducted a magic for the amelioration of all human faults and unfortunate conditions.

Gradually Great Britain turned proudly to the old Elizabethan catch phrase, "No Englishman shall starve." The Englishman of Elizabeth's day stood in a different relation to the state than does the Englishman of today. The state which deprived him of liberty might out of its feudal accumulations of wealth give bare subsistence to the man whose political power was nil, whose freedom of action was limited, whose rate of pay was determined by statute, and whose abode was not of his own choosing. The modern state does not contemplate that its citizens shall starve, but until its social theories have been broken down it does not assume responsibility for the income of its people nor insure them that if their own efforts fail them the state will see that there is satisfactory compensation.

If a state can do this it is only to be said that as yet it has not been done, and all the evidence produced by experiment shows that it is an impossibility for representative democracy. The nation which undertakes such guardianship must center its control far away from universal suffrage. When it undertakes responsibility for the subsistence of its people it must have arbitrary jurisdiction over their lives, must direct their movements and rule their occupations.

Germany, which furnished the stimulant for Lloyd George, did so when it was under a powerful imperial government with a powerful army. It did its experimenting to checkmate the growth of socialism, and the state was strong enough, its dominant class thought, to check its own adventures and control its population. It has been a different story with the German republic. Time not only developed every inherent fault in the system, but time also produced the democratic form of government least able to combat the faults. Germany preceded its imitator, Great Britain, to the crash.

The governmental grants, gratuities and alms become vested rights. An electorate taught to believe that the ballot box can be tapped for gold will insist upon more alms when alms have become rights and political parties will become craven, whatever the convictions of their leaders may be. The purveyor of cakes and the provider of circuses will rule the field. The self-reliance of the people will be broken down. The national wealth will be taken out of production by taxation and distributed through politics. The crash is unescapable.

Great Britain was on the verge of prostration when the Labor government, a logical product of the system, abdicated in a panic and permitted the establishment of the emergency national government which receives the support of the nation in the tremendous vote given the Conservative party. That indicates that genuine alarm has seized the British population, whether or not the people are prepared to recognize the supreme folly of trying to communize a representative democracy and the equal folly of substituting an allowance from the state for the product of labor. Ruin was written all over that picture.

Great Britain has had the experience and may have learned the lesson. The United States might learn the lesson in time to spare itself the experience.

THE PICTURE OF A GANGSTER.

Federal Judge Wilkerson has sentenced Philip D'Andrea to six months in jail. D'Andrea as the companion and bodyguard of Al Capone appeared in the trial room hipped with a .38 caliber pistol and ammunition. The weapon was found on him when he was searched. His plea on being brought up for contempt was that he thought he had authority for the weapon and that he was innocent of all intent to offend the court.

Judge Wilkerson in sentencing the man took an entirely different view, holding that D'Andrea was a member of the armed mob attending Capone and that he had sat in court visibly endeavoring to intimidate the witnesses against the gangster. The judge said that witnesses had faltered under the glare of the armed man and that some of them had been taken earlier to the quarters of the gangsters. Such conduct was a menace to the court and a menace to justice.

D'Andrea's authority for carrying a pistol was, he said, derived from his appointment as a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court by B. W. Snow, at the time chief bailiff. That appointment had, of course, expired, but he had the star and he alleged his belief that the authority carried over. He also had a card signed by the captain of the west park police, William Schramm, dated 1931 and instructing that "the courtesies of this department" be extended the bearer, "Philip L. D'Andrea." There was also a card of like character from what passes as the Illinois Police association, dated 1930. Also there was a note having to do with the transfer of a policeman of the 19th district.

The man whom Judge Wilkerson found armed in his courtroom sitting beside Capone and glaring at witnesses, a member, as the judge said, of the gangster's armed mob, had credentials from the courts and police of Chicago. His gang connections were notorious and yet he had been a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court. The west park police captain who gave him one of the innately vicious courtesy cards said he did not know the man at all. If that's an excuse then Capone himself could be chief of police.

Judge Wilkerson's action in the D'Andrea case deals with an aspect of gangdom even more revealing than the case of Capone himself as tried in the federal court. The second gangster's episode in the court shows the connection of this criminality with the politics of the city. The men who have given Chicago its worst notoriety for murder and lawlessness have had the sanction of local authority. They have been granted position and favors. They have been given authority themselves and immunities. All this was so much relied upon that the bodyguard of Capone went into court armed to frighten witnesses. In doing so he encountered a judge who challenged the menace.

A FORECAST.

With the United States sitting in, the council of the league of nations has addressed a note to one of its members reading:

"The council calls upon Japan to begin immediately and to proceed progressively with withdrawal of troops into the railway zone so that the withdrawal may be effective before the date fixed for the next meeting of the council."

The United States may see something not unlike that note, if it continues to sit in Geneva, the next time there is an occupation of Nicaragua, Haiti, or Cuba.

Japan, a member of the league with obligations to the covenant, has refused to accept orders and maintains the right, which it has ostensibly surrendered, to independence of action. The United States, having refused to surrender such independence, has made it a point to sit in the council demanding that Japan abide by its international pledges. The United States will be in luck if the insubordination of Japan can later be construed as a precedent for the United States to make its own decisions. America is throwing away its own case just as Japan is throwing away its obligations.

Editorial of the Day

[New York World-Telegram.]

"Lawyers, who should be the leaders in law reform, with rare exceptions are its greatest obstructors."

Thus did George Z. Medalie, United States attorney, addressing the New York County Lawyers' association on last Thursday, begin one of the sharpest criticisms of lawyers yet delivered by one so high placed in his profession.

He was discussing the impotence of the law in dealing with crime and deplored the "nibbling" attitude of even the most legal students with regard to law reform. He criticized especially the privilege, due to the "dead hand of the past," whereby persons accused or suspected of crime refuse to talk or testify. This right, while revered by judges and lawyers and criminals, is unknown, Mr. Medalie said, to the bulk of the people.

"A group of sane men commissioned to set up a system of criminal justice that would work would unhesitatingly," he declared, "ignore the traditions which lawyers so deeply reverence." They would unhesitatingly say that those who know the most about the matter under investigation (the persons accused or suspected) ought to be the first to be interrogated.

The accused would be compelled to speak not only at his trial, but in every form of preliminary hearing and investigation. A false explanation could be checked up long before a jury could be deceived by it. False alibis could be punctured at the beginning.

"It is an affront to society," Mr. Medalie concluded, "that a case should fail because the most interested party to a litigation cannot be compelled to speak. The law should cease to advertise its helplessness. When that happens it will begin to enjoy a return of the public confidence which it now seems to lack."

It would be all but impossible now to change the federal constitution in this regard, he said, but he advised that the states be called upon individually to abolish this privilege of silence.

Whatever one may think of Mr. Medalie's argument, it is the most encouraging sign that a lawyer of his learning and high office should launch so courageous criticism of his profession.

MAKING BOTTLED WATER SAFE.

BOTTLED mineral spring waters are safe, at least so far as water-borne diseases are concerned. There are several reasons for this. One is the fact that both the water, as it is sold in bottles, and the springs from which it flows received a certain amount of attention from the federal and local governments.

The control of bottled mineral waters that go into interstate commerce rests in the food and drugs division, United States department of agriculture. This organization picks up waters as they are found on sale and makes analyses of them. In addition, they inspect some of the springs which produce these waters and the plants in which they are bottled. The state governments, usually through their health or food departments, analyze samples found on sale and examine the springs and bottle plants as to sanitation. In some cases this is also done by the local departments.

The department of agriculture has a working arrangement with the various state departments through which there is exchange of reports of sanitary engineers, chemists, and bacteriologists. The standard required of bottled waters is that set for public water supplies and is, therefore, more stringent than is necessary for safety.

Practically speaking, there is very little danger that a bottled water will carry the bacteria of water-borne disease, since these microbes do not survive long in unnatural surroundings. If the water contained such bacteria as it came from the spring it could be expected to be free from them within a week, or at least incapable of doing any harm. Bottled mineral waters are generally much older than that when they reach the consumer. In addition, the minerals and gases in most of the waters help sunlight, time, and the other agencies in killing off the bacterial life. A very considerable experience with bottled waters shows them to have bacterial counts that are very much lower than those of public water supplies.

Supplementing all this, the industry generally has its product checked by its own bacteriologist and engineers.

TRENCH MOUTH.

T. V. B. writes:

1. Will you please tell me some facts about trench mouth?
2. About how long does it take to cure it if it has a start of about a month?
3. How is it spread, mostly?
4. Is it very contagious?
5. Are children susceptible?
6. What precautions should one take to protect the other members of the family who do not have it?

REPLY.

It is caused by infection with two microbes, acting as partners. Many diseases are called "trench mouth." Some have no right to be so called other than being in the mouth.

2. A week or ten days should suffice. If it lasts much longer than that, consider other diseases.
3. By contact. Kissing is one method.
4. Moderately so.
5. Yes.
6. Cleanliness. Wash the mouth with soap or soap powders and dentifrices. Avoid use of cups, forks, and spoons in common.

CAUSE OF NEURITIS.

E. F. B. writes: 1. What is the cause of neuritis?

2. Is there any mineral water that will cure it?
3. What should one eat?

REPLY.

1. Infection.
2. I don't think so.
3. Diet is of secondary importance.

SIDEWALK REPAIRS.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—Two years ago the city was fixing water pipes and left my sidewalk crushed in. I don't believe this should be at my expense as it was due to the repairs made by the city to its water mains. Please advise what can be done. J. L.

We have made an investigation of this matter and find that, in April, 1929, we broke out the sidewalk at the location mentioned and repaired the opening that was made in the sidewalk. We believe that we have placed the sidewalk in as good condition as it was prior to the time that our leak developed at the above property, and we do not feel as though the water pipe extension division is responsible for the condition of the walk at the present time. This walk was laid in 1915 or 1916 on a filled in vaulted space, and it is our opinion that the present condition of the walk is due to settlement of the fill that was placed underneath the walk at the time it was built. B. W. CULLEN,
Supt., Water Pipe Extension.

PERMIT GRANTED.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—I want to take two poplar trees out from the lawn towards the street and to replace them with two maple trees. Must I have a permit to do that or can I do it without any trouble? The poplar trees make so much dirt and the maple trees shade better. T. S.

I beg to advise that we have made an inspection of the trees in question and have mailed the writer a permit to remove the two poplar trees and replace with one maple tree. WALTER WRIGHT,
Supt. of Parks, Recreation and Aviation.

DEPENDS ON AGREEMENT.

New Lenox, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I invested my money equally with other members of my family to help save my stepfather's estate, but I am told in order to obtain a rightful share in same I must possess legal papers or be adopted by him. Is this true? 2. If no will is left, can an only son, a minor, claim all said estate? 3. In the case of a will could this be fought for equalization in court? 4. What would be the outcome where the party or parties were not citizens, same being unable to take out second papers?

A. E. T.

1. Your rights growing out of your advancing the money would depend upon the agreement under which the money was advanced. Aside from such rights you would not share as an heir in your stepfather's estate.
2. Yes, if there is no widow, and if you have no contract claim.
3. See preceding answers.
4. This would not alter the case.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

RAMSAY MACDONALD won one of the most tremendous political victories Tuesday ever known in England; his party rolled up a vote of 11,648,939. That's fine, Ramsay, but if you hear any one say "11,648,939 people can't be wrong" shoot him on the spot. Don't ask why, Ramsay; we're telling you!

NEWS from West Frankfort, Ill., yesterday said a mysterious star or comet or something that came out of the sky exploded with a terrific roar and a dazzling flame flashing to the horizon at night right over the town. Well, after that interview he gave the reporters in Washington during the White House-Laval conference we'll bet that what exploded down at Frankfort was nothing else but Bill Borah. Anyhow, it sounded like Bill.

THE GELS are adopting the "monkey frizzle" fashion for their hair. A monkey frizzle, if you don't know, means parting the hair in the back at the nape of the neck and brushing it first on one side and then on the other at a sharp angle. It's said to be extremely smart, and we're expecting to meet one any day. We'd rather not, because we know we're going to rush right up and offer the monkey frizzler some peanuts. Oh, my dear, can you imagine what an embarrassing moment we're going to have!

Business Opportunity—Unusual.

Since I've a reputation
For being enterprising,
I wonder if I oughtn't try
My hand at advertising?

I have some swell ideas
That ought to prove compelling,
And just to start the new career,
Here's my first attempt at selling.

I haven't had much training,
But I've a nice degree
For majoring in English
At the university.

And then I'm often brilliant,
Quite astute at other times,
And always I've a facile pen
To turn out quips and rhymes.

I'm awfully conscientious,
Weather never makes me cross,
I haven't any temperament
And nearly always mind my boss.

I'm really quite a bargain
For some wise business guy.
And not a bit expensive,
Won't some one come and buy?

"THE BOARD OF EDUCATION," quoth our mayor, Mr. Cermak, "is discredited and whatever steps they now take shall be looked upon with a grain of salt." Ah, excellency, are you not mixing your metaphors? Would we not be more likely to look upon whatever steps the board of education now takes with a rolling stone which gathers no moss. In fact, taken by and large, we should be much more inclined to use a rolling stone, a very large, fat rolling stone, upon the board of education than a grain of salt.

AND IN REPLYING to the mayor's somewhat caustic criticism President Myers of the school board said: "I appreciate very much the mayor's complimentary reference to my honesty, but I once knew a man who grew very rich by just minding his own business." Well, so long as they don't get personal nobody need mind.

AND IT HAPPENS even in the good old monkey state! For now the sovereign commonwealth of Tennessee announces that no state employé, including Gov. OUR GOOD FRIEND Jane Addams, speaking over the radio the other night, asked for more sympathy from mothers-in-law for jobless sons-in-law, and she wanted ma-in-law to drop around and cheer up son-in-law, make him smile, make him laugh. Jane, dear, you've got the best intentions in the world, but on this point you're all wet. To most sons-in-law their mothers-in-law are about as funny as a padded crutch. They don't smile, nor give one of those good old fashion stomach (let us be polite) laughs when ma-in-law walks in. They usually keep right on reading the funnies in the paper and merely say, "Now what?"

A GREAT ROCK.

(For R. G. Olderr.)

What said Isaiah, describing the caste,
"And a man shall be . . ." How does it go?
"As an hiding place. . . ." aye, from the tempest and strife
And the greed and contention that sully a life;
As the shadow of a rock—a great rock, in a land
Made weary with striving and friendships self-planned.
There is refuge for the wayfarer full to the end

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 29, 1915.

LONDON.—With the junction of the Austro-German and Bulgarian troops in northeastern Serbia the kaiser's forces in the north and King Ferdinand's soldiers in the Timok valley began a new drive on Nish. It is officially announced that the Germans continue their advance in the north. The Bulgarians, according to Berlin, have captured Pirot, one of Serbia's strongest forts, after a terrific bombardment and hand-to-hand fight. Information from Montenegro is that the Serbian government precautionally abandoned Nish yesterday and a telegram from Budapest says that King Peter will probably leave his country and go to Italy.

LONDON.—Rumors that Greece and Rumania have adopted an attitude inimical to the allies were persistent today, especially in Paris. The rumors are all traceable to Austro-German sources.

PARIS.—The Viviani coalition ministry, which was formed on Aug. 26, 1914, to direct the destinies of France through the war, and which succeeded in holding the confidence of the chamber for fourteen months, resigned today. Aristide Briand, former premier and minister of justice in the Viviani cabinet, was asked by President Poincare to form a new ministry and accepted.

UDINE, Italy.—News of the great Italian offensive all along the Isonzo front is being brought here by the wounded and the men of the convoys which are escorting Austrian prisoners to the rear. In three days over 3,000 prisoners have passed through Udine.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 29, 1901.

AUBURN PRISON, N. Y.—Leon F. Czolgosz, assassin of President McKinley, was electrocuted at 7:12:30 o'clock. He died stolidly indifferent, refusing religious offices and clinging to his avowed anarchistic principles. For a few moments while being strapped into the electric chair the murderer seemed to lose his nerve, but rallied and died in silence. The execution passed off without a hitch. The few spectators and jurors gathered in the death chamber. The warden warned them against creating any disturbance. Czolgosz, dressed in clothes allowing the easy application of the electrodes, was quickly placed in position, and at 7:12:30 the current was turned on. The prisoner made a brief speech in the chair. He said he was not sorry for what he had done, but expressed regret that he had not seen his father.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—The police think they are on the track of one of the Chicago postoffice robbers. The man is John Koist, a German, who came from the west shortly after the burglary. Police sent to investigate him found that he had anticipated them and fled, leaving a satchel which contained a large amount of postage stamps.

CHICAGO.—Dr. Frank Crane, pastor of the Hyde Park Methodist church, will accept the call by the trustees of the People's church of Chicago to fill their pulpit in place of Dr. H. W. Thomas, resigned.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 29, 1881.

VIENNA.—When King Humbert of Italy and the queen arrived here the magnificent railway station presented a brilliant spectacle. All the beauty and fashion of Vienna were at the reception given for the royal pair. During the day a grand military review took place.

DANVILLE, Ill.—Probably the most damnable conspiracy ever perpetrated against a community has been unearthed here. During the last eighteen months more than seventy fires have occurred, of which 50 per cent have been incendiary. After Mayor Dickson began an investigation six members of the fire department were arrested and lodged in jail as the parties actually engaged in setting the fires. It is alleged the conspiracy was formed by the firemen to force the city to change from a volunteer system to a paid department.

NOTE ON UNEMPLOYMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—I called up to have my boiler cleaned and looked over, waited two weeks, and after reminding them again and again, they at last sent a man. Called a carpenter, long out of work, to look my porches over for repair and take care of some windows. He promised to come and in three weeks has not shown up. A lock on the front entrance broke and I was sent from one shop to another nearby. They promised to send a man, I bought a new lock and some other devices to improve the safety of our home. They are still lying here waiting for the promised locksmith to put them in place. "Only a union man is allowed to do it." I wonder if he is still waiting for a helper to carry his tools. A healthy looking man asked me for a meal or a chance to earn it and a little money, and when I told him yes, he could rake my garden of the falling leaves and wash the windows from the outside, he swiftly walked away, saying he has been sick of late. A woman who has asked me for help often got mad at me when I offered her cleaning to do in my home, though I know that she had plenty spare time. I do my own work, but, hearing so much of unemployment, would willingly help to relieve it. Well, enough said. A HOUSEWIFE.

FROM MR. SANDBURG.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The letter signed with my name in your Voice of the People for Oct. 27 was written by an impostor and a forger. As a member of the committee of three chosen by the Chicago Foundation for Literature, I cast my vote for the unanimous prize award which went to George Dillon. I still believe that was the best award which could be made. The forger who signed my name to the communication sent to you is a victim of some mental affliction in connection with the aforesaid prize award.

The Chicago Foundation for Literature, a worthy enterprise, and Harriet Monroe, a great and true friend of many a struggler in literature, will both survive this incident in modern pathology.

CARL SANDBURG.

THE NEWEST OF SPORTS.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Do you play the new game? Here's how: Take your automobile to some broad boulevard, where the green lights are set so fast that women and children cannot possibly cross except by running—Lake Shore drive, Death boulevard (North La Salle) and Michigan avenue are good streets. Set your speed at from 45 to 52 miles per hour and then dash madly across every street after the stopping light has shown. On the south side the traffic policemen (the old meanies) discourage the sport. But on the north side the traffic cops act as scorekeepers. Children count 3, and older folks, who naturally are not so quick, only count 2—if you hit them. The game is called "Running the Yellow Light." It's just killing! P. H. S.

ANY TAKERS?

Chicago, Oct. 24.—I will wager my car line against yours, or yours or any other guy's, that the Harrison street cars are the slowest moving and the farthest apart. H. HERMAN.

THE LEAGUE IN ACTION.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—I read your editorial this morning on "The League [of Nations] in Action." True to your usual attitude to the league, you seek to discredit its efforts toward a peaceful settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

Whatever may be the ultimate outcome of the league's attempts, the fact is that Japan and China would quite likely be at open war today if there were no league of nations. The very existence of a tribunal which offers a means of discussing the issues at stake, with neutral members sharing in the final decision, is a tremendous forward step out of the jungle of international lawlessness which has marked the conduct of nations since the beginning of history.

You lament the fact that the league is not a "disinterested agency of international justice," but a group of representatives of national governments. In the name of humanity, will you tell me, Mr. Editor, how, in a world where all peoples are citizens of some nation, you expect to find a "disinterested agency of international justice"? Would you import such an agency from Mars? The simple fact is that we must build a system of international justice out of the stuff of nations—with their national interests, to be sure.

There is nothing surprising about Japan's unwillingness to accede to the proposals of the league. No matter how just, or disinterested, the international agency which suggests a solution of a dispute between two nations, one or the other of them is fairly sure to complain at the decision. Perhaps both will. This is not an indication of the weakness of the judgment rendered. It may be its vindication. It is fairly safe to predict that if America were a member of the league there would be far greater willingness on the part of Japan to accept the league's proposals.

Japan may make rather vigorous protest, but in the end she is quite likely to accept the verdict of the league rather than to incur the ill will of the nations of the council.

If the league of nations fails—as some Americans would like to see it fail—the nation most directly responsible for its failure would be our own. You may criticize the record of the league—which has in reality been a record of peaceful settlements unprecedented in history; are you ready to see the world set back to the machinery of secret treaties and alliances which prevailed before the world war?

In spite of the war mad jingo press, which, while professing the desire for peace, is the greatest single influence for war throughout the world, the league of nations is destined to succeed. It is the most hopeful sign on the horizon to those who really want to see an end to the insane folly of war.

GLENN PUTS O. K. ON VAN METER FOR REVENUE JOB

Senator Builds Fences for Next Campaign.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

While Republican battlers were wailing the paucity of "new blood" candidates for governor yesterday, Senator Otis F. Glenn did a bit of fence building for himself on the leadership. The senator sent out a formal announcement that he has indorsed Gregory T. Van Meter, associate of George F. Harding, former county treasurer, for appointment as collector of internal revenue for the Chicago district.

SENATOR GLENN.

In political circles it was construed as an indication of an alliance between friends Harding and Glenn and Gov. Emmerson. The Glenn statement said that the treasury department has reported favorably on Mr. Van Meter's qualifications, and concluded: "I shall urge his appointment and trust that it will come about in a reasonably short time."

Only One Opponent.

Weeks ago the senator mentioned Van Meter's name informally at the White House, which directed the treasury officials to make the usual preliminary inquiry as to the qualifications. So far Mr. Glenn has only an avowed opponent in the Republican primaries, Newton Jenkins. Congressman William Edward Hull of Peoria has been talking of running, but his hat is still on his head. Word from Washington a month ago was that Glenn was desirous of naming some one acceptable to Harding for some good office in Chicago and that Van Meter was the probable choice.

Harding is at present accounted the head leader of the Republican groups friendly to Gov. Emmerson.

It is just nine months since Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackilidge resigned as collector of internal revenue, shortly after her name had been involved in the celebrated faro game in Springfield in which Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review, was stake for $50,000. Clarence F. Buck of Monmouth, who was defeated for state treasurer last November by Edward Barrett, Democrat, was recommended by Senator Glenn for the vacancy. The appointment was rescinded after a protest had been made that Mr. Buck had asked the continuance of an income tax case against Jack Guzik, Capone henchman. Mr. Buck denied the matter had any bearing on the appointment and said he did not want the post.

Long Friend of Harding.

Mr. Van Meter and Mr. Harding have been friends for more than a quarter century. Van Meter for years was manager of the properties of George Harding Sr., father of the ex-county treasurer, and in 1904 he associated himself with George Harding Jr., then an alderman. He was oil inspector in 1917, and in 1921 Gov. Small made him public administrator of Cook county.

The appointment precipitated a bitter fight in the senate led by Senator James J. Barbour of Evanston, against the state and city administrations. Percy Coffin, protégé of Fred Lundin, succeeded Van Meter as administrator after the break between Lundin and the city hall. On the election of Mr. Harding as county treasurer Mr. Van Meter became assistant treasurer, holding this office throughout his friend's term.

Glenn's policy has been to maintain a hands off position on the contests over state offices, being on friendly terms with some of the rival camps.

Still Hunting Candidate.

Out of a city of nearly three and a half million, Republicans who have been seeking a Cook county man for governor have so far been unable to put the finger on an available prospect. They're talking of putting a light for old Diogenes to come out of his tub.

Many of the old timers this year are afflicted with a defeatist complex, and for months have been pulling a line that "1932 looks like a Democratic year." Some of the governor's friends say this is one reason. Mr. Emmerson has been holding back from announcing his intentions one way or the other. In the Egyptian style of politics, however, one axiom is "always keep them guessing."

Lueder Refuses to Run.

One group asked Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder a few days ago to run, and got the nothing doing answer. Some scouts asked Mr. Harding to throw in his bonnet in case Gov. Emmerson does not run. They came back with word that Mr. Harding has his eyes on the mayoralty next time rather than state office.

Thomas O. Wallace was sounded as a possibility. Wallace is Circuit court clerk and a Brundage leader. They came back with word that he is not well enough known downstate, although in Cook county he is accounted a great battler and vote getter.

Little Hope from Bench.

Looking over the bench roster, some picked Justice Frederic R. De Young, but voiced the conjecture that he would sooner retain his present place than to run for governor, especially with 1932 looking not too good for the Republicans. A boom for Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who pronounced sentence on Al Capone, ran up against the fact that the judge is in line for promotion to the Circuit Court of Appeals and is stepping along in the direction, perhaps, of the United States Supreme court, the greatest ambition of lawyers and jurists.

Three avowed candidates are in the ring now—Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, and ex-Gov. Len Small. Small is 70; Emmerson is said by his friends to be a "permanent 66." Some of the younger set, older ones, too, are saying what the party needs is an injection of new blood, and what impresses them in the search is the dearth of potential candidates.

N. Y. POWER OFFICIALS CONFER WITH STIMSON ON SEAWAY PROJECT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—A conference designed to smooth the way to an early settlement of the St. Lawrence seaway and power development was held today between Secretary of State Stimson and officials of the power authority of the state of New York.

W. D. HERRIDGE. [Acme Photo.]

The New York delegation, headed by Frank P. Walsh, chairman, and Delos M. Cosgrave, vice chairman, came armed with a memorandum in which they asked that the federal government reach an understanding with the state of New York before coming to any agreement, even tentatively, with Canada.

Negotiations with the Canadian government over the long pending St. Lawrence question are scheduled to begin some time soon after the return of the Canadian minister, William Duncan Herridge, from Ottawa.

The matters at issue between the federal government and New York state may involve an eventual recourse to the courts. It was said at the state department that they mean entry into fields of disputed authority in which legal precedents are lacking. The chief question to be settled is as to the division of the power between the federal government and the state, and the division of cost of erecting the power facilities.

U. S. CONVICTS' LAND SWINDLER AND WOMAN AID

Clyde L. Worthington, Chicago real estate promoter, and his office manager, Mrs. Eleanor Freiburger, were found guilty of using the mails to defraud by a jury before Federal Judge John P. Barnes late yesterday. The jury was out four hours.

Worthington, known as "the fig land swindler," was found guilty on all six counts of the indictment, leaving him to face a maximum penalty of 27 years' imprisonment and a $15,000 fine. Mrs. Freiburger was convicted on three counts, carrying a maximum penalty of 15 years' imprisonment and a $3,000 fine.

Upon return of the verdict the pair were surrendered by their bondsmen and held in custody pending the hearing of a motion for a new trial this morning. Defense attorneys indicated that, if denied a new trial, they would appeal.

Assistant United States Attorney Francis J. Kennedy, prosecutor of the case, placed fourteen witnesses on the stand, most of them widows. All testified that Worthington had promised them a return of 16 per cent on investments in his Arizona "fig ranches." All said they had never received a cent and the government computed the total losses at $100,000.

Widow Star Witness.

The government's star witness was Mrs. Mary J. Thomas, 66 years old, a widow, who placed her entire fortune of $28,000 in Worthington's ventures. The money swept away, she was forced to take work as a duster in a department store at $12 a week.

A year ago, on practically the same evidence, Worthington was brought to trial without a jury before Municipal Judge John Sbarbaro, on a charge of operating a confidence game. The prosecutor was Assistant State's Attorney Rocco de Stefano. Worthington was acquitted.

REWED MOTHER GIVEN CUSTODY OF DISPUTED SON

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday awarded Mrs. Catherine Crabtree Meindl permanent custody of Edward Mortimer Crabtree, her 2 year old son by a previous marriage whose paternity she challenged during her attempt to obtain custody of the child.

She was divorced from Fred Crabtree a year ago and ten minutes later married Frank Meindl, who had been a roomer in the Crabtree home. Crabtree was awarded custody of their children. Mrs. Meindl filed a petition for custody of Edward, the youngest, in which she asserted that, although he was born before the divorce, Meindl, and not Crabtree, was the father.

Judge Trude overruled her contention on Aug. 23 and held that Crabtree was the legal father of the child, but continued the case until yesterday.

BOY SLAYER IS SENT TO CHAIR ON GUILTY PLEA

Killed Conductor During Holdup.

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Russell R. McWilliams, 17 year old gunman, pleaded guilty to slaying William S. Sayles, 64, a Rockford street car conductor, during a holdup, and was sentenced to die in the electric chair on Dec. 11 by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Fisher today. It was the first death sentence in Winnebago county for 22 years.

WM. D. KNIGHT. [Herzog Photo]

McWilliams, a tall, blond youth and an orphan, shot and killed Sayles on the night of Aug. 29 before the eyes of six passengers on the street car. He apparently thought that the conductor was trying to hold back some money and was going to resist the robbery.

State's Attorney William D. Knight demanded the death penalty because of the cold-bloodedness of the murder. Judge Fisher agreed with the argument.

McWilliams stood without flinching when the sentence was pronounced. His only comment when led back to the jail was, "Get me something good to eat. I'm going to have plenty of food from now on."

Witnesses told of McWilliams' flight, with his gun in his hand, after the slaying. He wrecked his own car, then attempted to commandeer an automobile in which Ray Gustaffson and Miss Irma Lanning were sitting in Rockford. The girl fainted and McWilliams fled.

Drives to Police Station.

Then he forced Arlo McNary of Beloit and Juanita Columbus at the point of his revolver to drive him to Freeport. McWilliams left McNary's car in Freeport and forced David Shue, a garage attendant, to start out with him in another machine. Shue drove him to a police station, and there the youth was captured.

McWilliams pleaded guilty to the murder on Monday, and reiterated his plea yesterday. State's Attorney Knight presented evidence that the bandit youth had participated in five holdups during the month preceding the murder.

Boy of 12 Convicted.

Asotin, Wash., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Hubert Niccolls, 12, was convicted today of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Sheriff John Wormell and the jury recommended life imprisonment.

The verdict meant that the jury discarded the insanity, abnormality and mental irresponsibilities plea of defense counsel.

The defense had admitted the main facts of the case, that Hubert had stolen a revolver, entered Peter Klaus' store to steal tobacco and gum, and shot the 72 year old sheriff who searched the place after receiving a burglary "tip."

Defense Attorney A. G. Farley described the sordid surroundings of Hubert's life—his father insane, his mother poverty-stricken, without enough food and clothing to care for her seven children, and with slight pleasure in their little house.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

3 out of 4 gargle uselessly while sore throats get worse and colds hang on

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. We've discovered a new antiseptic that, even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds.

GARGLE, gargle — go the nation's garglers. 3 out of 4 have the wrong idea. Using antiseptics that can't kill germs when mixed with water. Why shouldn't colds get worse? Why shouldn't throats stay sore? Stop gargling long enough to get some Pepsodent Antiseptic. You can dilute it several times — like most people do — and it still kills germs — positively.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years.

A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 1 or even 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis*)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

New security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer. That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

$3 worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Pepsodent Antiseptic, contrariwise, can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size the cheaper per ounce.

Combating colds and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence as his wife. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. A son is born to Irma. He becomes the center of her universe. Wallace and Irma go on a trip to Europe. Irma spoils their pleasure because of her worry over the baby. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York, through friends from the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a eugenic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace takes Mildred out of school and appoints Irma to guard her. Mildred eludes her guard and elopes with Scott. Wallace accuses Irma of marrying Mildred off to be rid of her. They quarrel and Irma leaves, taking the baby with her to New York. She meets Carlos Gonzales and they form a dancing partnership.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

A DANCING ENGAGEMENT.

Though doubtful that anything would come of their partnership Irma worked hard over the routine that Carlos arranged. He had a tremendous flair for the dramatic and it took a prominent place in his dance creations. Thus she and Carlos were no characterless señorita and señor. They must have names to pleasse his creative sense and there must be a story. The first dance which she and Carlos worked out together was tentatively entitled "Saint's Day."

"You see," he explained, "we are Manuelo and Dulcinea on our way to church on St. Malio's day."

"Who was St. Malio?" Irma asked.

"Don't interrupt, dear, just listen." He waved a slim, white hand reprovingly at her. "We are trying to walk to church in a pious and dignified manner. Eyes cast down, measured steady gait, but the love of dancing is too strong. You see? We dance. The church bell tolls and we are reminded of the day's sanctity. Our dancing stops and we take up the slow walk again but once more our feet protest against the solemn steps. This happens two or three times. Our last dancing phase is thoroughly out of keeping with the day and our destination. It is fit for nothing but a gay fiesta. The scarf which has correctly covered your hair is gone. We are about to kiss when the church bell tolls again and we take up the burden of religion. Reluctantly but obediently you retrieve your scarf and we exit treading with decorum and demureness."

"Sounds full of possibilities," she said. After all it would do her good to get in as much practice as possible.

"What kind of costumes do you use?"

The second dance which Carlos invented was called "The Photograph." It was the Apache dance translated into Spanish. Carlos is in possession of a photograph of a lovely, pious girl. Irma as his sweetheart is a woman of the streets, seeking to take it from him. Her desire to see it destroyed apparently makes her careless of the abuse which she takes in her efforts to wring it from him. At last she gets it, tears it into pieces and is promptly throttled for her trouble.

It was on a day when Irma had discovered that Bill's five hundred dollars was perilously close to two hundred that the phone rang insistently. Irma jumped excitedly from her chair.

It was Carlos. "Irma, can you meet me downtown right way? I think we have an engagement."

"Not really. Really, Carlos? But we have no clothes or anything."

"Don't worry. The Lord will provide. Now listen, come to the Club Denise right away. We're going to dance for a man named Carrolli there. I've got the music. Now listen, let me do the talking. Don't open your little mouth to even say 'nerts.' I've got it all set just what's to be said."

The Club Denise had been a stable when New York had been able to fit stables into its life. Now as a second rate night club it did a big enough business.

When Irma entered she found Carlos and the master of ceremonies, one Robbie Ray, deep in conversation.

Carlos presented Robbie to Irma. Mr. Carrolli had not appeared yet. He was to be along any minute. Meanwhile Robbie explained that he had thought of his friend Carlos the minute the St. Georges had walked out.

"Why did the St. Georges walk out?" Carlos asked.

"Miss St. George got high hat about Carrolli's suggestion for costumes. He thought she should wear a net skirt. My God, she really did need something to detract attention from her face."

"Will I have to wear a net skirt?" Irma asked nervously.

"Well, your face is okay," Carlos said.

"Yes," said Robbie, "but he likes nude or semi-nude dancers. He'll try to get you to strip but if your dancing is okay he'll take you anyhow. Here's Mr. Carrolli now."

Mr. Carrolli had risen out of the shadows thus causing three sinking hearts. One could not help but wonder much of the conversation he had overhead. He was a little man with a hard, swarthy face. Irma felt that he had stepped directly from the pages of a gangster story.

Robbie said, "Mr. Carrolli, this is Miss Irma and Mr. Gonzales."

"He's calling the piano player," Robbie explained.

"Here we go," Carlos said. "God have mercy on two mortals whose music is going to be played by a man who didn't even run through it first."

"It's all right," barked Carrolli who seemed to have frighteningly sharp ears. "I know how Frank plays. I want to see how you dance."

Robbie and Carrolli were dim, critical forms in the shadows as Gonzales and Irma began.

Mr. Carrolli did not speak till the dance was over, then he said, "Got another one to show me?"

They did "The Photograph."

When Irma and Carlos, breathing heavily, walked into the shadows Carrolli repeated his question: "Got another one to show me?"

Carlos lied lightly. "We have several but I wanted to show you two that had never been presented in public before. I've always held them for a discriminating audience."

"Yeh?" Carrolli scowled. "Well," wheeling suddenly on Irma, "what kind of costumes do you use?"

"Very attractive ones," Carlos said saving Irma a difficult moment.

"What's the matter? Can't she talk?"

"Not so well after that last dance. It's an effort for her. Go sit down somewhere, dear, till you're rested."

Irma sat down but not so far away that she could not hear the conversation.

"In the first dance she wears a dress that could not be duplicated under three hundred dollars anywhere in town. It's beautiful."

"Does it show her legs?"

"Yeh? What does she wear in the second dance?"

"Yes. Well, this is a Spanish dance. Miss Irma has never danced without proper covering."

Mr. Carrolli fixed Irma with a baleful glare and demanded, "What the hell's the matter with all you girls? Why didn't you get work selling notions or something if you didn't expect to show your form?"

"She dances too well to use vulgarity as a means of promoting her work," Carlos said.

"What's the matter?" Carrolli demanded.

"We want two hundred dollars."

In the end Mr. Carrolli agreed to pay a hundred and seventy-five for that week. If their services were retained after that they were to have a ten week contract at two hundred.

"Can you start tonight?" Carrolli asked.

"Tonight?" Carlos tittered. "Why we could start this afternoon."

"Tonight will be time enough. Your first show is at midnight, your second at two and your third at four. Leave your music for the boys to run over." Mr. Carrolli turned his back and the interview was at an end.

Irma stared at Carlos when she was certain that they were far enough away from Mr. Carrolli's sharp ears.

"Carlos, how are we going to start tonight?"

"Easily, darling. I have my costumes. You have to buy two pairs of shoes. A pair of black satin and a pair of white satin."

"You didn't fix it up with that guy that I wasn't to wear anything but shoes, did you?"

World's Fair Music Plans Are Expanded

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The committee on music of the Century of Progress Exposition, Herbert Witherspoon, chairman, met yesterday and appointed George Engels, Arthur Judson, and Charles Wagner of New York; Dema E. Harshbarger and Bertha Ott of Chicago as advisers to the committee regarding the organization of concerts. Mrs. Waller Borden was added to the committee.

Mr. Engels represents the concert bureau of the National Broadcasting company, and Mr. Judson that of the Columbia Broadcasting system. Mr. Wagner is an independent musical manager and Miss Harshbarger and Miss Ott represent Chicago.

It was decided "in principle," says the bulletin, to recommend organizing a symphony orchestra out of the best material to be found in Chicago for the duration of the fair. The plan for this orchestra is to invite as special attractions distinguished guest conductors from this country and Europe. The committee further recommends that if possible engagements be made of two or three of the leading orchestras of this country, such as the Chicago Symphony, the Philadelphia and the New York Philharmonic-Symphony. Other discussion touched on the matter of inviting one of the more famous European orchestras, but apparently no action was taken.

A preliminary report was received from the special committee of the music supervisors' national conference regarding participation of the public schools in the fair's musical programs. This calls for a series of appearances extending from June 1 to Sept. 1, and intended to illustrate musical education in public schools and colleges. The demonstrations are to be made by school and college bands, school orchestras of different grades, and school choruses in groups of from 600 to 1,000 each week. Mr. Witherspoon appointed Henry E. Voegeli and John Alden Carpenter as a subcommittee to discuss the report with W. E. Walter, chief of the music division of the fair.

Two young Chicago musicians, Byrdeta Evans, soprano, and Elizabeth Saemann, pianist, gave a joint recital at Kimball hall last night.

Widow Feels Mother, Son Are Handicaps to Second Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a widow, 30, a trained nurse, and keep up an apartment, supporting my mother and son of 13. I meet a great many men who seem anxious to get married, but when they find out I have a mother and son they soon find some excuse. The question is this: 'What chance has a widow with these responsibilities and where are the marrying men?'

"Having once had a home and a husband, nothing else substitutes. But I would continue nursing to offset my own personal responsibilities.

"ELSIE J."

I suppose the problem really boils down to the personal salesmanship that goes into the second home hunt. The mother and son responsibility, no doubt, would scare some men off, what with the cost of supporting wife alone, these days. You can hardly blame them for withdrawing from the scene if they feel inadequately equipped financially for the strain.

But they're just one branch of the sex. There are others who'd take on the responsibility without batting an eye, providing the lure of the woman were sufficient. In fact, there are men of sentiment who are easily moved into a marriage proposal because there is a child to be looked after. Perhaps these are not the hard fisted, money getting types of men whose ambitions are financial success.

But there are men, fair earners, whose hearts are still moved when they see a woman struggling under a heavy responsibility. With a little coöperation from the woman involved, they're willing to take it over for her. And, as coöperators, widows are not listed among our most notorious failures.

It isn't well, however, to go about handicapped with the idea that you are a nondesirable because of the dependents. That attitude cramps your style with men. After all, you've got to furnish the lure, the charm and the gay companionship to make the venture attractive to a man.

Miss Dorcas Perrenoud to Be Honored by France

The decoration of "Palmes d'Academiques" will be conferred on Miss Dorcas Perrenoud, founder of the French house at the University of Chicago, today by Henri Bougeaurel, acting French consul in Chicago. The ceremony will take place in the French house at 5810 Woodlawn avenue.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Why Not Make Up?

"Dear Miss Blake: I had a quarrel with the boy I love. We both were at fault. Please advise what to do.

"HEARTBROKEN."

If you were both at fault, one must show a generous spirit and make up. Why not you?

Taffeta and Velvet for Milady's Blouse

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The way in which the tailored suit, trimmed with fur, is being worn this season makes the blouse a necessary part of fashions.

Blouses, however, are not what they were aforetime. The newest and most fashionable ones to wear with woolen tailored suits are made either of velvet or taffeta. Changeable taffeta is a favorite material for this winter's blouse. Dull chiffon velvet, or transparent, lustrous velvet are used to make the best of the velvet waists. When the blouse of taffeta or velvet is intended for elegant occasions Paris trims it with lace.

The practical or simple blouse of taffeta is usually trimmed with simple hemstitching or drawn work, like the Mirande blouse shown in our sketch today. This blouse is made of changeable pink taffeta with a V neck and a V-shaped yoke at the shoulders, edged with drawn work. Lines of drawn work trim the front of the blouse also, arranged in erect and upsidedown V's. The short sleeves are flared by little pie-piece godets set in with lines of drawn work. The girdle is a bias band of taffeta tied in a bow in front.

Below is the smart velvet blouse made of the new dull chiffon-thin velvet. Mirande makes this blouse with a round neck, edged with astrakhan, and then fills in the neck with velvet ties that are attached only at the back. The long bishop sleeves have astrakhan cuffs. The waist extends over the belt of the skirt, and is crushed into a girdle effect by shirring in the side seams. The blouse is red, trimmed with black astrakhan.

Armistice Dance of Former Allies Set for Saturday, Nov. 7

Armistice day will be observed ahead of time by Les Camarades de Combat de Chicago, coöperating with the Franco-American societies of the city and with Henri Bougearel, acting consul of France. There will be a celebration Saturday night, Nov. 7, at 7 o'clock, in the Louis XVI. room of the Hotel Sherman.

Among those invited are Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and Mayor Cermak.

Other guests will include Giuseppe Castruccio, consul general of Italy; Godfrey Haggard, consul general of the British empire; George Kolombatowitch, consul general of Jugo-Slavia; Ira Nelson Morris, consul general of Rumania; Titus Zbyszewski, consul general of Poland; Cyrille Vermeren, consul of Belgium, and J. E. Smetanka, consul of Czecho-Slovakia. Dinner will be followed by dancing. Reservations should be made to M. de la Chapelle, 33 South Wabash avenue, not later than Wednesday, Nov. 4.

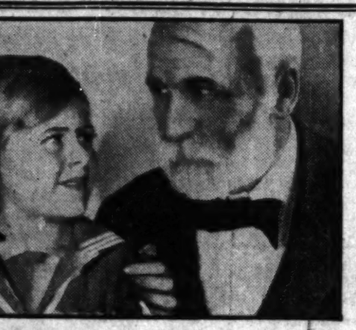
Barney Barnes Can Now Eat Anything He Chooses

"I got so I couldn't eat anything without having trouble afterwards," says Mr. Barney Barnes, popular oil rig builder, of 2213½ West Grand Avenue, Oklahoma City, Okla. "I would have heartburn, and indigestion pains after meals.

"Nothing seemed to help me. I tried everything I could hear of but my indigestion hung on four years.

"Then a friend got me to take some Pape's Diapepsin. I had almost immediate relief with the first two tablets. Now that I have been taking them for some time, I find I can eat meats or most anything and have no trouble. I want to tell others about Diapepsin because it sure helped me."

Thousands like Mr. Barnes are finding quick, certain relief for sour stomach, or acidity, by using Pape's Diapepsin. Chew a tablet and that feeling of weight and discomfort after eating just disappears.



WHEN A CHILD TAKES COLD

watch his Bowels!

A CHILD'S cold can often be checked in a few hours by giving his bowels the proper care. Dr. Caldwell proved this, time after time, in his 47 years' practice.

Dr. Caldwell's fame was acquired as a specialist in the ills of women and children. His record of having attended over 3500 births without loss of mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

The laxative used in his practice—a compound of pure herbs, pepsin and other mild ingredients—is ideal for the bowels of any child. You have this famous doctor's word that it is safe even for a tiny infant. Every child likes its syrupy taste. It acts quickly, but cannot gripe.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will remove all the sickening mucus waste when a child has caught cold. It relieves the headaches, biliousness, belching, bloating, etc., due to constipation. It keeps the bowels open in children's diseases.

Keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin handy to use when any member of your family needs a safe, certain laxative. It is good for all ages! All drugstores have it.

Virginia Woolf Writes Her Strangest Novel.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Waves," by Virginia Woolf. (Harcourt-Brace.)

VIRGINIA WOOLF has departed farther and farther with each book from the conventional novel form in her narrative writing. She has made experiments in technique which have won for her the highest critical praise and the most abundant respect and honor of her craft. As a stylist she writes — at times — the most beautiful prose that is being written in English. Anything from her pen is an event of literary importance and is eagerly awaited by a critical audience.

VIRGINIA WOOLF.

Her latest novel, "The Waves," so far outdistances her other experiments in the novel form as to be confounding even to one who has taken vivid delight in Mrs. Woolf's previous venturings. In its actual writing there is a beauty which at times literally does take your breath. Often it is imagery of the most delicate, the most exquisite, the most poignant kind.

Some of the pages tear at your heart for their perfection of the word chosen to express and also to induce (in the reader) emotion. The pattern of the words is, at times, one of tense loveliness. It is not prose in our accepted sense of that word. Its concept, its pattern, its rhythm, its emotion-inducing maziness are still all the property of poetry, not of prose. It is magism, and as imagism it is as different from factual prose as the abstract design of Marcel Duchamp's "Nude Descending the Staircase" is different from a nude of Bouguereau.

Virginia Woolf's work always has celebrated intellectualized emotion rather than the spontaneous human passions of love, hatred, envy, jealousy, etc. Mrs. Woolf's literary emotions are one remove even from thoughts about human passions. They are thoughts about thoughts on life. They are tenuous. Her books are an intellectualized essence of life rather than the blood and sinew of it.

In "The Waves" Virginia Woolf has moved her concepts one degree farther from life, and she has chosen a technique so remote from any with which we are familiar, so remote even from any which she herself ever has used before, as to be frankly a puzzle to at least this one of her ardent admirers. I simply do not understand the design of "The Waves."

The whole book is made up of soliloquies of its six characters. Against the theme of the sea in its eternal urge and of a day divided into nine parts, corresponding to the dawn and the gradually rising and setting sun of life, is played the counter theme of the lives of the six characters from their childhood to their old age.

It is an extremely interesting technical idea, and if Mrs. Woolf had carried it out less obscurely it would have resulted in a book of superb technical form. The last chapter is very esoteric, but it is perfectly comprehensible written in the stream of consciousness manner. The middle chapters likewise do not present too great difficulties. But the early chapters, where the characters are mere children, frankly disturb me, at least. For in them the characters soliloquize in exactly the same mood, tone, and tense as they do in the later chapters.

The thoughts of the six year olds have the same texture and degree as the thoughts of the middle aged or elderly. They talk to themselves about different subjects during their spans of life, but they talk always in the same manner. Unlike characters, they all soliloquize alike in what is actually beautiful and delicate imagist poetry, and they all seem to "suffer life" from youth to old age in the same images. Perhaps it is intentional distortion after the manner of modern painting. Perhaps. It is all very confusing, but somehow strangely stimulating.

Those of you who are not interested in trying to understand just what a recognized artist is TRYING to do will never get beyond the second page of this extremely esoteric book. For those of you who are interested I have lost to find charity in my own bewilderment.

Rudy Vallee Delayed, So Shoreham Asks $6,250

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The $6,250 which the Shoreham hotel is asking in damages in New York as the cost of Rudy Vallee's orchestral services at its opening night ceremonies was for about one hour's playing by the crooner and his musical aides. Vallee left Newark in a plane for Washington in the afternoon, but because of a storm did not reach the Shoreham until after 2:30 a. m. the night of the opening. The orchestra stopped playing one hour later.

Ionia, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Peggy Green Tyrrell, daughter of former Gov. Fred W. Green, was married in Ohio, Sept. 8, to Glenn Bradley of Ionia, son of a former undertaker, it was revealed by her father. She has been living in Detroit with her husband at an address which the former governor refused to reveal. "Mother and I are very happy about it," the former governor said.

SINCLAIR LEWIS FINDS ONLY GOOD FICTION RESEMBLES HIS OWN

New York, Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Sinclair Lewis, analyst of Main Street, appeared tonight before 3,000 persons in the Brooklyn Academy of Music as the annihilator of the literary heroes of yesteryear. Ostensibly to lecture about "A World on Fire," Mr. Lewis proceeded to burn up Richard Harding Davis, Rudyard Kipling, H. G. Wells, and a host of other authors.

Most of the popular authors in the gay '90s, said the creator of Babbitt, were as "synthetic as bathtub gin." Kipling owed his success, he asserted, to the fact that his novels portrayed the benighted heathen prostrate before the sword and superior intellect of the Englishmen; Davis, who enjoyed similar popularity in the United States, captured the same reading public here because he showed the "superiority" of our citizens to those of South and Central America.

The "magnificent heroines" of Robert W. Chambers, he said, could not have survived a breath of fresh air and were created to sigh and swoon under impossible fictional conditions. "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "When Knighthood was in Flower," two best sellers in the '90s, were unreal and spurious and far from being characteristic of the life of the generation which enjoyed them, he continued.

Good fiction, in Mr. Lewis' opinion, must be a true reflection of the life and times of the period in which it is written.

Good morning!

"Five Star Final" tells a sensational story of sensational journalism, and is from the pen of a one time tabloid editor, Louis Weitzenkorn. It is a trenchant indictment, expertly presented. Whether or not it spells truth, you will have to judge for yourselves.

As managing editor of "The Gazette," Edward Robinson gives another of his virile, colorful characterizations. He dashes off to wash his hands after conferences in which particularly unsavory plans for increasing circulation have been formulated, though evidently feeling with Lady Macbeth that all the perfumes of Arabia will not sweeten those little mitts again.

Oscar Apfel qualifies as the whited sepulcher, moral-mouthing publisher. Frances Starr and Marian Marsh play mother and daughter beautifully—and pitifully. Other roles are well taken care of. You'll like Aline McMahon's Miss Taylor, secretary to Randall, m. e. A real human being!

Lines snap, staging is convincing, and the camera work is sweet! "Five Star Final" went over as a stage production, and as a film will probably repeat its success.

See you soon!

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Slam Bidding.

The only reason that most of us are not weighed down with money is that two years ago this fall we did not know how to take a profit.

One of the main losses that comes to the average contract player is the insistent bidding for slams. A slam occurs in only a very small percentage of hands dealt and the vast percentage of hands that play a small slam or a grand slam cannot be bid further than game with safety.

You may make six or seven odd because of very fortunate distribution of the adverse cards, a distribution upon which you cannot possibly count in the bidding, or because your opponents may withhold certain high cards in an endeavor to make enough tricks eventually to stop game, whereas if you had bid a slam they would have played them out at once and set you.

The hand we discuss today is a great example of foolish slam bidding. This is the hand:

NORTH.
♠—K,9,6,2
♥—K,10,7
♦—K,6,3

WEST	EAST
♠—4	♠—J,10,8,3
♥—6,5,3,2	♥—Q,J,8,4
♦—7,5,2	♦—Q,J,10,9
♣—A,7,6,3,2	♣—Q

SOUTH (Dealer).
♠—A,Q,7,5
♥—A,9
♦—A,8,4
♣—K,J,8,4

South was the dealer and opened with a bid of two no trumps. He had all four suits stopped and a count of 18, no trump count (A—4, K—3, Q—2, J—1). Since all suits are stopped, he could have made a two no trump bid on a count of 17.

West passed. North, with a count of nine, raised to three no trumps, and East passed.

At some tables to which I gave this hand, Souths thereupon bid a little slam, and unfortunately Souths played well and made it. South had absolutely no business to consider a slam. He had a count of 18 and he could only count on his partner for 6, making a total of 24 no trump count between the two hands.

He knew his partner did not have as many as 12 no trump count or he would have raised to four no trumps. The most his partner could have had, then, was a count of 11, which, with his count of 18, made a maximum count of 29, whereas no slam should be essayed at no trumps with less than a count of 34 between the two hands, and it is risky holding less than 35.

It is only by most fortunate distribution of the adversaries' holdings that six can be made in the hand. The vast majority of times, with North and South holding the same cards, they would end up with 3, 4, or 5 odd.

West opened the ♣ 3. Dummy played the 5, East the Q, and South the K. South then returned the ♣ 4, West played the 2, North the 9, and East the ♥ 4. West held up his ace, since he was bound to win with it sooner or later, and he wished to get an informatory discard from East.

Dummy now led the ♣ 10. East discarded the ♦ 9, South played the ♣ J, and West took the trick with the ace, returning the ♦ 7, on which North played the 3, East the 10, and South the ace.

South now led the ♣ 8, West plays the 6, dummy the ♣ 2. It makes no difference what East discards at this point. Provided South uses care, he will take the rest of the tricks.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card, cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Wells Expects World to Go On, When He Stops

But Hopes Americans Will Buy New Book.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—H. G. Wells, the little Briton who rewrote the world's history just as a beginning on his "Modern Ideaology," predicted oblivion for his work today. He confessed he couldn't say he wanted to be remembered.

With a faintly "I-told-you-so" tone, he termed the British election "not fundamental," and hastened to discuss larger and smaller affairs: The world's and his own.

"The economic smash has just been put off," he said in connection with the Hoover moratorium. "We all feel as if we were in a car going uphill, and the thing had begun to make queer noises, and we'd better get out and get under the hood before going on."

To persistent demands whether he expected to live by his fiction or his history, he retorted:

"I don't think I'll be remembered. I'm really a sort of journalist; my job for years has been to tell the contemporary facts in the light of the past. . . . None of my books will live. They're going to be replaced by, I hope, much better books of the same kind.

"I don't know whether I want to be remembered. The world's got such a future that the little people of today won't amount to very much."

He opened a press conference with the frank announcement that he'd come to the United States to "put over" a book that has taken the last four or five years of his life, the third of a trilogy which he calls his ideology.

He flew from New York yesterday and paid his respects to President Hoover today.

"People always say the economists contradict each other." He flashed his eyes aglow talking to newspaper reporters. "Tisn't so! The growing body of economic and political science hasn't been operative, like physics and chemistry, but it must become operative."

Over $32,000 Added in Day to Fund for Chicago's Poor

Although no regular report meetings were held yesterday, the joint emergency relief fund campaign committee announced new contributions totaling $32,450 and raising the total thus far to $3,873,694. Among the pledges reported were the following:

Babcock & Wilcox Co.	$1,000
Crowell Publishing Co. [employes]	1,750
R. J. Dunham	1,000
Employes of Chicago Tunnel Co.	2,700
Employes of Pennsylvania railroad	8,500
Berwin Fuel Co.	1,000
Oppenheimer Casting Co.	1,000
Employes of Oppenheimer Casting Co.	1,000
Lord & Bushnell Co.	1,000

Among the various trade groups working in the campaign, the public utilities division still heads the list with $760,253 contributed.

Other groups leading in contributions are the machinery division, $287,174; banks, $168,683; mail order houses, $100,025.

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court announced yesterday that employés of the Municipal court will contribute approximately $50,000 to the fund. The plan, as explained by the judge, is to circulate a pledge wherein each employé agrees to give one day's salary each month for a period of six months beginning Jan. 1, 1932. The controller and treasurers of the city will then be authorized to deduct that amount from salaries.

The governor's relief commission has decided not to collect articles of clothing as part of its relief plan this year. The Woman's City club has had so many requests for clothing from settlements and from those interested in keeping children in school that it will make a collection of used clothing for free distribution in connection with its thrift sale to be held Thursday and Friday, Nov. 19 and 20, in room 1105 Tower building, 6 North Michigan avenue. Articles may be left at the club or will be called for; telephone State 8690.

Presbyterians May Use $4,000,000 for Missions

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Maintenance of a $4,000,000 missionary program supporting 7,000 units will be considered by the national board of missions of the Presbyterian church of the United States when it convenes its annual meeting here today. The business depression has seriously affected the boards' income, which is derived from endowments totaling $16,000,000 and from contributions.

This Is Time to Get Bridge Tourney Cards

How Chicagoland Will Play, Help Poor.

Bridge players, it's time now to think about your entry in the Chicagoland Golden Cards tournament. There is no reason to delay sending in your orders for packs of cards.

The tournament is to be held the evening of Dec. 3. All the proceeds will go to relief funds. The poor need the help. Here's a chance to give it while at the same time having fun at your favorite game, whether it be contract or auction—both will be played, according to each table's desire.

Football, baseball and racing fans have already taken part in the relief work. In Chicago they have been responsible for turning in many tens of thousands of dollars. Doubtless there are as many bridge players who are anxious to link up this most interesting of all card games with charitable feeling.

All you have to do to get into the tournament is to decide how many you will have in your party and send in your order and remittance to the Golden Cards editor, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Four hands will be played and four packs, prearranged and delivered to you, are necessary for each table. The price is $3 a pack or $8 for a table.

That $8 may look big. There is a reason for setting the price at $2 instead of $1. At the higher price the relief organizations get about three times as much money from each table as they would at $1.

An initial order for thousands of packs already have been given to the makers. The coupon on this page may be clipped and sent in with your remittance. You have THE TRIBUNE'S guarantee that you will receive for your $8 the four handsome, specially printed, arranged packs in ample time.

Give a party you like. Let it take the place of a dinner to your friends—it would cost $2 apiece to feed them if they're robust. Let three-fourths and more of the entry fee go to relief and have some fun and hard competition at bridge—besides a chance to get into the finals, where handsome trophies will be offered for the best team score.

Where one household doesn't feel equal to assuming the whole cost, a division may be made. The fee for two couples would be only $4 per couple. If four individuals want to get together and make it a Dutch treat, why not? The important thing is to get in the order and give a little help to the poor. We all know how many of them there are.

The method of play will be simplicity itself. The prearranged cards, each hand in each pack separated beyond possibility of error, will be distributed. South is dealer for pack No. 1. The hand is played. The score is set down on the special score card that accompanies each order. Pack No. 2 is distributed, with West as dealer, and another hand is played. The third and fourth, with North and East as dealers, respectively, are played and the results of each hand's play put on the score card.

When a total is struck at the end the winning team, North and South or East and West, as the case may be, is given the Golden Cards. The losers take the other packs.

Scores from each table should be sent in to the Golden Cards editor. From those most nearly representative of perfect play Charles True Adams, bridge editor of THE TRIBUNE, will select the teams eligible for entry into the finals.

Mr. Adams is to go on the air via radio station W-G-N at 9:15 the evening of the tournament. At 8:30 the play will begin on deal No. 1. At 9:15 Mr. Adams again will go on the air and explain the play of that hand. Fast players will have completed two hands by that time. For those who are slower it might be well to hold post-mortems on No. 1 and use the hints of Mr. Adams on that one to better the play on the others.

The hands can be played at auction as easily as at contract.

It's simple, it's easy, it's fun and it's a laudable contribution to relief. Enough hotels, outside newspapers, clubs and lodges have already volunteered to come in to make the Golden Cards tournament a mild success. The individuals who are thinking about entering are a little slower, although a respectable number already have sent in their $8 each. To make the contest the whopping big success it ought to be the hesitant should take their plunge now.

Hoover Asked; Curtis Plans to Attend Movies' Banquet

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis will come to Hollywood to attend the banquet of Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Science Nov. 10. This was announced today, following receipt of word from Washington. Mr. Curtis' trip is the result of an invitation sent to President Hoover by Louis B. Mayer, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio here, who is active in Republican party affairs. Mayer made the trip to Washington to deliver the invitation. At the Motion Picture academy banquet, the outstanding actor, actress, movie director, movie writer and movie story of the last year will be announced, following a vote taken within the film industry.

Fine Paintings in the Chicago Galleries Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

STUNNING, beautiful, effective, vigorous, brilliant. All of these adjectives and others of like emphasis fit the exhibition which opened yesterday in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue. The paintings are the work of a group of men who call themselves "The Eight." Frederic Tellander is one of them and we find his pictures among the most original. He is undoubtedly one of the few Chicago artists who is not afraid to vary his output, his technique, or his manner. In the present show there are but three of his paintings, but each one carries a definite message.

Tellander's "New England Nocturne" is a beautifully built up composition with an Italian flavor that is quaint and charming. His "Vermont Hills in Winter" is bleak, vigorous, almost dramatic. The portrait of his little daughter is colorful and exquisite, marvelously modulated. It is, perhaps, the one painting in the gallery to which you can return repeatedly and find each time a new loveliness.

On that score Rudolph T. Ingerle runs Mr. Tellander a close second in his "Mirrored Moonlight." Ingerle's landscapes are lovingly painted and their presence is a distinct asset to the show. Stark Davis is enjoying what he calls "My Swan Song," but as there are only two of his pictures hung and no song worthy of the name is pitched on but two notes, we may disregard his warning and hope for more paintings next time. Meanwhile he intends to turn to etching.

Edward T. Grigware has a number of beautifully handled canvases in the gallery. "October" is rich in fall coloring. "Quebec" is a low lying city against a water's edge, beautifully limned in blues and gray. John T. Nolf shows several splendid, strong and eminently human studies of farm boys and men. His work is always sturdy and satisfactory. Carl C. Preussl gives us a number of rich, warm and mellow canvases, romantic and beautiful. His "Venetian Bridge" is particularly fine. E. Martin Hennings still keeps in touch with the beauties of New Mexico, and his Indians and aspens are most effective. J. Jeffery Grant closes the list with several richly painted scenes, of which "Rock Bound Coast" and "Scotch Interior" are extremely picturesque.

Children Hesitate to Confide in Parent They Think Flawless

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are still fathers who remember themselves as boys and young men really too good to be true.

"When I was a boy, I wouldn't think of hitting a girl."

"When I was a boy I never told a lie."

"When I was a young man I never took a drink. I always treated my mother with respect. I never used words such as you use in a girl's presence," they'll say.

Whether they really were like that is not so important. The important and dangerous thing is that they sometimes convince their children they were practically perfect—or less than human. Also, they go on trying to build up a picture of themselves that is as faultless as possible. They do this for one reason or another, but quite often because they hope to give their children an example to emulate.

In my opinion, it is unwise to try to appear perfect to your children. Naturally, you want to be as fine a person as you can for their sakes. But what you are should speak for itself. Climbing up on a pedestal is a trying exercise and from that position parents aren't able to do their job nearly as well, because they have to reach down to do it.

And children don't talk to you as well by standing on tiptoe to reach you on your pinnacle of perfection. Would you be inclined to tell your inner thoughts and your worries and your faults to a statue who never had any and couldn't understand?

No, it's better to be less perfect and nearer to them. I know a son who was helped in a difficult time by having his father tell him of some serious mistakes he had made in his own life. You help hem most by being as nice a person as you can, but much less than perfect.

Incidentally, if you do manage to put it over and get your children to think you're perfect, it is going to come out some time that you're not and they are going to get a terrible shock when they find it out. They're apt to think then that their statue has not only feet but legs of clay. They sometimes have to reconstruct their whole idea of you.

I know people who have had that experience. One girl told me she used to think her father was like God, and when she found out his great weakness it took her years to get over it.

Just be human and as nice and wise as you know how to be.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover had with them at luncheon today at the White House J. E. Winship, editor of the Magazine of the National Educational Association, who is in Washington for a few days' stay.

Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont have with them this week their daughter, Mrs. Charles Eskridge Saltzman, formerly Miss Gertrude Lamont, who will be joined Saturday by Mr. Saltzman. Mr. and Mrs. Saltzman will return to their New York home Sunday.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Miss Mary Pearsall Field has returned to the Plaza for the winter, after passing a month at Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goadby have taken an apartment in the Hotel Delmonico for the winter. Miss Dorothy Goadby is one of the debutantes.

Mrs. Haley Fiske Jr. gave a luncheon yesterday in the Oval restaurant of the Ritz-Carlton for Mrs. Dave H. Coddington.

Children's Charities Get Help from Auction of Antiques Today

The Infant Welfare society, Juvenile Protective association and the Illinois Children's Home Aid society will be beneficiaries of a public auction of rare antiques to be held at 3 p. m. today at the Chicago antiques exposition now in progress at the Drake hotel.

Among the articles to be sold by George Barlow, auctioneer, are a pair of book ends from the house where Lincoln was married, a gift of Gen. Emmerson; a map of the Mississippi, engraved in 1775, a gift of W. R. Browne; an old Russian ikon, given by George Ade; a piece of Rockwood silver, given by Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul, and an old silver napkin ring, given by Gamaliel Bradford.

Among the exhibits on display is an old bar from a Michigan stage coach tavern, furnished with original glass and pottery liquor jars, and mugs. A hand made glass jug used by a Spanish rum runner of a century ago is shown along with two wine coolers of solid silver.

Duck Season Draws Society Hunting Fans

WITH the duck hunting season opening on Sunday, many of our local sportsmen are planning to desert their business and social duties hereabouts for vacations in the marshes of southern Illinois. The season is late this year, and lasts only a month, so guns are being polished now in readiness for a concentrated attack on the wild fowl.

George Henry High, who returns annually from his summer European trip with Mrs. High in time for the shooting season here, is planning to go down some time next week to the hunt club near Bass, Ill., with a group of fellow huntsmen, including Scott Durand, F. W. Leach, John B. Drake, Stuart Logan, and John T. Pirie. Charles B. Pike also will leave early next week for a 10 day session of shooting. Mrs. Pike will be in New York during his absence.

The season for quail does not open until the end of November, so the John Bordens will not be having their annual series of house parties at their Mississippi plantation until after Thanksgiving. Mrs. Borden has been making trips south to see that the place is made ready for the entertaining they plan to do when the season gets under way.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bartlett Guests of Son at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett arrived yesterday for a stay of a week or ten days at the Ambassador East. They were guests of the junior Frederic Bartletts at dinner last night at their Astor street apartment and will spend Sunday in Lake Geneva with Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

The marriage of Miss Isabelle Hill, daughter of Mrs. William H. Hill of Birmingham, Ala., to James M. Sheldon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Sheldon of Glencoe, is to take place this evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Don M. Compton at 5490 Lake Shore drive. Only relatives and close friends will be present at the ceremony. Miss Betty Sheldon, the groom's sister, will be maid of honor, and Sayre Bradshaw of Oak Park is to serve as best man. Miss Hill will be given in marriage by her brother, William Hill.

Mrs. F. W. Upham Leads in Helping Hourly Nursing Service.

News in bits—Miss Marion W. Smith of the Churchill has closed her summer cottage at Harbor Point and departed for the east, to sail shortly for a sojourn in Spain. . . . Mrs. Frederic W. Upham is chairman of the luncheon to be given today at the Palmer house by the Hourly Nursing Service. . . . Dutch treat tables are being arranged for the tenth anniversary dinner of the American society of the English Speaking union on Tuesday evening in the Blackstone ballroom, which has been chosen for the affair because its acoustics are so good that no microphones will be needed to carry the voices of the speakers, Alfred E. Johns and George E. Vincent. . . . Miss Jane Willett, daughter of the Howard L. Willetts, will give a buffet supper on Sunday evening for Miss Helen La Chance, who is leaving on Monday for California.

The Ladies of the Consuls will hold a meeting and luncheon on Tuesday at the Belden Stratford hotel, with Mrs. Berthold Singer as hostess.

Ellen Hammond Sake and James J. Phelan Jr. to Wed.

A number of Chicagoans will be interested in the announcement by Mrs. Edward Askin Sake of Detroit of the engagement of her daughter, Ellen Hammond, to James J. Phelan Jr. of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph Phelan of Boston and Manchester, Mass.

Mr. Phelan, who was until recently a Chicagoan and partner in the firm of Hornblower & Weeks, is now a member of the New York office of the same firm. He was graduated from Harvard in 1924 and is a member of the Harvard club of New York, the Algonquin club of Boston, and the Racquet club here.

Miss Sake attended the Sacred Heart convent at Grosse Pointe, Mich., and Manhattanville, N. Y., and was presented at a ball given by her mother on New Year's eve, 1925, in Detroit. She is a member of the Junior league, the Metamora Hunt club of Detroit, and the Craven Lodge club at Melton Mowbray, England.

The forty-fourth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture will be formally opened this afternoon at the Art institute with the usual fashionable reception and tea. Tea will be served in six of the galleries by representatives of the clubs and societies which annually dispense hospitality for the institute on this occasion.

Mrs. Lytton Benello Wed to Polish Vice Consul.

Mrs. Katherine Lytton Benello and Thaddeus Zazulinski, vice consul of Poland in Chicago, were married at noon yesterday in the apartment of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lytton, at 1242 Lake Shore drive, with only the immediate family present. Mr. Zazulinski and his bride are to reside in Washington, where he is to act as secretary to the Polish embassy.

Miss Jean Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martin Adams, and Samuel Carson Pirie Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carson Pirie of New York, will be married at 4:30 o'clock today at St. Chrysostom's church, with the Rev. Dr. John C. Evans officiating. A reception will follow at the Drake hotel.

Miss Isabel Pirie, the bridegroom's sister, will be maid of honor for Miss Adams, and Mrs. John T. Pirie III., Virjean Ritchie, and Patricia Schmidt will be bridesmaids. Frederick Jones of Detroit will act as best man and the ushers will be John T. Pirie II., Lockwood Pirie, Phillip Wernehr, and Monroe Fearing of New York.

Chicagoans to Receive the Baroness von Hindenburg.

Baroness von Notstitz und von Hindenburg, who is to talk on "The Old and New Germany" on Saturday morning at the Palmer house, is to arrive in Chicago this evening and will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum over the week-end. She will be Mrs. Ernst Freund's guest at the Symphony concert on Friday afternoon, and on Friday evening Dr. and Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt, who closed their Lake Geneva house this week, will give a dinner for her at their residence at 1547 Dearborn parkway. Mrs. Baum is to be hostess at a luncheon for the baroness at the Casino on Saturday following her talk, and on Saturday evening the Baums are to have a dinner for her at their residence.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence Wilkinson of 1027 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Frances Enloe Murray, to Charles Ward Dodd, son of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Dodd of 1419 Chicago avenue, Evanston. Miss Murray was graduated from Roycemore school, attended Smith college, and is a member of the Evanston Junior league. Mr. Dodd is a graduate of Asheville school and of Dartmouth college. The wedding is to take place early in January.

Chicago Artist Honored By Luxembourg's Ruler

Chevalier de la Ordre Grand Ducal de la Couronne de Chene, which translated means "Knight of the Oak Crown," is the honor which has just been conferred on a Chicago painter, Joseph Birren, by the grand duchy of Luxembourg. Mr. Birren took a group of his paintings abroad in May and showed them during the summer in various countries. Six canvases were purchased abroad and one still is under consideration by a museum. He is more proud, however, of the Maltese cross decoration and the formal document under seal of the Grand Duchess Charlotte.

WEDDING

New York, Oct. 28. — (AP) — The marriage of Miss Paula Murray and Frederic R. Coudert Jr., member of the international law firm of Coudert Brothers, took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Murray. The ceremony was performed by Justice Edward R. Finch of the Appellate division of the Supreme court.

The bride is the granddaughter of Princess del Drago, now living in Italy, and the late August Schmid.

COVERING CIVIL WAR TOLD IN LETTERS TO JAMES G. BENNETT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—How the civil war came to a New York publisher's desk is revealed in 300 longhand letters to James Gordon Bennett Jr., just purchased by the library of congress.

They cover from 1861 to 1864, when Bennett was making journalistic history by maintaining an extra staff of 63 war corresnondents at a four year expense of $525,000.

In bitter complaints against censorship reports of how scoops were got, and inside tips on political and army intrigues, the civil war is told.

"Terrible pressure on the President growing out of my announcement of the program to keep Fremont where he is," wrote a Washington scribe in October, 1861. "Gen. Scott says he intends to compel me to tell where I got the information."

Amazing is an account by Malcolm Ives of how Gen. G. B. McClellan poured into his private ear the complete plans of his campaign, which he had, the day previously, refused to President Lincoln and the cabinet.

Of McClellan, Ives said: "He is as guileless and innocent as a child, and we must be careful not to injure him even to promote Herald interests."

"One who wants his pay" protests: "What does the United States government mean by keeping the 12th regiment out of their pay?"

The Fredericksburg correspondent alibis his failure to report a visit from the President by saying his dispatch was seized as "contraband."

From Memphis came this: "A petition signed by the ladies, (bless their feminine souls) was yesterday presented to Sherman imploring him to close the liquor shops."

From Vicksburg came complaints of malaria and from New Orleans the information that all the reporters were "hard up," the man from the World even "trying to borrow a shilling from every person he meets."

For the big news there was this: "At last I have the pleasure to announce the fall of Fort Hudson."

Care of Mothers Urged to Decrease High Death Rates

Additional maternal centers and prenatal clinics were urged last night by Dr. Palmer Findley of Omaha, former faculty member of Rush Medical college, and by Dr. Percy W. Toombs, professor of obstetrics at the University of Tennessee college of medicine, in speeches before the Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and Chicago Medical society meeting in joint session.

The meeting, held at the Medical and Dental Arts club, precedes the annual conference of the Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, starting today, and the national white house parley, beginning tomorrow.

The United States has a maternal death rate of 67 per 10,000 births, a rate higher than any other civilized nation, Dr. Findley said. At least 40 per cent of those deaths are a result of preventible causes, he added. Dr. Toombs asserted the lack of training schools and state supervision for midwives offered serious obstacles in reducing the maternal death rate.

Y. W. C. A. Halloween Party Is to Include "Spooks on Highway"

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association of Chicago will be held at the Harriet Hammon McCormick Memorial, 1001 North Dearborn street, on Friday night. Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, 1430 Lake Shore drive, will preside.

Mrs. Hermon B. Butler of Winnetka, former president of the association, now serving on its board of directors, will take part in the meeting.

Besides the usual routine business and hearing of reports, a Halloween skit, "Spooks Along the Highway," will be presented. The leading roles will be Depression, Unemployment and the Imps and Witches of Worry.

The service report for the year, according to officers, will reveal that 11,816 girls made their homes in Y. W. C. A. residences; 12,983 were served through the room registry, the employment and the individual emergency bureaus; 5,497 were enrolled in general education classes; 7,665 in health education classes, and 3,653 in the three Y. W. C. A. camps, Forest Beach, Millhurst, and the forest preserve. There were 2,198 unemployed girls who signed up at the free vocational bureau for classes in office work.

New York Opera Opens on Monday; Fashion Show

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Manhattan's most glamorous fashion show will be seen Monday night at the opening of the Metropolitan opera season.

Of course, the only accepted silhouette is the one of molded simplicity. But the formal evening dress this season may have a few ruffles, a discreet flare, probably a bustle or a bow at the back, and, if the lady so wishes, she may wear sleeves or carry a muff—all innovations this year.

Ruby red and bright purple, forest green with grayish blue, coral with jade, and chartreuse with sapphire are some of the color combinations which will be seen. Spiral shoulder straps of velvet and crêpe, pearls and chiffon, satin and net, or straps of jeweled bans crisscrossed in the back down to the waistline, or simple straps of ribbon or flowers will be seen.

Slippers will be sandals—that is, they will feature cutout toes—and most of them will consist of simply the sole and a few tiny straps to hold the sole on the foot.

Food Talk

September, October, November, and December can boast the proverbial and often mentioned "r" for oysters, though oysters are actually in season from September to May. These four months also boast an "e" for eggs, and the two letters are mighty close together. Isn't that suggestive? The combination of the two foods makes delicious and interesting dishes.

At present we are celebrating an Egg week and an abundance of fresh eastern and native oysters, both comfortably within the reach of our budgets. The eastern oyster is perhaps the most finely flavored of all oysters. It is somewhat larger in size than the native, and is found in both eastern and western fishing states. It was planted in San Francisco bay over fifty years ago and since that time has grown into an extensively developed industry.

For the recipes given today either fresh or canned oysters may be used, with preference shown to the eastern oyster for those who wish and strive for flavor perfection.

HOT OYSTER RING.

3 eggs
2 cups of milk
¼ teaspoon of pepper
1 cup of cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon of salt

Beat the eggs and then add the other ingredients. Pour into a buttered ring mold; set the mold in a pan of water and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] twenty-five minutes. When it is unmolded the center may be filled with creamed celery.

Yield: Six servings.

SCALLOPED EGGS AND OYSTERS.

3 tablespoons of flour
3 tablespoons of butter
1½ cups of milk
4 hard boiled eggs, sliced
½ pint of oysters
½ cup of buttered breadcrumbs
1 tablespoon of minced parsley
¾ teaspoon of salt

Make a white sauce of the first three ingredients. Add the parsley. Cover the bottom of a baking dish with a thin layer of sauce. Arrange a layer of sliced eggs, then a layer of oysters and another of eggs. Pour the remainder of the sauce over all, sprinkle the top with crumbs, salt, and bake in a hot oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] about fifteen minutes, or until the crumbs are brown.

Yield: Six servings.

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH OYSTERS.

4 eggs
½ pint of oysters
¾ teaspoon of salt
¼ teaspoon of white pepper
2 tablespoons of cream
2 tablespoons of butter

Beat the eggs and add the cream, seasoning, and oysters. Melt the butter in a skillet and pour in the egg mixture. Cook slowly until done, stirring occasionally to form the eggs into soft, fluffy rolls.

Yield: Six servings.

Nary an oyster can you find in this raspberry roll, but it comes to you highly recommended just the same!

RASPBERRY ROLL.

Make a rich shortcake dough. Roll out about half an inch thick and spread with raspberry jam. Roll up as for a jelly roll. Wring a cloth out of boiling water and wrap loosely about the roll. Place the roll in a steamer and steam for about three-quarters of an hour. Serve with a hard sauce.

CORN MEAL MUSH.

1 quart of boiling water
1 cup of yellow corn meal
1½ teaspoons of salt

Add the salt to the boiling water and then gradually add the corn meal. Stir constantly and keep boiling for ten minutes. Place in the top of a double boiler and cook for one to three hours.

New Chapeau, Latest Make-Up, Garner All Attention This Year

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

An international beauty specialist has an encouraging word for the woman who may be perplexed over the need of a complete change of wardrobe but doesn't feel that this is the year to expand.

"One does not need the proverbial fortune to get by this year," she says. "One needs a new hat, a perfect skin, a new makeup, and a great deal of taste. The face and the hat are the center of interest in the new picture."

French women, observes this internationally known figure just returned from Paris, are wearing lighter porcelain tones in powder. The trend is decidedly away from the olive skins so popular the last few years. New shades of rouge and lipsticks, with a coral shade most popular, are being introduced to go with the softer powder tints.

Because of the new daring headdress, you can't keep the eyes from being scrutinized clearly. They call for makeup—but clever, clever makeup. And new shades in eyeshadow which should be tried out are the iridescent hues, among which is a silvery blue for daytime wear and gold blended with beautiful purple for evening wear under artificial lights. A silvery gray is also popular abroad, one learns.

Coral tints, we hear further, are not confined to cheek and lip. The lighter colar nail groom supersedes in polite hand circles the gaudy red tones of yesterday. [Hooray!]

This well known beauty specialist calls attention to the great need under the new hats of better and better neck care. The line of the neck plays an important part in producing the perfect ensemble. Women should exercise their necks daily, patting in rich massage creams and patting out lines and chin bulges as they go. The throat line can't be much less than perfect to hold that hat up with the chic it is expected to lend.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Championships in the show ring at live stock shows are won by paying attention to details. This is the deduction made by Robert Mitchell, Buckingham, Ia., as champion showman in the United States at the 1930 national dairy show and as champion dairy club boy of Iowa for 1931.

"Before the heifer leaves home the owner should have her in the best condition possible," says Robert. "The head, neck and tail should be clipped, the horns rasped, scraped and smoothed with emery cloth and polish, the hoofs well trimmed and rasped so they can be cleaned easily on show day.

"A good supply of feed plus a feed box, pail, soap, emery cloth, brushes, oil and blanket should be ready to load with the animal. In loading be careful the heifer isn't crowded into a corner or against one side, which might cause the hair to be rubbed off in places. Upon arriving at the fair or exposition grounds, the calf should be taken to a well bedded stall and let rest the first day to get over the excitement of the ride.

"On show day give a regular feed of grain and try to get the calf to eat all the hay she will, but don't water her until about 45 minutes before the class is called. Dust the animal off and use a soft brush and the bare hands on her hide. In the judging ring remember the results are never certain until the ribbons have been handed out. Don't forget the calf, but know where the judge is every minute and respond quickly to his desires."

She has every lure but one...

EACH NATIONALITY has its own particular charm . . . French chic, Spanish grace, Italian culture, Oriental allure . . . But the American woman has all these fascinations.

SQUIBB MILK OF MAGNESIA

PURITY, efficacy, uniformity, reliability — you get all of the four points of quality in Squibb Milk of Magnesia. Made by a special process, it is a smooth, creamy preparation that is decidedly pleasant and refreshing. By the time Squibb Milk of Magnesia is ready for the familiar Squibb label it has been tested and retested to insure that it is as pure and fine as science and skill can make it.

Tastes Better

Yes... You can SLEEP

No more sleepless nights caused by nerves. No more tense, wakeful hours, with every nerve "on edge." Now—you can sleep and rest if you will do this when you go to bed. Just drop a Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablet into a glass of water. It makes a sparkling drink — pleasant to take and harmless. In a few moments your tense nerves relax. Your overwrought nervous system is quieted and brings you sound, restful sleep. When your nerves keep you awake at night—try Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablets. Camera-shy because of a skinny figure! Photo specially posed by Maria K. Rogers

A "different" woman today—23 lbs. heavier, skin clearer, too

SHE'D pretended not to mind when they called her "skinny". But she drew the line at being photographed. For no one can laugh off a scrawny face and shapeless legs—when printed in black and white!

But today, thanks to 23 new pounds, she's no longer camera-shy! What's her secret? Just read this letter:

"I was sick and rundown from childhood. I looked so thin I didn't like friends to take snapshots of me.

"But since taking Ironized Yeast I have put on 23 pounds. It improved my figure splendidly, complexion, too." Mrs. J. E. Rachulles, Red Cliff, Colo.

Many Quick Results

Why not profit by the experience of thousands? Gain pounds of healthy flesh, clear complexion, quickly—with Ironized Yeast!

For here you have two tremendous body-building tonics combined. Not ordinary iron, but three tested, blood-enriching kinds! Not ordinary yeast, but imported "beer yeast" concentrated 7 times — 7 times as effective. Not only does it then bring results quicker—but it is easier to digest.

GUARANTEE! Countless thin, sickly folks have been practically made over by Ironized Yeast. Try it. If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be promptly refunded by the manufacturer.

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE! Look for the "I.Y." on each tablet. For only genuine Ironized Yeast can bring you the genuine Ironized Yeast results. At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

HOOVER'S STAND ON NAVAL CUTS BRINGS ATTACK

League Says He Displays "Abysmal Ignorance."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Reviewing President Hoover's naval policy and its result in a navy falling constantly farther below treaty strength, the Navy League of the United States in a pamphlet published today declared that the President's pacifist tendencies have led him into displaying an "abysmal ignorance" of why navies are maintained.

Entitled "The President and the Navy," and signed by William Howard Gardiner, president of the league, the pamphlet declares that the President's recent order to pare the navy budget by $61,000,000 was entirely in keeping with his policy since coming into office of delaying and curtailing the naval building program.

Food Suggestion Assailed.

It then recalls the President's Armistice day addresses of 1929 and 1930 in which he proposed that sea borne food supplies should be immunized from seizure in time of war. Asserting that such a course would handicap "this comparatively bloodless form of qu economic warfare afloat" and so lead to bloodier fighting on land, the pamphlet declares:

"It would be difficult to express too much regret that the most humanitarian of pacific intentions had led President Hoover into exhibiting the abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained and of how they are used to accomplish their major mission, that his proposal to immunize sea borne food supplies displayed to those here and abroad who are intimately conversant with maritime matters. For acceptance of his suggestion would have worked not only diametrically counter to the interests and weight of the United States in world affairs but in effect would have made for bigger and bloodier wars. And yet such is the psychology that is not only controlling our internal naval policy but dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers.

Says Bluntness Necessary.

"It has been necessary, however, to say what has been said above if we are to have a real appreciation of the impelling motives back of President Hoover's efforts at every turn to restrict, to reduce, and to starve the United States navy—under the present plea of budget limitation on which we may have further cause to comment."

The pamphlet recalls how the President, within five months of his inauguration, held up the construction of the first five of the fifteen cruiser program as a friendly gesture preparatory to the London naval conference. It charges that Mr. Hoover's conference with Premier MacDonald of Great Britain led to agreements which have never been officially divulged in their entirety.

And it infers that the recent suggestion of Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy before the league of nations, that a naval holiday be instituted, was in fact inspired by President Hoover. The present naval budget cuts, the league pamphlet states, are doubtless designed as further friendly gestures preliminary to the Geneva conference in February.

13 Men Go to Trial in Gas Tax Case on Nov. 9

The trial of thirteen men charged with a conspiracy to defraud the state of gasoline taxes will begin Nov. 9 before Judge John Prystalski of the criminal court, Chief Justice Harry Fisher announced yesterday. The men were named in a blanket indictment. Louis A. Weiss, a former volunteer state employé, is charged by prosecutors with being the head of the conspiracy by which the state lost $500,000.

STATE ASKS BIDS ON $5,047,300 HIGHWAY WORK

31 Miles Planned for Chicago Area.

The state highway department yesterday advertised to receive bids on Nov. 12 on 85.9 miles of paving and 36.56 miles of grading to cost approximately $5,047,300. The metropolitan area, which pays over half the state's total road bill, will have $1,735,000 worth of projects in this letting, consisting of 21.37 miles of paving and a grade separation.

This is the second batch of contracts to be advertised by the state since the prevailing wage act was declared unconstitutional. The first will be opened on Nov. 2. It is part of Gov. Emmerson's program to award $32,000,000 worth of highway contracts this fall and winter, relieving downstate unemployment and making 1932, a political campaign year, a record twelve months in road building.

Grade Separation in Elmhurst.

Perhaps the most important of the metropolitan projects is the grade separation at Lake street and North avenue in Elmhurst. The state has been urged for two years to break this traffic bottle neck. This year North avenue has been closed east of Lake street for the construction of a grade separation at North avenue and Mannheim road.

The other metropolitan area projects, none of them in Chicago, which pays 44 per cent of the state's total road bill, are as follows:

Route 52 [new north and south road]—From Lake street, east of Bloomingdale, to route 22, west of Half Day, 16.71 miles.

Route 59 [new north and south road]—From Lake street, near Bartlett, to North avenue, near West Chicago, 6.53 miles.

Route 61—Near Crystal Lake, .99 of a mile.

Milwaukee avenue—Approaches to new bridge over Chicago and North Western railroad, near Glenview.

Only the smaller paving jobs in the northern part of the state can be finished this year because cold weather will probably halt the laying of concrete within a few weeks. Grading and bridge construction can continue through the winter.

Scores of shacks, erected as hobo dwellings in the vacant block bounded by Jefferson, Desplaines, Harrison and Polk streets, were burned to the ground by firemen yesterday on complaint that they constituted a nuisance and a fire hazard to adjacent property.

MURDER VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in its investigation into the death of George Wilson, 33 years old, gangster, whose bullet riddled body was found on Oct. 11.

IGOE RAPS BAN OF GOVERNOR ON ELEVATED ROAD

Scores Failure to Provide Jobs for Thousands.

BY HAL FOUST.

"We won't be able to feed the jobless on the bologna from Springfield," said Representative Michael L. Igoe yesterday. "Gov. Emmerson is to blame for the failure of the state to put from 10,000 to 20,000 men to work this winter on the west side elevated highway in Chicago.

"The governor says he favors the elevated highway but doesn't know of a scheme to finance the project that would be approved by legislature. He controlled the last session, retaining his majority through the fears and hopes of some of the assemblymen of changes in patronage and special favors.

"Why doesn't the governor be frank and admit that he killed an appropriation bill for the elevated highway before the legislature last summer? Why doesn't he tell the truth, that he's against giving the motorists and jobless of Chicago any of the highway improvements because this would interfere with his program of pavements for politics downstate?"

Governor Spurns Road Plea.

Gov. Emmerson on Tuesday told a delegation of Chicagoans that he agreed with all of the arguments of the elevated highway advocates, but that the special session of legislature this fall could not be induced to finance the project. He denied the request to include the construction in his call for the special session. In the delegation were Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club; Sidney Gorham, chairman of the World's Fair traffic committee; Eugene Taylor, manager of the Chicago Plan commission, and Al Faeh, manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association.

President Whealan of the Cook county board issued a statement similar to Mr. Igoe's, but his criticism was less outspoken.

Whealan Criticizes Governor.

"It is regrettable," said Mr. Whealan, "that the governor apparently does not realize that the construction of the elevated highway this winter is as vital as charity in the relief of distress from unemployment. The jobless would rather swing shovels than stand in line for bread."

BIG TEN PLAYERS TO NAME MOST VALUABLE

RIVALS UNITE IN LAST TRIBUTE TO SOX OWNER

Burial at Calvary Cemetery.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Baseball feuds of other days will be forgotten this morning when notables of the national game gather with hundreds of others at the funeral of Charles A. Comiskey, late owner of the Chicago White Sox and generally acknowledged one of the greatest of all leaders in the field of sport.

All of the American league clubs will be represented, though three of the principal magnates—Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees, Tom Shibe of the Philadelphia Athletics and Phil Ball of the St. Louis Browns—have sent word that illness will prevent their attendance at the last rites.

League Officials to Attend.

Among the American league officials who will attend are K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball; Will Harridge, president of the league; Frank Navin, vice president of the league and president of the Detroit Tigers; Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators; Robert Quinn, president of the Boston Red Sox; L. C. McAvoy of the St. Louis Browns; Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, and representatives of the Athletics and Yankees, whose names have not been made known to the Comiskey family. John Heydler, president of the National league, will attend with a group of other representatives of the league.

Among the scores of floral tributes, many from minor league as well as major league clubs, is a casket blanket of orchids and lilies of the valley sent by the American league.

The funeral will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the home of Lou Comiskey at 5555 Everett avenue to St. Thomas the Apostle church, 55th street and Kimbark avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, beside the grave of Mrs. Nan Comiskey, who died in 1922.

Throughout yesterday and last evening there was a constant procession of those who had come personally to express their sympathy to the family. Messages continued to pour in from all sections of the country and from abroad.

MURPHY ESTATE 2 MILLION

The late Charles Webb Murphy, owner of the Chicago Cubs a score of years ago in the days of Tinker to Evers to Chance, left an estate estimated at more than $2,000,000. This was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Murphy died in his home at 6157 Sheridan road on Oct. 16.

Under the will Mrs. Marie Louise Murphy, the widow, is left the home and most of the estate. She is given title to half the Baker bowl, Philadelphia baseball park where the National league team plays. The property is valued at more than $1,000,000. The remainder of the park is shared between four nephews, Thomas, Joseph, Charles, and Frank Murphy Jr. Mrs. Murphy also shares with her husband's brothers, Frank and James, the residual estate after several minor bequests.

The two brothers are given equal shares in a theater at Wilmington, O., where Murphy was born. Judge F. M. Clevenger of Wilmington is given $500. A bequest of $5,000 was left for Joseph Garretson of the Cincinnati Times Star, where Murphy formerly worked as a sports writer. Mr. Garretson died in Florida only last Sunday. Mrs. Helen Anderson, Murphy's housekeeper, is given $2,000. The Northern Trust company was made executor.

Organized Baseball's Growth Drew Comiskey to St. Louis

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Dubuque, Ia., to Charles A. Comiskey always was his second home town and not without reason. It was there that he met and married Miss Nan Kelly. It was there that he formed friendships dissolved only by death, notably that between himself and Tom Loftus, who was a fellow player on the Rabbits. And it was from Dubuque that Comiskey took the turn in the road which led him into organized baseball in the season of 1882. In this the guiding hand of Ted Sullivan again played a part.

While Sullivan in '79, '80, and '81 was trying to keep baseball on the map at Dubuque, similar efforts were being made in the game's behalf at St. Louis. The Spink brothers, Al and William, launched various ventures, but without success. Finally, in the fall of 1880, they were successful in organizing a promoting group which was known as the Sportsman's Park and Club association.

After Expenses Players Came First.

Their ground was the same as occupied today by the St. Louis clubs. At the head of this organization was the memorable Chris Von Der Ahe, who, having a saloon and grocery near the Grand avenue grounds, realized he could catch the thirsty ball fans both on their way to and from the game.

The new organization set to work improving the Grand avenue grounds. A rickety old stand and some rotten bleachers were removed. In place a covered stand and bleachers were erected. The fence was repaired in spots. Early the following spring (1881) a team was formed. Players were summoned and a meeting held on the field. There was to be no salary for anybody unless there was something remaining after other expenses had been met. On this team, called the Browns, were Edgar Cuthbert, George Baker, George Seward, George McGinnis, Edward Gault, Hugh McDonald, Dan Morgan, Jack Gleason, William Gleason, Harry McCaffrey, and John Magner.

It was the habit of this team to book Sunday games with teams from nearby cities. Some were brought in from Chicago, notably the Eckfords. Others came from Cincinnati and Indianapolis. The only expense allowed was the bare railroad fare. The boys rode in "sullivans," which, in the old days, was a ball player's sleeping car. A "sullivan" was in reality a day coach. It was a game such as the above that brought Comiskey into St. Louis.

Commy Then Tall, Lanky and Serious.

BOWMAN SET OUT AFTER MILLIONS BEHIND A MULE

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—One night, several years ago, there was one of those grewsome, premeditated jollifications of the very flower of the younger financial and sporting set of the city of New York, medium big shots of the banking business, the arts, commerce, and so forth.

In those days many of the big firms employed precocious, good looking young fellows, who wore evening clothes well, to do their social drinking for them, calling them vice presidents. Most of them had been athletes of one kind or another and therefore were still strong enough to stand the wear and tear of successive nights out. Being interested in batting averages and fighters' records just as fans, they were good representatives in the night life of the town which revolved about Madison Square Garden. And the banquet was the accepted means of launching any promotion.

Started Driving Mules.

On this night there was a banquet given on some pretext having to do with horse racing, and some time during the banquet, when the guests were dropping out one by one to escape the speeches and do a little quiet bull pen drinking in the anteroom provided for such purposes, I found myself conversing with a youngish, middle aged man who was drinking nothing more violent than mineral water. He had close, curly hair, black but turning gray, and a square cut face.

"Are you horse people yourself?" I inquired, or something like that, not knowing who he was.

"Crazy over horses, he said. "The first glimpse I ever had of New York was between the ears of a mule. I was driving a baggage dray for the old Holland house on 5th avenue, I've been following the steeds ever since."

"Well," I said, "now that we're old friends, let's not have any secrets. What is your name?"

"My name," he said, "is Bowman."

Tex Never Fooled Mac.

"Are you any special Bowman?" I asked. "Ought I to be excited?"

"Sure," he said. "I'm the Bowman who used to drive the mule on the baggage dray. I'm the self-made man, John McEntee Bowman of the United Hunts. You ought to be practically hysterical. A horseman all my life from mules to hunters, and I can still drive me a mule."

Mr. Bowman, president of the Bow-

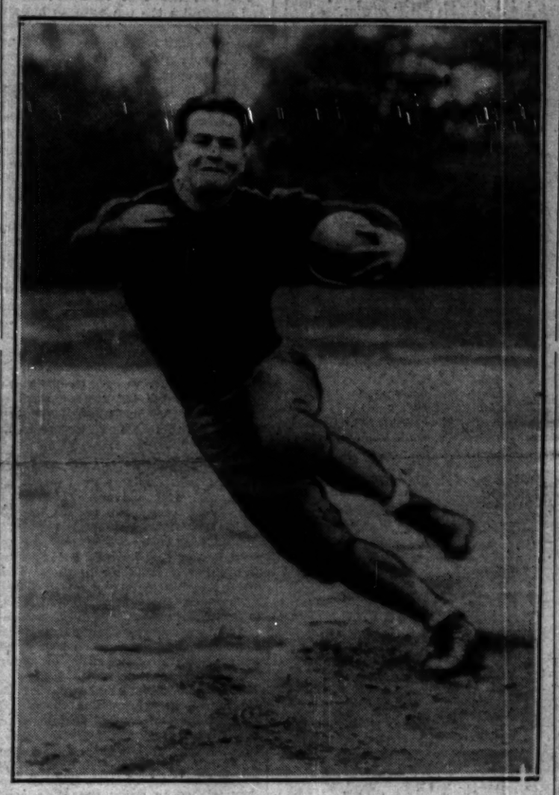
GRIDIRON LIGHTNING



Russ Saunders, the Green Bay Packers' brilliant back from Southern California, will need plenty of watching when the National Professional Football league champions meet the Chicago Bears Sunday at Wrigley field. Saunders won wide recognition with the Trojans.

MICHIGAN GRID CAPTAIN DENIES SECRET WEDDING

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Martin Roy Hudson, captain of the Michigan football team, and Miss Mary Niffeneger of South Haven, Mich., are engaged and will be married after Hudson's graduation from the University of Michigan next June, Hudson admitted here today. The statement silenced rumors that the couple have been secretly married for some time.

Hudson is also captain-elect of the baseball team and will play next spring, he said. He plans to play professional baseball after finishing school. He is a first baseman.

Fight Decisions

HARD WORK VS. OVERCONFIDENCE IS HANLEY PLAN

Another intensive scrimmage formed Northwestern's football practice yesterday, marking the second consecutive day Coach Dick Hanley has ordered contact work in preparation for Saturday's game with Illinois.

The heavy work is Hanley's precaution against any overconfidence that might result from the Ohio victory.

The work of Marvil, Evans, and Riley in the Purple line stood out in yesterday's scrimmage. Much of Northwestern's sturdy defense this season is due directly to this trio of seniors. The fact that in four games only one touchdown has been scored against the Wildcats speaks for the line's ability. This lone touchdown, incidentally, was scored by a forward pass.

Attention continued to center on the ends yesterday in the hopes of uncovering pass catching ability. Three scoring opportunities were wasted in the Ohio game through failure of the ends to hold passes.

Long forward pass drills have been scheduled all week for the ends and backs in an effort to forestall a repetition of the loose ball handling in last Saturday's game.

ILLINI USES SUBS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Coach Bob Zuppke today ordered another session of offensive and defensive drill for the Illinois eleven, calling on the reserves and freshmen to aid in conditioning the varsity.

A number of substitutes played with the first eleven during part of the scrimmage. Ed Snavely was used at full back, Fuzzy Evans relieved Gil Berry at half, Ray Nusspickel and Sam Gorenstein worked at guard, and Gordon Bailey took Frink's end.

Neither Lind Murray, full back, nor Stan Jensen, guard, was in uniform, but the entire squad is expected to be ready Saturday.

Zuppke named a tentative list of players who will leave tomorrow evening for the Wilmette Country club, which will be the headquarters of the Illini until the Northwestern game Saturday.

Kansas Aggies to Drill on Soldiers' Field Today

Manhattan, Kas., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Twenty-three Kansas State college football players, undefeated and untied, entrained here tonight on an eastern invasion against West Virginia university. Arrival in Chicago tomorrow is scheduled for 11 a. m. and the Aggies plan to work out at Soldiers' field.

EACH SQUAD TO NOMINATE ITS OWN CANDIDATE

Previous Winners

THE names of Big Ten football stars who have been selected as most valuable to their teams and have received The Tribune trophy follow:
1930—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State.
1929—Bill Glasgow, Iowa.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1927—Kenneth Rouse, Chicago.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1925—Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1924—Red Grange, Illinois.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Who is the most valuable football player at each of the Western conference universities?

For the second year, the athletes at each of these universities will decide for THE TRIBUNE the man on their team they rate worthy of special distinction.

And for the eighth year a committee of coaches, officials, and representatives of this newspaper will ballot to determine the most valuable player to his team in the Western conference. To this athlete will go THE TRIBUNE'S annual award, a sterling silver football, actual size, suitably engraved and mounted on an ebony base.

Squads Vote at End of Season.

The university football squads will not vote until their schedules have been concluded. The balloting will be secret. Then, from a list of ten nominations, one from each university, the committee of 22 will ballot to select the most valuable player to his team in the Big Ten.

THE TRIBUNE plan to honor the most valuable player was inaugurated in 1924 after it had been approved by the coaches, athletic directors, and faculty representative. Red Grange received the first silver football. The procedure of selection was changed in 1930.

Last year THE TRIBUNE decided to discard the selection of all mythical elevens. THE TRIBUNE believed then, and still believes, that football has outgrown the days of all star teams, the selection of which are beyond the capacity of any one man or group of men. Football no longer is confined to a section, nor are all the great players members of a few teams. Politics, too often, affects the selection.

Field Narrowed to Ten.

With the approval and cooperation of the coaches and athletic directors of the conference the selection of most valuable player on each team was evolved. Before 1930 the most valuable player in the conference had been selected from a field which included all players. Last year—and the same procedure will be followed this fall—the preliminary voting established a field of ten players from whom the most valuable player in the Big Ten was chosen.

This not only furnished a definite and authoritative statement of player value at each university, but it gave each institution an equal chance in the final selection. In seasons prior to 1930 the presence of several star players on one team frequently divided the votes while one outstanding player at another university might profit because he had undivided support.

Must Win Mates' Esteem.

The ten most valuable players to their teams now constitute THE TRIBUNE'S only honor selections and they are based on the recognition of their teammates. In naming these players consideration must be given to leadership, sportsmanship, self-sacrifice and other attributes other than physical proficiency. Selection is not confined to any one position. The Red Grange is the charter member of a select group of Big Ten football players who have been voted most valuable to their teams and awarded The Tribune trophy. Red won the first award in 1924. At the end of this season the eighth winner will be chosen, after each team has elected its own candidate for the honor. Coaches, officials, and representatives of The Tribune will take part in the final balloting.

JAZ AGE, STILL LONG SHOT, WINS THIRD STRAIGHT

Texas Entry Pays $14.54 at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Hawthorne racegoers who have followed the ups and downs of the 3 year old Jaz Age since the fall season started have reaped a golden harvest. For Jaz Age has been on the up grade throughout the meeting and became a three time winner yesterday when he captured the 6½ furlong dash, the feature of the day.

Now just a little about the bright career of Jaz Age since he came unheralded and unsung into Hawthorne less than three weeks ago. In his first start he ran away from his field on a muddy track and rewarded those who backed him at 28 to 1. This happened on Oct. 13.

On Oct. 22 he stepped out on a fast track and again he showed 'em his heels. In the mutuels betting he paid 10 to 1.

In yesterday's feature he had mustered a few backers, but they didn't have money enough to affect the price against him very much, so he again paraded to the post as an outsider in the betting, with Maid of Honor ruling as the favorite.

Takes an Early Lead.

The Hawthorne folks who backed him and received $14.54 for a $2 ticket didn't have anything to worry about after the field of eleven had traveled a quarter of a mile. For at that stage Jockey Hanford sent Jaz Age to the front, and he was winging along two lengths to the good from there until he neared the finish line. Then he drew out into a longer lead and was three lengths in front of the fleet Peggy J. when the official numbers were dropped into the slot.

Bill Orange, after belong far back most of the way, came up gamely near the finish, closed an immense gap, and got his nose up in time to beat Maid of Honor out of third money. Maid of Honor didn't have any excuses to offer. She saved ground by racing next to the rail all the way and when the time came to challenge in the stretch she gave it up as a bad job and quit.

Track Dries Rapidly.

The track, which had been slow at the opening of the program, rapidly dried out, and was bordering on lightning fast for the late races. Jaz Age ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:20 4-5, which was better time than some of our best horses have been able to hang up here since the fall season opened.

Despite his 3 Hawthorne triumphs, Jaz Age cannot be rated as a great sprinter. For all his victories have been scored against very mediocre horses. He is owned by Mrs. R. Pollard of Texas.

Jockey Lewis gave his public a terrible jolt yesterday. He was in silks in seven races. Either the horses he rode were very bad or Lewis was not riding in good form. As race after race came along and he was soundly beaten his backers groaned. J. Neel, a young rival of Lewis, was the jockey star. He piloted Liberty Ace and Durva to handy victories. The best Lewis could do was finish third on Domina in the last race.

Big Ten to Vote on Most Valuable Man

ten players all may be linemen or back field men.

"It's the fairest way of conferring honor upon those who deserve it that has yet been devised," Coach A. A. Stagg said last year in comment on THE TRIBUNE'S plan. Mr. Stagg always has opposed the selection of all-star teams and never has given his approval to any of the many selections that are made annually. He does approve permitting the athletes to honor one of their teammates.

Three Eligible Again.

It is interesting to note that three players, who were named as most valuable to their teams last year, are again in competition and eligible for the same honor. They are Joe Zeller, Indiana; Clarence Munn, Minnesota, and Oliver Sansen, Iowa.

The other players honored last year were Stan Bodman, Illinois; Bob Clark, Northwestern; Wesley Fesler, Ohio State; Walter Knudson, Chicago; William Lusby, Wisconsin; George Stears, Purdue, and Jack Wheeler, Michigan. Fesler was voted the most valuable to his team of all the Big Ten squads.

Fesler's selection, like the choice of the most valuable player in 1931, was made by a committee of 23. Football officials on the committee are:

Frank Birch, Earlham.
Col. H. R. Hackett, West Point.
Anthony Haines, Yale.
J. J. Lipp, Chicago.
Joe Magidsohn, Michigan.
James Masker, Northwestern.
Hugh Ray, Illinois.
John Schommer, Chicago.
Jay Wyatt, Missouri.
Fred Young, Illinois Wesleyan.

The coaches who will take part in the voting are:

Fritz Crisler, Minnesota.
Dick Hanley, Northwestern.
Burt Ingwersen, Iowa.
A. A. Stagg, Chicago.
Harry Kipke, Michigan.
E. C. Hayes, Indiana.
Glenn Thistlethwaite, Wisconsin.
Sam Williamson, Ohio State.
Bob Zuppke, Illinois.
Noble Kizer, Purdue.

Three Schools Unplaced.

No effort ever has been made to pass the honor around. The same university may win the honor in consecutive years, yet it is a coincidence that no two of the seven players, who have received the silver football, have competed for the same school. Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Purdue so far have not placed in the annual selection.

Bowman Set Out for Fame Behind Mule

He was a very unusual member of the rich and socially refined millionaire set that Rickard loved so well, but Rickard never fooled him. He had seen the general yearning for importance and luxury among the newly wealthy in the United States long before Rickard did. And, while he sincerely did like to bounce over hedge and fence in a scarlet coat, whooping yoicks and away and all such hunting cries in the early morning, Mr. Bowman rode on business, too.

Started Big Club.

MAROONS HOPE TO KEEP PURDUE BACKS IN CHECK

And to That End They Practice Defense.

If the prospect of cutting down the expected total of Purdue's points by a touchdown or two, may be considered a ray of sunshine, then the outlook for the Maroons in Saturday's game brightened somewhat yesterday.

Stanley Hamberg is out for the season. Pete Zimmer will be out of the Purdue game and Capt. Sam Horwits will play with a brace on his shoulder, but the other five men on the Maroon hospital roster will play against the Boilermakers.

How much action Warren Bellstrom may see is still doubtful but Pompeo Tolgo and Bernie Wien, regular ends, reported yesterday apparently fit for a busy afternoon of chasing Hecker, Pardonner, Purvis Yunevich and their colleagues. Tolgo's injury resulted from a head-on tackle last Saturday which hurt the muscles of his neck.

Birney May Start.

Don Birney, who may start in the back field because of his defensive skill, and Bob Shapiro and Bill Berg, who, with Wayne Rapp will alternate at Hamberg's guard position, have also recovered.

Coach Stagg yesterday continued his program of a light offensive drill and a hammer and tongs defensive scrimmage against the freshmen, who were led by Pat Page Jr. and Bill Frott, ineligible stars of last year's yearlings. On offense the Chicago coaches are pleased with the work of Joe Temple, who is beginning to show the skill he gave promise of having as a sophomore, and are less pleased with Vin Sahlin, who is showing less ability than he promised.

On defense, which they consider the great need for Saturday's exhibition of football by Purdue, the coaches are banking on special tactics devised by Pat Page.

Reserves Cause Worry.

They believe that Chicago may be able to hold the Lafayette boys while the Maroon line is still fresh, as they did last year when the Maroons, led, 7 to 6, at half time. But they are afraid that Purdue may repeat its 20 point last half performance when the weak reserves must be called upon to substitute.

Paul Stagg's good game in the last half of the Indiana match has insured him a place in the Chicago starting back field. His running mates will probably be Wallace, Temple, and Summers.

PURDUE TO USE PASSES

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—"With our squad at full strength for the first time this season, we are going to cut loose with our entire repertoire of plays against Chicago and I am expecting a wide open game," said Coach Noble Kizer this afternoon when questioned concerning his plans for the Chicago game Saturday.

"Against Carnegie, the rain and slippery ball made it impossible to use our forward passing game, but given good weather, we expect to supplement our running attack with a liberal use of aerial plays, with Paul Moss receiving and either Fred Hecker or Ed Risk passing."

Kizer drilled both regular combinations on offensive scrimmage tonight, polishing off the running attack that has already clipped off an average of nearly four yards a play in its three major engagements against Illinois, Wisconsin, and Carnegie Tech.

KIPKE MAY START HUDSON

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—If Capt. Roy Hudson can punt when under fire he will work with Newman, Fay, and Hewitt in the Michigan back field at the start of the Princeton game Saturday, Coach Harry Kipke said today. Kipke reserved his opinion, but intimated that he would prefer using Newman to Tessmer at quarter because of the latter's back injury. Tessmer, Heston, and Everhardus, the Wolverines' three leading punters, are on the casualty list.

Kipke gave Hudson a punting drill this afternoon and also worked with Renner, it being possible that Renner will be used for the first time this season. He also put the squad through a long passing drill, with the B team on defense. When the regulars were placed on defense the freshmen provided opposition, using Princeton plays.

Indications are now that Petoskey and Williamson, ends; Auer and Wistert, tackles; Hozer and Lajeunesse, guards, and Morrison, center, will make up the Michigan line.

The Wolverine squad of thirty which will leave for Princeton tomorrow, accompanied by Coaches Kipke and Cappon and by the university band, will be made up as follows:

Ends—Petoskey, Williamson, Daniels, and Yost.
Tackles—Auer, Wistert, Samuels, Goldsmith, and Damm.
Centers—Morrison, Bernard, and Cooke.
Quarter backs—Newman, Tessmer, and Westover.
Full backs—Hewitt and Cox.

OLIPHANT REJOINS OHIO

Columbus, O., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Marshal Oliphant, Ohio State's sophomore passing half back, is getting his first real test of football of the year since recovering from a broken ankle bone injured in the first game of the season with Cincinnati.

He is a good open field runner and his passing and kicking ability for the first time this year give Ohio a triple threat man in the back field.

During this afternoon's light workout, Coach Williaman had two complete back fields in operation in a tag scrimmage against the freshman in which Capt. Holcomb, Hinchman, Yochinich, and Cramer formed the first stringers while Oliphant, Keefe, Weaver and Carroll were in the second quartet.

MAYWOOD PLAYS BERWYN.

Maywood A. C. football team, which has won 29 consecutive victories, will play the Berwyn Parrots at Berwyn stadium, 29th street and Ridgeland avenue Sunday.

Ghost Ball Is Put Into Use at Notre Dame

He discredited the statement from Carnegie Tech that if Notre Dame scores early the Tartan regulars will be benched and saved for next week's game with Pitt. He believes that Judge Steffan took them out against Purdue last week to have them ready for Notre Dame.

Charles Jaskwhich, who seems to have mastered his only fault, ball handling, was in with the regulars in today's drill. He caught a hard pass from Marchy Schwartz last Saturday to score and handled several punts in great style. He is strong in the other departments and may be able to keep Emmett Murphy, his rival, with the shock troops.

Plans were under way today for the student body to give the team a send off tomorrow night when it leaves on the first of three invasions of the east.

CARNEGIE REVIEWS PLAYS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech's football practice today was evenly divided between offensive and defensive plays which will be used when Notre Dame comes Saturday. At least five sophomores will be in the starting lineup if the coaches hold to their plans to open up with the same team that opposed Washington-Jefferson, Georgia Tech and Purdue.

GOPHERS DRILL IN RAIN

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—The third straight day of steady rain today forced Coach Fritz Crisler to alternate preparations of the Minnesota football team for the Wisconsin game between the fieldhouse and Northrop field. The Gophers worked on new formations indoors and then went out on their rain soaked gridiron to put them into use against the freshmen.

Today Crisler kept Center Oen and Tackle Wells on the side lines while the varsity scrimmaged. Wells' arm has shown no improvement, and it seemed certain that he will be on the side lines Saturday.

Quentin Burdick ran signals with the third team tonight. Kenneth MacDougall was advanced to the quarter back post on the varsity, and may be a starter against Wisconsin. Ubl displaced Swartz at left half. There were no other changes in the lineup.

Heavy demand for tickets to the game has forced the erection of temporary seats along the side lines to take care of the overflow crowd of 55,000 that is expected.

BADGER QUARTERS DRILL

Madison, Wis., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—With Buckets Goldenberg, his blocking and defensive star on the ailing list and slated for a bench rôle Saturday, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite spent much time on his reserve quarter backs in today's Wisconsin football practice. Wimmer, Pacetti, and Schiller were drilled in the entire Badger offense. After the usual forward passing drill, the varsity faced the freshmen, using Minnesota plays. Wimmer worked as varsity quarter back, with Linfor and McGuire at halves and Schneller at full back.

Later both Schiller and Pacetti went in at quarter. Capt. Smith watched the scrimmage, nursing his injured leg, but he will be able to play against Minnesota. The entire scrimmage was devoted to defense.

HOOSIERS IN PASS DRILL

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 28. — [Special.]—If practice means anything, it appears Indiana will resort to the aerial route in an effort to give the Hoosier homecoming crowd a victory over Ohio State in Memorial stadium here Saturday.

The Crimson coaches today continued to develop the pass offensive in a long, hard drill outdoors. Expecting the Buckeyes to be on the lookout for a passing attack, the Hoosiers worked to protect it.

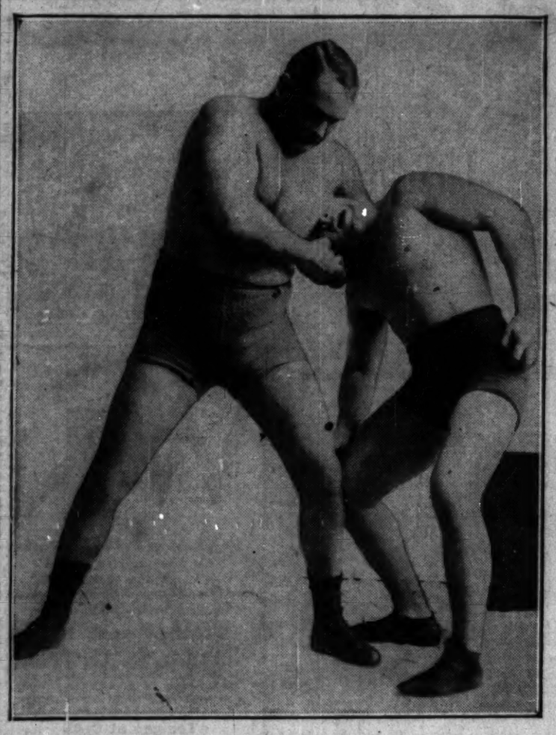
IOWA LINE WORK POOR

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Little response to Coach Burt Ingwersen's attempt at putting more speed in the University of Iowa line was revealed in Hawkeye practice today, guards and tackles giving a slow performance in offensive scrimmage.

Backs made a creditable showing behind the shaky line, but were held to short gains against the freshmen because of poor blocking.

Ed Dolly, regular center, was still unable to work out because of a sprained ankle. It is probable he will be replaced by Case in the starting lineup against George Washington.

HOLLER 'NUF! HOLLER 'NUF!



And that's about the only way you can get Ed (Strangler) Lewis to let up when he clamps on one of these ear scissors, technically known as the headlock. Lewis will use this hold in the charity wrestling show at the Stadium next Monday night. Wladek Zbyszko will be the recipient.

Game's Growth Led Comiskey to St. Louis

writer was Al Spink, who was reorganizing the Browns for admission to the American association in 1882. As fast as Commy could get to the post-office he forwarded his reply.

Salary Small, but Possibilities Good.

He would gladly accept, but what about salary? Back came word that the pay would be $75 a month. That was almost half what he was receiving for train butchering and playing ball on the side. Sullivan pointed out to him that, while the pay was smaller, the possibilities at St. Louis were far greater than at Dubuque, so Commy wrote back that he would be on the job in the spring.

Other men picked up for Commy's mates in 1882 were Walker, Smiley, and Shappert from the Atlantics of Brooklyn. Will Gleason, Seward, and McGinnis were saved from the Browns of the year before. The new owners were justifiably proud of their 1882 creation, but their pride received a sad blow when it played its first game (April 2, 1882) with the Standards, a strong local semi-pro team. The box score of that game follows:

Earned runs—None. Total bases—Browns, 8; Standards, 3. Umpire—Dave Ring.

The outcome of the above argument was so distasteful to the vanquished that a return engagement was booked for the following Sunday. The Browns then redeemed themselves by registering a one-sided win which made them look better for their entry into the American association.

KIECKHEFER WINS FROM MORIN FOR FOURTH STRAIGHT

Augie Kieckhefer won his fourth straight game in the special three cushion billiard exhibitions against Chicago stars when he defeated Charles Morin, 50 to 27, in 38 innings, at the Kieckhefer Recreation yesterday. Kieckhefer had a high run of 6 against Morin's 4. In his four games Kieckhefer has scored 200 points in 153 innings.

Kieckhefer now is ready for his first test of the season, which will be a 200 point match against Arthur Thurnblad, the world titleholder,

Gustafson and Bistolas Rejoin Lane Tech Team

Capt. Eddie Gustafson and Chuck Bistolas, outstanding players on Lane Tech's hospital list, rejoined the squad yesterday in practice and will be in the lineup when Tech faces Schurz Saturday afternoon at Soldiers' field in its last north section game of the Chicago Public High School Football league.

Capt. Gustafson, one of the best punters in the league, has recovered from a knee injury, and his presence has boosted the hopes of the squad which, crippled from the beginning of the league season, won only one game in defense of its sectional championship.

It will be the first league game for Bistolas, veteran quarter back. He was seriously injured when Lane Tech battled De Paul in a practice game a week before the opening of its league season. Another player who participated in Lane Tech's drill yesterday was Joe Petrich, left half back.

The Bowen-Englewood game scheduled for Saturday afternoon will be played tomorrow at Normal park, it was announced by A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the league, yesterday. The Lindblom-Tilden contest at White City will be the only central section game on Saturday.

Crane and Harrison Tech, both seeking their third straight west division victory, will play at Mills stadium Saturday. Crane will meet Austin, and Harrison will battle Marshall.

Joe McMahon and Frank Sattler, two stars of St. Philip's six consecutive north section triumphs, probably will be unavailable when St. Philip faces De Paul at De Paul field Sunday afternoon. Both suffered injuries in the St. Patrick game and have been out of practice during the week.

Loyola academy, another Catholic league north section squad, will meet St. George at Evanston Sunday without Billy Looney, star right half back, and Tom Kinsella, left end.

John Callahan, who prefers to be called Lefty, is more than a good football player, according to Coach Ofstie. Lefty is the president of the senior class at Mount Carmel. He broke through De La Salle's line last Sunday for a 45 yard run to give Mount Carmel its second touchdown. Mount Carmel faces St. Rita at St. Rita field, 63d and South Oakley avenue, Sunday afternoon.

Deerfield-Shields of the Suburban league will meet Waukegan on the latter's field tomorrow afternoon in a nonleague contest, having drawn a bye in the schedule this week-end.

While the Glenbard-Riverside game Saturday in the West Suburban conference is the best on the schedule, it is far from the title game, according to Maine supporters. Maine has suffered only one defeat, scored two victories and has yet to face three opponents, the first being Hinsdale at Des Plaines Saturday afternoon.

Grove Most Valuable in American Loop

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—For the second time in four years a member of the former world champion Philadelphia Athletics has been adjudged the American league's most valuable player. Robert Moses Grove, sometimes called the greatest southpaw pitcher in history, receives the distinction for 1931, just as his battery mate, Mickey Cochrane, was chosen in 1928.

The slender left hander with the blazing fast ball is the second pitcher to be called most valuable in the 14 years the awards, official and unofficial, have been made. Walter Johnson, the Big Train of the Washington Senators, received the distinction twice, in 1913 and 1924.

It was just a breeze for Grove when a committee of eight members of the Baseball Writers' association cast their ballots. The Athletics' ace, who set an all time record by winning 31 games and losing only 4 during the past season, received 78 points out of a possible 80. His closest rival was Lou Gehrig, slugging first baseman of the New York Yankees, who received 59 points. Gehrig won the award in 1927.

Simmons Is Third.

Al Simmons of the Athletics, batting leader of the American league, finished third with 51 points; Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, was fourth with 43, and Babe Ruth, who received the award in 1923, placed fifth with 40.

The method employed in choosing the American league's most valuable man was the same as that which resulted in the selection of Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman of the champion St. Louis Cardinals, as the outstanding player in the National league. Ten players were ranked by each of the writers, with 10 points for a first place selection. Grove was ranked first on six lists and second on the other two. Gehrig and Simmons each received one vote for first place.

Blue Gets 4 Votes.

Other players who figured in the balloting were Earl Webb, Boston, 22; Joe Cronin, Washington [winner in 1930], 18; Oscar Melillo, St. Louis, 17; Sam West, Washington, 16; Mickey Cochrane, Philadelphia, 16; George Earnshaw, Philadelphia, 12; Wes Ferrell, Cleveland, 12; Fred Marberry, Washington, 11; Hal Rhyne, Boston, 10; Ben Chapman, New York, 7; Jonathan Stone, Detroit, 6; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, 4; Lu Blue, Chicago, 4; Ralph Kress, St. Louis, 3; Carl Reynolds, Chicago, 2; Walter Stewart, St. Louis, 2; Goose Goslin, St. Louis, 2; Danny Macfayden, Boston, 2; Tom Oliver, Boston, 2; Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia, 1.

Those who received honorable mention were Durham, Boston; Fonseca, Frazier, Cissell, Chicago; Morgan, Kamm, Vosmik, Luke Sewell, Cleveland; Alexander and R. Johnson, Detroit; Gomez, Combs, Joe Sewell, Dickey, New York; Walberg, Bishop, Haas, McNair, Hahaffey, Philadelphia; Crowder, Spencer, Kuhel, Myer, Washington.

Crowd Boos as Adgie Loses to Levandowski

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Mart Levandowski of Grand Rapids won a close decision from Matt Adgie of Philadelphia in a ten round slugging match here tonight. The crowd booed the decision, demanding that the bout be called a draw. Levandowski weighed 170½, Adgie 171½.

Smitty Did Good Turn for Farmers by Freeing Foxes

BY BOB BECKER.

When Smitty, the youngster in THE TRIBUNE cartoon strip, turned his foxes free a few days ago rather than have them killed for their pelts at a price of $20 each, he may not have known it, but adding a few foxes to the open country nearby was a pretty good conservation measure. Both the gray and the red foxes are excellent mousers and in the course of a year would kill many of these small rodents which are such a nuisance to agriculturists. Give old Reynard a meadow with plenty of field mice in it and he has a happy hunting ground.

The hunting skill of the fox is almost proverbial. He can stalk mice with great cunning and pounce as quickly as a cat. Inasmuch as both the field and the meadow mice are prolific, consume great quantities of grain on a farm, and are widely distributed, the fox gives the agriculturist real help. If old Reynard steals an occasional chicken he may well feel he is just collecting for work well done.

Besides mice the grays and the reds feed upon ground squirrels, insects, and rabbits. But they also are very fond of certain kinds of fruits. Thus these animals live on a varied diet depending a good deal on the season. In turning to insects for food they again help the farmer.

Reynard is such a sly, keen scented crafty animal that he can live even in a well settled area if there is enough woods and other cover for a retreat and a den. He is so smart he can even get along within a short distance of Chicago's loop in sections where one would hardly expect such animals. We saw a red fox about 55 miles from the loop in a thickly settled farming community two years ago where both raccoon and fox signs were abundant.

Although foxes may take a rabbit when they can and also kill a few birds in the course of the year, they are by no means in the class with such destroyers of wild life as the weasel or the great horned owl. On the contrary, Reynard is a colorful sporty gentleman of woods and fields with habits that are generally beneficial to the farmer.

Sheridan Is Buried Among Army Heroes

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Honors befitting a soldier who had fallen on the battlefield were accorded Richard Brinsley Sheridan Jr. today by his comrades, the cadets of the United States Military academy.

The body of Cadet Sheridan, who was fatally injured in the Army-Yale football game last Saturday, was borne in a flag draped coffin from the Academy hospital at 10:30 a. m. to the little Catholic chapel up above the north end of the parade grounds. There, half an hour later, requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father J. A. Langton, Catholic chaplain of the academy.

Mother Leaves Chapel.

Just before Father Langton took his place at the altar Mrs. Richard B. Sheridan of Augusta, Ga., the cadet's mother, entered the chapel alone. She leaned over the bier and wept softly, and then, with her head bowed, hurriedly left the chapel, too overwrought to remain.

Immediately after the mass an honor guard took its post at the sealed casket and remained until 4 o'clock this afternoon, when a brief service of final absolution was held.

Buried Among Heroes.

The student-soldier's last resting place is among illustrious soldiers of the past—men such as Gen. George A. Custer, the Indian fighter; Gen. Winfield Scott of Mexican war fame, and Gen. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal.

RED DEVIL TEAM TO RIDE AGAIN IN STADIUM RACE

Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere, French cyclists, known as the "Red Devil" team, will be paired again in Chicago's twenty-sixth international six-day bicycle race at the Stadium Nov. 8.

Letourner and Guimbretiere won the six-day race in Chicago last November. They also won in Madison Square Garden last March. Letourner has won two six-day races, finished second in five, and third in one. Guimbretiere has won two races and finished second in another.

Big Ten Bans Iowa-State Charity Game

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Action by the western conference today halted plans for a post-season charity football game between the University of Iowa and Iowa State college, Dean C. C. Williams, chairman of the Hawkeye athletic board, said.

Dean Williams was notified by a telegram from Prof. William Marshall of Purdue university, secretary of the conference, that Iowa's petition for the game had been denied.

Ballot Taken by Mail.

The ballot was taken by mail after the Hawkeye athletic board voted on Oct. 17 to play the Iowa State charity game. The only reason given for the Big Ten's refusal to allow the game was that the conference already had made its plans for charity football. Iowa will play its conference charity game Nov. 28, drawings for which will be made on the basis of team standings, Dean Williams said. Proceeds of the contest will be prorated between the states.

Governor Approves Game.

Application was made for the post-season game after Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa had approved the proposal by the American Legion on Oct. 7. Iowa State already had obtained permission from the Big Six conference to play Iowa after the close of the season.

Dean Williams said the decision would be accepted as final.

Kin of Dr. C. R. Switzer Sue Lumber Merchant.

A legal fight for a fortune founded in Florida's first land boom half a century ago was started yesterday in the Superior court.

The estate is that of Dr. Charles R. Switzer, who died on June 27, 1928, at the age of 80. His heirs-at-law, two nieces and a nephew, filed a bill asking an accounting by Harry L. Street, wealthy lumber merchant living at 592 Sheridan road, Winnetka, and also seeking cancellation of a deed executed by Dr. Switzer two years before his death, transferring his entire estate, valued at $700,000, to Street. The bill was filed by Attorney Millard R. Powers.

The complainants are Mrs. Florence Crostwait, 7312 Coles avenue; Mrs. Alice R. McConnell of Hinsdale, and Dr. Charles G. Darling, 809 Forest avenue, Evanston. They are children of Mrs. Martha Switzer Darling, sister of Dr. Switzer.

Street Heads Lumber Company.

Street is president of the Chatfield Lumber company, 2415 Elston avenue; a director of several other lumber and finance companies, and a member of the University, Church, Saddle and Cycle, and Indian Hill clubs. Mrs. Street, because of her dower interest in her husband's property, is named a co-defendant.

Dr. Switzer, the complainants assert, was brought to this country from Canada and supported for some time by their father, James G. Darling, who was a silent partner in a grain brokerage house. They also assert that it was through their father that Dr. Switzer, an osteopath, obtained the money for his investments at Winter Park, Fla., which were the foundation of his fortune.

Although Darling provided Dr. Switzer with a considerable portion of his funds, the latter made no move to help Darling when his business failed in 1905, and their father ended his days as a clerk for a coal company, the complainants charge.

Charge Street Drew Will.

Dr. Switzer's wife, who was an aunt of Street, died in 1919. The complainants assert that grief for her was the cause of a senile breakdown in their uncle, and that from 1920 until Dr. Switzer's death Street "assumed the capacity of personal critic and manager" for the aged osteopath.

They charge that Dr. Switzer deeded his holdings to Street under duress, and that in 1928 he also signed a will, drawn up by Street and witnessed by three of Street's employés, leaving his estate to the lumber merchant. Street filed that will for probate in the Orange county court at Orlando, Fla., and the heirs at law started a contest against its admission which is still pending, the bill recited.

WORK ON CREDIT CORPORATION TO HELP HOLD CORN

Officers and attorneys for three corn belt farm organizations met with representatives of the federal farm board and the National Grain corporation in Chicago yesterday to perfect plans for a $10,000,000 credit corporation to help farmers hold their corn for better prices.

MARK WOODS. [U. & U. Photo.]

The chief problem was to organize so that the corporation might receive some of its proposed paid-in capital of $1,000,000 from the farm board. When the meeting adjourned last night to meet again today no agreement had been reached as to the best method of complying with the law restricting farm board loans to cooperatives.

The credit corporation was suggested by Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, Mark W. Woods, Lincoln, Neb., ranchman, who has led a "hold your corn" movement there, and Charles Hearst, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, were others who attended.

Leaders of the movement announced they had received promises of some cash for the paid-in capital from commercial sources. It is proposed to issue state warehouse receipts on corn sealed in farmers' cribs to increase the loan capacity of the corporation.

Donald Brigham, Artillery Veteran, Paid Last Honor

Funeral services were held yesterday for Donald F. Brigham of Chillicothe, O., formerly of Chicago. He served as a sergeant in Battery E., 149th Field artillery. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Beatrice Billings Brigham of Chillicothe; two daughters, Dorothy and Sharley; his mother, Mrs. F. M. Forrey of Wilmette, Ill., and two brothers, G. K. Brigham of St. Charles, Ill., and Lucius W. Brigham, treasurer of the Wahl Eversharp company.

SHOT BY BOY, 15, AS HE ATTACKS MOTHER'S HOME

Henry Kolasky, 23 years old, of 5017 South Artesian avenue, a minor police character, was shot early this morning and probably fatally wounded by a 15 year old boy. The boy, Steven Sawczuk, of 1338 West 50th street, was held by Stockyards police.

The shooting occurred in the rear of the Sawczuk home, where Kolasky formerly roomed. Recently Kolasky was forced to vacate his room by Mrs. Anna Sawczuk because of drunkenness, she said. He returned early this morning and threw tin cans and other missiles on the back porch and Steven fired a shotgun at him. A dozen slugs struck Kolasky in the back. At the German Deaconess hospital it was said he might die.

Police records show that on Aug. 26, 1929, Kolasky was found with a fractured skull on a roadside in Argo. At the time he talked of gang affiliations and asserted he was taken for a ride by the Saltis mob because he quit them to join Capone. Officials discounted his story and said he was drunk.

BANKER'S SON AND GIRL FOUND SHOT ON ROAD

Edwardsville, Ill., Oct. 29 (Thursday). —(AP)—Edward Vorwald, 35, son of Fred Vorwald, prominent real estate operator and banker here, and a woman companion were shot and critically wounded on a detour road off highway No. 4 between Edwardsville and Granite City last night.

Vorwald was shot in the left side and the girl, whose identity had not been established early this morning, was wounded in the forehead. Both were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital in Granite City.

Authorities said the couple apparently were victims of a holdup.

Col. Alfred D. Smith Will Speak to Reserve Group

Col. Alfred D. Smith, assistant chief of staff of the United States army, will speak tonight before a combined meeting of the Military Intelligence association and the Cook county chapter of the Reserve Officers' association. The meeting will be held in the naval reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street. Col. W. R. Matheny of the signal reserve corps and president of the Cook county chapter of the reservists' association, will preside. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the sixth corps area, will be the guest of honor.

Thomas D. Thomas, Retired Postal Worker, Dies at 82

Thomas D. Thomas, 82 years old, a retired employé of the postoffice, died yesterday in his home at 1431 North Lockwood avenue. Born in New York City, Thomas was brought to Chicago when he was 3 years old. In his early youth he lived in La Salle street, between Jackson boulevard and Van Buren street.

INQUEST IN DOUBLE SLAYING.

A verdict of murder and suicide while temporarily insane was returned by a coroner's jury in the deaths of Frank Names, 47 years old, a hearse driver, and his wife, Hattie, 43 years old, whose bodies were found in their home in Niles. Names killed his wife then turned the gun on himself.

FIND VINEYARD OFFICIALS GUILTY OF GRAPE PLOT

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 28.—[Special.]—Officers of California Vineyards company, a grape products sales concern with Chicago headquarters, were today acquitted on one count and convicted on another by a jury in federal District court. The verdict ended an 11 day trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Carl A. Futter, president of the concern and head of the Chicago offices, and two other officers of the company were convicted on a misdemeanor count which charged they offered grape juice for sale capable of developing into an intoxicating beverage. The misdemeanor is punishable by a maximum fine of $500.

On the principal count of conspiracy to market the beverage with intent to violate the law, all were acquitted.

CLOSE BUYING REFLECTED IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Production Holds Nearly Steady.

BY D. A. MATHER.

It is the consensus of leaders in practically every line of trade that the policy of hand to mouth buying is being followed to a degree never before practiced. And the fact that inventories of all lines of goods are now so small results in any little expansion in demand bringing temporary improvement and any falling off brings contraction.

The week to week record of the steel industry is an example of this situation. The weekly reviews say that reports from metal consuming industries are a trifle more encouraging this week, but there are contrary trends in the demands for various forms of steel. So it is difficult to determine whether a uniformly upward movement in steel bookings and operations can be expected within the near future.

Curb on Buying.

For the country as a whole, steel ingot production this week is averaging about 29 per cent of capacity, compared with 28 per cent a week ago. But the smallness of the gain reflects the continued curb on buying. Plant operations have expanded in the east, but are virtually stationary in the middle west.

"Railroads, though placing some rail and track supply orders, are so plainly disappointed over the interstate commerce commission's decision in the freight rate case that the extent of their fall purchases is in doubt," the Iron Age says. "Meanwhile, the steel industry appraises the proposed freight rate increases as too small to aid the carriers materially or to stimulate buying by general consumers prior to the time that the rates become effective. Rail mill schedules have not been increased.

Automobile Schedules.

"The automobile industry has been going forward on its new production schedules more slowly than expected and some steel orders looked for this month will not be placed until November. The farm implement industry is taking steel a little more freely for new manufacturing programs, but has not yet become an important factor in mill schedules. The slump in takings of structural steel for construction work is still pronounced. Pipe production, supported lately by work for oil and gas lines, is very low. A gain in tin plate mill activity is owing to anticipated rollings for later delivery."

Slackness in industry in denoted by the fact that electric power production last week made the poorest comparison with a year ago in several months, being off 5.8 per cent from a year ago. The decline in the Chicago district was 8.1 per cent.

Better Chicago Business.

Not all news was adverse yesterday, however. Another optimistic report on Chicago's business situation was made by the department of commerce regional office in Chicago. This is the second successive week in which the regular report has shown favorable conditions.

"Cooler weather and a resultant increase in buying demand aided Chicago wholesale and retail merchandise markets during the last week," the report said. "Fall and winter wearing apparel, for both men and women, have been in good demand."

Activity Increases.

"Slaughtering establishments in the United States displayed a slight increase in activity during September," according to reports of the Federal production of packing house commodities gained 3 per cent over the preceding month, which is contrary to seasonal trend, and aggregated only ½ per cent less than in September, 1930. Pay rolls, moreover, at the close of the period, reflected an expansion of 1 per cent over August in the number of workers, with practically no change in hours worked or wage earnings."

Pennsy Again Cuts Dividend; on $2 Basis;

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—The Pennsylvania railroad management authorized today the second cut in the line's dividend rate to be made this year, bringing the rate to $2 annually, the lowest since 1891. The announcement was made without comment.

The Pennsylvania, which has paid dividends continuously since 1856, paid $4 in 1930, the largest annual declaration since 1926. The rate was reduced to $3 by a declaration of 75 cents three months ago. Yesterday's declaration was 50 cents and was designated as a quarterly disbursement. The par value of Pennsylvania stock is $50.

Changes in Dividend.

The declaration in 1891 was $1.50 in 1906, which was followed by a depression, the disbursement was $6.25. In 1907 the rate was $3.50 and this rate declined to $2.25 in 1921. From the latter year, however, it increased steadily.

A factor in today's reduction was the passing of its dividend by the Lehigh Valley railroad, which the Pennsylvania controls. The Norfolk and Western, which the Pennsylvania also controls, paid its usual $2 extra dividend on Tuesday, but this was not sufficient to offset declines in other sources of income. Wabash railways stock held by the Pennsylvania is also off a dividend basis.

Like other eastern lines, the Pennsylvania has suffered great reductions in operating revenues this year. Its gross in the first nine months of this year was $347,170,000, against $441,913,000 in the same period last year, and its net operating income on the same basis was $38,201,000, against $73,111,000.

Shares at Bottom.

Pennsylvania stock eased to a fractional new low of 29¼ today, closing at 30, off ½. The next dividend meeting of the New York Central is in December.

The Savage Arms corporation voted today to omit the quarterly dividend due at this time on the common stock. Three months ago the company paid 25 cents, previous to which the rate was 50 cents quarterly. The regular quarterly was announced on the second preferred stock.

Directors of the Alaska Packers association voted today to omit the quarterly dividend of $2 due at this time.

UNLISTED STOCK TRADE BROADENS; PRICES ERRATIC

Trading in unlisted Chicago stocks in the over-counter market has broadened in the last few weeks. Price movements have been irregular, with some issues making notable gains and others showing weakness. Chicago Title and Trust jumped 35 points last week and has retained most of its gain. First State Pawners is firm around 102 to 105. Elgin National Watch, National Tea new preferred, Congress Hotel and National Gypsum preferred have held about steady.

Hearst Consolidated Publications, comprising only the pick of Hearst newspapers, which came out a year or so ago at $25 a share par for cumulative participating class A, is now quoted among the unlisted stocks at 20¾ bid and 21¼ asked. An interesting coincidence is the continuing announcement that this stock is still being offered to the public by the Hearst offices at $25 a share. Advertisements recommending the stock at the $25 price are now appearing in the Hearst papers here.

Railway Chiefs Give I. C. C. Opinion on Rate Ruling

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Railroad chieftains got together today, decided what they thought was wrong with the interstate commerce commission's plan for increasing revenues, and then told the commission about it.

The men who took their case to headquarters were: W. R. Cole, president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; H. A. Scandrett of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; J. J. Pelley of the New Haven, and Alfred P. Thom, counsel for the Association of Railway Executives. They are members of the advisory committee of the association which met earlier, behind closed doors.

PROPOSE CHECK ON INVESTMENT IN CALL LOANS

N. Y. Clearing House to Act on Proposal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—Corporations and wealthy individuals who in 1929 placed nearly $4,000,000,000 in the call money market will find that sometimes lucrative avenue of investment closed to them in the future if the New York Clearing House association acts favorably on a proposal now before it to ban brokers' loans for the account of "others."

The decision is in the hands of the clearing house committee, composed of Charles S. McCain, chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National bank, chairman; Harry E. Ward, president of the Irving Trust company; George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company; Herbert P. Howell, president of the Commercial National Bank and Trust company; Gordon S. Rentschler, president of the National City bank, and Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the New York Trust company, who is president of the clearing house association.

The committee, it is said, is expected to meet shortly and draw up a ruling forbidding members of the clearing house to accept funds from nonbanking interests for employment in loans to brokers.

Total Billions at Peak.

The practice of corporations and other nonbanking interests in placing their surplus funds in the call money market through the instrumentality of the large New York banks reached enormous proportions during the period of the bull market when call money rates soared as high as 20 per cent.

At the high point, reached on Oct. 9, 1929, such loans totaled $3,941,000,000 out of the total of $6,713,000,000 of all loans to brokers reported as of that date by New York City banks.

The existence of so large a volume of credit extended by lenders who recognized no responsibility for maintaining orderly conditions in the money market was the cause of grave apprehension on the part of bankers. Their fears were justified when the market broke. In the two last weeks of October, 1929, "others" reduced their loans to brokers by $1,432,000,000, throwing the burden of carrying the loans upon the New York City banks. Subsequently still further amounts were called in by non-banking lenders, reducing their accommodation to brokers between the middle of October and the end of November by almost $2,000,000,000.

Rates Becomes Unattractive.

This first sudden withdrawal was the result of a panicky fear for the safety of their money by the non-banking lenders. Since then the steady reduction in the call money rate has made brokers' loans unattractive and brought about a gradual decline in loans for account of "others." On Oct. 7 last, these loans amounted to only $126,000,000, a reduction of $3,815,000,000 from the high point reached two years before.

The current low volume of "others" loans will make it possible, in the opinion of leading bankers, to put a stop to the practice of arranging such loans with a minimum of inconvenience. The banks can take over the loans now being extended by "others" at once, without any trouble and the comparatively small sums involved will mean that corporations and individuals making the loans will not be greatly disturbed at having to find another outlet for their funds.

It is necessary, however, bankers feel, to act promptly. The recent advance in call money rates from 1½ per cent to 2½ per cent has already attracted fresh corporation money into the call market. From the low of $126,000,000 on Oct. 7, loans for the account of "others" have gone up to $179,000,000 as of Oct. 21, and in the report due today brokers' loans statement may show a further increase.

COOK COUNTY BANK GROUPS VOTE TO MERGE

Members of the Chicago Federation of the Illinois Bankers' association and the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association have approved a merger between the two organizations upon a basis developed by committees representing the two associations, it was announced last night. Sue E. Downing, for many years assistant secretary of the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association, has been elected secretary of the merged organization. The consolidated association will be quartered with the Illinois Bankers' association at 33 North La Salle street.

The Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association was organized in 1920 and was the outgrowth of the South Side Bankers' club. E. N. Baty, who has served as executive secretary of the organization since 1922, resigned early this month to become associated with Household Finance corporation. The Chicago federation was formed in 1923 as the local branch of the Illinois Bankers' association. The governing bodies of the two associations, in working out this merger which has been approved by the membership of each, were motivated by a desire to eliminate a duplication of banking association facilities which has existed in Chicago for some time, it was stated.

Discusses Realty Bond Protective Committees

BY SCRUTATOR.

With something more than a half billion dollars of Chicago and Cook county real estate bonds in default a multitude of salvage schemes have been born.

The favored plan has been to organize a protective committee, call for deposit of the bonds by their holders and invest the members of the committee with complete authority to dispose of the matter at their discretion.

There may be reserved for the bondholder the privilege of withdrawing in case the plan adopted doesn't suit him. But this isn't much of an out, for usually it means that he has the choice of riding along with the proposition whether he likes it or not or of joining the small minority who remain outside to be frozen out at a low figure when the committee, acting for the depositing bondholders, takes over the assets and reorganizes the financial setup.

Many Do Their Best.

Not that there aren't good committees motivated largely by a desire to make the best of a bad situation and realize as large an amount as possible for the bondholders. Many of them are honestly doing their best to aid the investors.

But the system itself is likely to get a bad name because of the activities of other groups whose altruistic purposes seem to be tempered by a desire for personal gain.

This situation is recognized by the local investment community. There has been the suggestion that some well known organization like the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association scrutinize the working of the various protective groups and issue a "white list" of those that can be indorsed, but this is generally regarded as impracticable.

Cites Chief Trouble.

The chief trouble with the protective committee plan of action is that it so frequently functions in the dark. The real business is often of the back room variety, the bondholder, who has the most at stake, being given only enough information to get him to go along.

There is opportunity here for constructive work. Much can be done toward restoring confidence in local securities. Mystery, however, doesn't make for confidence. Being told nothing, the bondholder suspects the worst. In that frame of mind he is exposed to many dangers, not the least of which is his own susceptibility to bartering propositions whereby he is offered the "opportunity" of selling his bonds for a fraction of their real worth or of trading them for something less valuable.

It's high time that the bondholders' committee comes out from behind its false whiskers. The reputable committees that merit support would lose nothing thereby. A sound proposition will bear the limelight.

Has Right to Knowledge.

Expense has been an argument. But it would cost no more to print and circulate letters giving exact information than it costs for three or four pages of circumlocution winding up with the vague assertion that "everything humanly possible is being done to aid the bondholders."

The bondholder, first of all, has a right to know why the members of the committee are serving and what they plan to do.

He is interested in such things as coal bills, the purchase of new equipment, insurance, etc. If the building is being redecorated he may want to know why and for what price. He is anxious to know whether taxes are being paid. And he welcomes light shed on the various items of expense incidental to foreclosure, attorney's fees, etc. If a deal is being made with the owner of the equity he is curious about that, too.

Should Command Interest.

The job of reorganizing and refinancing buildings in default is sufficiently important to warrant the active interest of well known representative organizations such as the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association, the Chicago Real Estate board, the Chicago Bar association, the Investors' Protective bureau.

If it were practicable for a representative of each of these groups to serve as an ex-officio member of each protective committee there would be little trouble in getting the confidence and wholehearted support of the bondholders.

Some of the committees have done good work and have kept the bondholders well informed. The others should be forced to do likewise.

Week's Business Failures Largest Since Last May

Business defaults for this week number 533, the largest number recorded since May 8 last, Bradstreet's reports. The figure compares with 511 last week and 514 in the like week of 1930. Retail insolvencies this week totaled 321, or 60.2 per cent of the total, as compared with 306, or 59.9 per cent last week.

Plan $260,000,000 Firm to Develop Italian Utilities

ROME, Oct. 28.—(AP)—An Anglo-Italian finance corporation with a capital of $260,000,000 is to be organized shortly to develop public utilities in Italy, it was announced today.

The incorporation papers contain a promise to give a portion of the profits to Premier Mussolini each year for educational and charitable purposes. The company proposes to develop Italy's natural resources, to build electric traction lines, to work the marble quarries, and to build apartment houses.

Four-fifths of the capital was raised by the Westminster Contract corporation of London and the rest in Italy.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 28.—Whatever help the share market might have received from the overwhelming government victory in the British elections was offset by such bearish developments as the cut in the Pennsylvania railroad dividend, the highly unsatisfactory steel report and the none-too-reassuring tone of the steel trade summaries.

Prices therefore once more took the downward course. The decline as on other recent days of the movement was a leisurely affair suggesting the absence of nearby liquidation of importance. Losses averaged about 1 to 3 points.

Selling in Rails Heavy.

The rails, true to their roles of heavy victims of the list, again bore the brunt of the selling. The street heard that much of the liquidation in this group was originating in London. A large British speculator, who has reputedly been a heavy seller in American securities for the last year or more, was reported to be putting over some sizeable bundles of today's orders.

Undoubtedly the Pennsylvania dividend cut influenced some operations on the bear side although the news was about what the street had been expecting. The Illinois road's action was still making itself felt and expectations that the board of the New York Central at its forthcoming meeting would add to the gloom were also factors of importance.

Bump Bottom Levels.

At some time or other during the course of the day most of the carriers bumped the bottoms they touched before so much excitement was stirred up over the reported Hoover plans for doing something in behalf of the railroad bond market and over the anticipated freight rate rise. Just how some of them shaped up at their worst in comparison with the early month lows and the highs reached in the rally is shown by the following table:

	Low Oct. 5.	High Oct. 30.	Low Today.

REGULATION

THE PRICE of electricity is regulated by the public at the point of its sale—by regulating electric-service companies which sell it. Restriction of so-called "holding companies" whose business is to raise capital for electric service companies would add nothing to the effectiveness of price regulation. On the contrary, it would severely interfere with the task of raising capital—which requires freedom of action if it is to be successful.

MIDDLE WEST UTILITIES COMPANY

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES WEAKEN; TRADING LAGS

Commonwealth Edison Is Down 3 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Reactionary tendencies were again in the saddle in the stock market yesterday, although the volume of trading on the Chicago exchange continued small in the face of the expansion of business in New York.

The beneficial effect of the strength in the wheat market and the favorable construction placed on the British election results was not enough to stimulate important bullish sentiment. With no signs of important liquidation in evidence, the weakness was attributed to a moderate increase in short selling. Rumors current that further unfavorable financial developments abroad were in store had no apparent foundation.

Net Losses Are Small.

Actual net losses on the Chicago board were small, but practically all classes of active stocks shared the weakness. Commonwealth Edison lost 3 points net on sales of 400 shares, while recessions in the lower priced utilities and miscellaneous issues amounted to a point or less.

Fitz Simons & Connell Dredge and Dock company announced the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock. Announcement was also made that the company will redeem its entire issue of 7 per cent preferred stock, of which there are 926 shares outstanding. The stock will be redeemed Nov. 30 at $105 a share. On completion of redemption there will be no senior securities or mortgages outstanding ahead of the common stock.

Shows Quarterly Loss.

Ainsworth Manufacturing company yesterday reported a net loss for the September quarter of $3,129, as compared with a net loss of $9,664 in the comparable period last year. For the nine months earnings amounted to $4,152, against $326,524 in the same period last year.

Trading was initiated yesterday in the class A participating stock of Southeastern Gas and Water company. The stock was quoted from ¾ to 1¼. Stock of Inland Utilities, Inc., one of the firm's predecessor companies, was removed from the list.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

William P. Allen of Wilmington, Del., yesterday was elected president of Childs company, chain restaurant operator, filling a vacancy which has existed since March, 1929. Mr. Allen resigned as vice president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. to devote his major activities to Childs company as a member of the board of directors and of the executive committee.

The governing committee of the Chicago stock exchange yesterday approved the transfer of memberships to Donald M. Woodruff, Detroit, and Roy I. Daniels, Frederick R. Tuerk, and Gilbert M. Clayton, Chicago.

Edward Letchworth has been elected a director of Pierce-Arrow Motor company to succeed the late Walter P. Cooke.

Edwin G. Merrill, president of the Bank of New York and Trust company, has been elected a director of the Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke company to succeed the late John B. Newton.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

An easier undertone prevailed in Board of Trade securities with Electric Bond and Share off 1⅛ and Standard Oil of Indiana ¼ for the day. Other issues showed little change. Total sales were 5,459 shares.

Pound Rallies on Election News, but Then Drops Back

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The pound sterling rallied moderately today on the election news, but the advance was somewhat smaller than had been expected, and the final quotation of $3.90¼ represented a net loss of half a cent. French francs eased and then firmed, the fluctuations being small.

WHEAT PRICES RISE AND FALL; CLOSE HIGHER

Market Up 14-15c Above Seasonal Low.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Cash wheat and futures continued to advance on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, with the deferred deliveries selling at a new high for the season to date and cash No. 2 hard winter in the sample market brought 59½c, the highest price since the new crop started to move.

Heavy profit taking by houses with eastern connections caused a reaction of around 1c from Tuesday's finish early, with the May dropping to 61¾c, but the early sellers later turned to the buying side and found offerings light, causing a bulge to 63¾c, the highest price for any of the old crop months since the December sold at 64c on July 1. The latter touched 53⅝c yesterday.

Price changes throughout the day were extremely erratic, with numerous breaks and bulges of 1c or more, heavy profit taking making its appearances on the swells, while the offerings on the breaks quickly disappeared. An advance of 4¾c in Buenos Aires wheat futures was responsible for a swift upturn at one time, but it lost its effect later, and closing trades in the local market were ¼c lower to ⅝c higher, with December, 57¾c; March, 61½c; May, 62¾@62¾c, and July, 63¼@63¾c.

Market's Action Puzzles Trade.

Action of the wheat market of late has puzzled the trade to some extent, but it was the general comment that the situation was tight and profit taking sales had a habit of disappearance on the breaks, with the buying hard to trace. At the top yesterday futures showed 14¼@15¾c above the low figures of the season made on Oct. 5.

No explanation was received as to the sharp upturn in Buenos Aires wheat, and that market closed 3¾@ 3⅞c higher, with the December, 50¾c, showing 12¼c above the close on Sept. 23. Liverpool gained 1⅛@1⅞d, making a full response to the advance in North America on Tuesday after allowance was made for the difference in the exchange, with December quoted at 61¼c on the basis of $3.90 for sterling, the highest price since July 25.

American and foreign officials issued numerous denials yesterday that France has bought American hard winter wheat, but the former was in the market for Manitobas during the day, with sales in all positions estimated at 1,000,000 bu or more, including some hard winter to the United Kingdom and the continent. Winnipeg futures finished ⅛@⅝c higher, with December at 62⅝c in Canadian currency, which remains around 10 per cent under American.

The upturn in wheat yesterday was in the face of weakness in the stock and cotton markets, and the belief that grains will lead the way to a general recovery in business is growing.

Corn Market Strong.

Corn was as erratic as wheat, breaking early, only to reverse its trend and advance 1⅝@2¼c from the early low and close ⅛@⅝c higher, with December, 38⅝@39c; May, 43⅜@43½c, and July, 44¾c. Some increase in the outside interest in the market was reported by pit brokers, while advices from Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa indicated farmers were not disposed to sell new grain freely at present prices. The holding movement on the part of the producer has become rather pronounced in some sections. Shipping sales of 160,000 bu were reported during the day.

A new factor was injected into the corn situation by an advance of 2¾@ 2½c in the Buenos Aires market, with the December there closing at 33½c, showing 11c above the close on Oct. 2, during which period the same delivery in Chicago has gained only 3¾c.

Profit Taking in Oats.

Profit taking was on in oats and, despite the strength in corn, the finish was unchanged to ⅛c lower, with December, 24¾c; May, 27c, and July, 26⅝@26¾c. Trade was heavy early, but became smaller later. The seaboard reported some foreign demand for oats, and there was a little barley sold to the continent.

Rye was little affected by the strength in wheat and closed unchanged to ¼c lower, although the deferred deliveries sold at a new high for the season during the day. December closed at 42c; March, 45¾c, and May, 46⅞c.

Laval Adviser Talks to Bankers, Cotton Men

New York, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Pierre du Pasquier, who came to the United States as an economic adviser to Premier Laval, was in Wall street today consulting bankers and cotton brokerage firms. M. du Pasquier declined to reveal the extent to which his negotiations for the purchase of cotton for French account had progressed but he said that he might have definite information to announce tomorrow after consulting officials of the federal farm board in Washington. He expects to leave New York for that city tonight. M. du Pasquier insisted that his visit does not concern the purchase of wheat.

Cattle Hide Imports Off 51 Per Cent So Far in 1931

Cattle hide imports this year thus far show a decline of 51 per cent from the corresponding period last year, figures compiled by the New York Hide exchange show. Imports at three of the leading ports of the United States up to and including the week ended Oct. 24 aggregated 1,229,018, against 2,542,124 hides during the same period last year.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1929, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.65. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.95 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
